CONDITIONED AIR GIVES CHICAGO A NEW INDUSTRY

Urge City to Seize Opportunity.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Air conditioning and railroad rehabilitation, to conform to the mile-a-minute speed era, are expected to open greater fields to Chicagoland's steel and iron industry, once recovery slips into high speed. The Chicago-Calumet region in Illinois and Indiana produces about 20 per cent of the steel and iron output of the United States and about 20 per cent of the high tensile, rustless alloy steels.

Though comparatively new, air conditioning, a depression baby, has already consumed more than 600,000 tons of steel in equipment, so the American Iron and Steel institute estimates.

Sheet steel is used in large quantities, and so is pipe. Within the next ten years, the institute figures, about 450,000 tons of steel a year will be used in air conditioning apparatus.

New Industry for City.

Here is a new industry, one of the youngest, of which Chicago has opportunity to become a center. Last year about $1,500,000 worth of systems were sold in the city, with indications that this year the volume will exceed $3,000,000. Chicago, with 617 separate installations of 42,000 fan pump refrigerator horse power, leads other world cities in air conditioning.

Once the devices are developed to the point where units are within reach of millions of workers and home owners of moderate means, builders see a great impulse for new style home building. As a gateway to the greatest buying power valley in the world, Chicago should evolve naturally as a center for this infant industry.

The average housewife in the United States uses 600 pounds of steel in her home, according to a recent estimate of the Iron and Steel institute after a survey of the importance of housewives as indirect customers of the steel mills.

Housewives Use Steel.

This is exclusive of furnaces, automobiles, and plumbing fixtures and construction steel. From hairpins and alarm clocks to kitchen stoves, bedsprings, and washing machines, the items are tabulated. They indicate the average housewife uses more than four times her weight in iron and steel in the appointments of the home. In a typical home which has mechanical refrigeration the total steel used is figured at 934 pounds. With the new uses for steel which are constantly being found, especially since the development of the stainless, nonrusting alloys, the amount is expected to be materially increased in a few years.

Likewise, steel houses and the recent development of steel barns, silos, cribs, and small buildings are expected to expand the market once buying power gets back to normal. On the farms, machinery needs replacement just as does the rolling stock of the railroads.

Farms Use More Steel.

Last year saw the largest demand for steel for agricultural uses since the peak of 1929. The American Iron and Steel institute says the value of farm implement production was about 170 million dollars in 1934, which was about 50 per cent higher than in 1933. It forecasts a volume of output valued at 250 million dollars as the expectation for 1935.

Chicago steel men regard the high tensile noncorrosive alloys as the greatest thing in the industry in the last two decades. Modernization of the railroads for age of speed has just started. The mills and factories and railroads have been experimenting in their laboratories with improved rails and fastenings, and much design work is being done in steel alloy freight cars as well as in the streamlined passenger trains.

Center of Car Building.

Chicago is center of the greatest railroad car building pool on earth.

Industries are not unlike live stock marketing where the raiser of fancy stock, instead of shipping to the nearest market where buying power of consumers may be low, ships to Chicago, where there is a market for prize cuts at good prices. In the new age of alloys and plastics, Chicago is right at the doorstep of the midwest, a region of tremendous buying power for the best goods whenever it has the money.

It is one of the reasons, added to geography and the greatest transportation system in the world, which industrialists predict will bring in new plants as the highest grade industries get closer to the market.

ILLINOIS HOUSE VOTES 95-1 TO BAR LOVE SUITS

Poll Requires Only Five Minutes.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—Heart balm, the house of representatives decided overwhelmingly today, should be outlawed in Illinois. By the positive vote of 95 to 1 the McSweeney bill was passed and one chamber of the general assembly was placed on record for legislation which has been passed in Indiana and is now in the hands of New York's governor.

Representative John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago] had no difficulty in convincing his colleagues that heart balm was a racket and that provisions for such suits should be removed from the statutes. He made a brief explanation of the bill and, without further ado or objection, the roll was called. In less than five minutes the vote was announced and the bill made ready for submission to the senate. The sole opponent was Representative Robert H. Allison [Rep., Pekin].

Identical with Indiana Bill.

McSweeney's bill, he said, is identical with that passed by the Indiana assembly under sponsorship of Representative Roberta West Nicholson.

McSweeney's measure was the first to be passed of a series of important bills aimed at elimination of evils in the divorce and separate maintenance laws.

Judge Rudolph Desort of Chicago is behind four measures which will receive first consideration by the senate. Two have been introduced and two others will be presented after the Easter recess. The sponsor is R. V. Graham [Dem., Cicero], president pro tempore.

The first of the Desort bills is on second reading on the senate calendar, after having been favorably reported by the judiciary committee. It was designed to abolish "gin weddings," the sort of drunken nuptials performed at Gretna Greens, usually in the hours just preceding dawn.

Seeks Three Day Notice First.

To make this sort of spur of the moment ceremony impossible, Judge Desort believes that couples planning marriage should be required to file notice of intention to wed with county clerks at least three days before a marriage license could be issued. Graham said today he would attempt to make passage of this bill certain the week following the recess.

The second Desort bill is a companion measure to one passed by the legislature in 1933, which provided that husbands could be granted alimony by courts. The present bill would permit husbands to apply for separate maintenance. Neither party, however, could receive separate maintenance for more than two years, at the end of which time a divorce would have to be obtained or maintenance cease.

This bill has been referred to the judiciary committee and the chairman, Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], said today that it would have a prompt hearing after the recess.

May Withdraw "Balm" Bill.

Two other bills originally were outlined for submission to the legislature by Judge Desort. One was designed to change the alienation of affections and breach of promise laws, but owing to the success of the McSweeney bill in the house today Judge Desort is expected to study it to see how closely its provisions agree with the house measure. It may be decided that the McSweeney bill is sufficient.

The final bill of the Desort program will provide that co-respondents in divorce suits in which adultery is charged become parties to the suit and must receive notice of the proceedings so that they may appear if they choose. No co-respondent in such a case would be named in the original bill and the co-respondent would be identified only after a judge, before whom a preliminary hearing had been held, had given his permission.

Goes to N. Y. Governor.

Albany, N. Y., March 20.—(AP)—The drastic McNaboe bill, an attempt to strike a legislative blow at "gold diggers" by abolishing heart balm suits, slipped quietly through final passage in the legislature today.

Tonight the bill was on Gov. Lehman's desk for signature or veto.

The assembly approved the measure today without any of the hot debate that marked its stormy passage through the senate yesterday. Some assemblymen joked with their neighbors as the roll call of 140 names was read. Others listened intently. Only six voted "no."

The McNaboe bill, if signed by Gov. Lehman, will abolish damage suits for alienation of affections, breach of promise, seduction, or criminal conversation.

Dying Nelson's Visit to Priest Is Told in Trial

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

The dramatic story of a Catholic priest, revealing that the dying "Baby Face" Nelson appeared at his door shortly after the outlaw was wounded last Nov. 27, was told yesterday to a jury in the court of Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

The priest, the Rev. Philip W. Coughlan, testified as a government witness against John Paul Chase, former Pacific coast bootlegger, who is on trial for the murder of Samuel P. Cowley, one of the two federal agents killed in the gun battle at Barrington during which Nelson was mortally wounded.

Points Out Chase in Court.

Father Coughlan pointed out Chase in court as the companion of Nelson, whose real name was Lester Gillis, and of his wife, Mrs. Helen Gillis. Mrs. Gillis, the priest said, rang the doorbell of his sister's home in Wilmette on the night of Nov. 27, asked to see the priest, and then told him her husband was dying and urged him to take in the outlaw. The priest refused to allow Nelson in the house, he said.

He had met Nelson and his wife at Long Beach, Ind., in the summer of 1933, Father Coughlan said. He knew them then as Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, but had discovered their real identities before they came to him on that November evening of last year, he explained.

U. S. Lifts Curtain.

The priest's testimony lifted the curtain for the first time on some of the events between the time of the gun battle, in which Cowley and Agent Herman Hollis were killed, and the discovery of Nelson's body the next morning in Niles Center.

Father Coughlan, a mysterious witness, whose present status in the church was not revealed by the government, was taken into Judge Sullivan's courtroom under a heavy guard of federal agents. The name and address of his sister in Wilmette were suppressed. He told his story under the questioning of Brien McMahon, special assistant to the United States attorney general.

In telling of the call of "Mr. and Mrs. Williams" at his sister's home Father Coughlan recalled that there was a man with them whom the woman introduced as Ed Burns.

"Do you see the man called Ed Burns in this court?" Prosecutor McMahon asked.

The priest rose and pointed to the defendant Chase. Chase also stood up.

"That's the man," Father Coughlan said.

"Mrs. Williams asked me to take her husband into the house," the priest continued. "I had been alone

BOASTING HOLDUP SLAYER DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Chester Novak, 30 years old, who shot and killed a robbery victim who was too slow in raising his hands, paid the penalty of his crime in the electric chair at the county jail early today. He was led into the death chamber at 11:59 p. m., strapped to the chair at midnight, and given the electric charge one minute later. He was pronounced dead at 12:12 a. m.

Novak made good his boast that he would die a "tough guy." He spent his last evening, after eating a hearty supper of his own choosing, playing pinochle with his guards. He refused spiritual consolation, although two clergymen appeared at the jail and offered their services.

The murder for which Novak was convicted was that of Henry Mendelbaum, 48 years old, 2031 Pierce avenue. It took place on July 1, 1934. George Gross, 35 years old, a confederate of Novak, also was convicted of murder and was sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary. Novak declared that he preferred the death sentence to life in prison.

Three "last hopes" of the condemned man came to nothing yesterday.

Judge Harry B. Miller refused to grant a stay on arguments of Attorney Herbert M. Wetzel that only two of the judges of the Illinois Supreme court had denied Novak a writ of supersedeas.

An insanity petition, filed for the killer by Mrs. Anna Gross, wife of George, was denied, and Gov. Horner at Springfield refused to intervene.

Novak was an old offender, having been found guilty of robbery and sent to the penitentiary on Feb. 18, 1925. He was paroled in April, 1934.

RELIEF CHEATER WITH $5,000 GETS YEAR AND $10 FINE

Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman yesterday sentenced Vasilios Eliopoulos, 46 years old, 714 North May street, to one year in the Bridewell and fined him $10 as a relief cheater. Illinois Emergency Relief commission investigators proved that Eliopoulos had a $5,000 bank account when he applied for relief on Sept. 19, 1933, and submitted a sworn affidavit that he was without resources.

The defendant pleaded that the investigators did not discover the fraud until he had lost the money. He said he sent $2,000 to cover investments in Greece, gave another $2,000 to needy relatives in New York, and lost the last $1,000 in a bank failure. Eliopoulos also sought leniency on the grounds that he has a wife and four children.

Judge Gorman declared the case was "particularly heinous" and directed Eliopoulos also to repay $673 received in relief.

Duststorm, Heavy Rains Usher Spring

Dust storm blankets western areas, paralyzing trafic, interrupting business and causing heavy property damage. Details on page 7.

Freakish weather yesterday preceded the advent of spring, which arrives officially this morning at 7:18 o'clock Then the sun crosses the equator on its trip north for a six months' stay.

Yesterday brought rain, the heaviest fall of the year, which flooded subways, highways, and basements. It brought dense fog, which was dissipated in thunderstorms and electrical displays. The climax came last night with summer temperatures and with a western dust storm which filtered through the city in a choking mist, covering everything with a film.

And, just to insure that the arrival of spring this year will be an occasion to be remembered, the moderate, fair weather predicted for this morning is due to give way by night to freezing temperatures.

Deficiencies Become Excesses.

Starting in early yesterday, the rain fell intermittently throughout the day. Two heavy showers, between noon and 3 o'clock and again for half an hour at 6:30 p. m., brought a total precipitation of .78 of an inch. This moisture transformed rainfall deficiencies into an excess for the month of .68 of an inch and an excess for the year of .57 of an inch.

So far this month precipitation has amounted to 2.16 inches. Normal for the entire month is about 2.58 inches. Last March had only 1.21 inches.

During the day the temperature remained fairly constant around 48 degrees, but at nightfall it began to rise. By 9 o'clock it reached 65 at the airport, but at midnight it had fallen to 60.

Lightning Strikes Tower.

The lightning during the second thundershower, in the evening, struck Mitchell tower, at 57th street and University avenue, on the Midway, and knocked off large chunks of limestone. Several fell through the roof and rain flooded the interior. Another piece dropped through the roof of a car parked below in the street.

Swept up from the plains of Kansas and Wyoming, where it eddied in a choking cloud all day, the dust reached Chicago about 10 o'clock last night as the wind shifted from the south to the west. With the gradual swing of the wind to the northwest the dust slowly lessened in intensity.

Mr. Dubetz Meets a Wolf and Rises to the Occasion

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., March 20.—(AP)—The strains of "God Save the King" were too much for a wolf that menaced George Dubetz, section foreman. Dubetz, unarmed, steeled himself for the wolf's attack by whistling the national anthem. The wolf fled.

Drop Curbs on Spring Wheat; Fear Shortage

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today announced an agrarian paradox. Under an order promulgated by him, wheat farmers will sow to the last inch of this spring's acreage and get the full market price for their grain. Still they will get pay from the government for the 10 per cent of their acreage they promised to plow under.

The secretary lifted the restrictions on the planting of spring wheat in a bow to Mother Nature. He explained his move as a safeguard against a possible shortage of wheat in the event of a repetition of the drouth of last summer.

Hopes for Milder Drouth.

Wallace conceded that the drouth of last year may recur this summer, although he expressed the hope that its visitation will be milder. Two weeks ago the secretary assumed the rôle of weather prophet and declared that from evidence gathered by his department there was no indication of a return of the drouth this year.

The authorization, it was said, is conditional upon agreement by farmers to offset their 1935 production increases by proportional crop curtailment in 1936.

In Consumer's Interest.

"We have a definite duty to consumers to protect them against drouth," Wallace said, "so we will not have to import certain varieties of wheat if another occurs. We decided that the government and the farmers owe a duty to the consumer. But the government and the consumer owe a duty to the farmer in case of unusually favorable weather this year."

The decision, according to estimates of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, will result in the planting of from 900,000 to 2,300,000 acres of spring wheat. This, it was said, will increase the 1935 crop by from 10 to 30 million bushels. The yield in 1934 was about ten million bushels, AAA officials said.

Near Drouth in 8 States.

AAA officials said that rainfall conditions were reassuring over most of the country, but drouth conditions are indicated in the western parts of the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and the Texas panhandle and eastern parts of Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana.

The lifting of the restriction on spring wheat was the latest of the New Deal abandonments of crop control enforcement. Previously they have issued orders allowing increases in production of corn, cotton, hogs, and other crops.

IOWA MAN SEEKS QUARANTINE SIGN TO SCARE OFF KIN

Sioux City, Ia., March 20.—(AP)—Mrs. June Stitt, health department inspector, received a request for a quarantine placard that would keep relatives away.

The man seeking the placard pleaded his wife had so many relatives he wanted the health department to post a placard on his house to scare them away.

Health department authorities, although expressing sympathy, ruled that having relatives was not a communicable disease, even though it might be an affliction, so no placard could be posted.

NOTE INVOKES PEACE TREATY; DEFY GERMANY

Can Defend Selves, Premier Cries.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 20.—Urged on by the mounting war scare in the chamber of deputies, the French government today reluctantly played its trump card, which automatically steps up by several notches the element of melodrama in the present European crisis.

PREMIER FLANDIN.

This card was an appeal to the league of nations, telegraphed to Geneva tonight, to convoke an extraordinary session of the league council to deal with Germany's violation of the treaty of Versailles under Article XI. of the league covenant. This article provides that members of the league may "bring to the attention of the assembly or of the council any circumstance whatever affecting international relations which threatens to disturb international peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends."

Premier Denounces Germany.

The appeal to the league was Foreign Minister Pierre Laval's first idea after the German rearmament announcement last Saturday, but owing to British opposition it was temporarily abandoned. French irritation over Great Britain's separate note to Germany, and the pressure of the nationalist parties in the chamber, impelled the cabinet to take the drastic step.

At the same time Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin delivered a ringing statement of France's policy in the senate, in which he reminded Germany of its war guilt and affirmed:

"France cannot accept the reich's thesis any more than it can accept Germany's justifications of its action. Reconciliation between the two countries cannot be based on a travesty on truth and on the negation of right and justice.

"France is strong enough to defend itself, but if necessary we can defend ourselves by our alliances. A coalition of peoples fighting for justice was victorious in 1918 and it will be again in the future. Our soldiers would be filled with the same spirit of sacrifice in case of an emergency as they were in 1918. Germany's rearmament imposes upon us the duty to be vigilant."

Blames Germany for War.

Flandin, insisting that the world long ago gave judgment on the responsibility for the war, said Hitler should reread the memoirs of B. W. von Buelow, which explained how Germany declared war on Russia. He denied that Germany voluntarily laid down its arms in 1918, but that France accepted the armistice to avoid further bloodshed.

The premier emphasized that France had kept its disarmament pledge by reducing its effectives 50 per cent and also by cutting down military service from three years to one and diminishing the fleet below treaty limits. But across the Rhine, he said, existed rearmament in fact behind disarmament in principle.

He recalled how, from Spa to Lausanne, France had abandoned a long list of sacred claims on Germany, all of which the latter had, he said, forgotten.

Recalls Bolt from Geneva.

"It was at the moment Geneva was renewing disarmament talks that Germany chose to say it was menaced," he cried. "By whom can it say it is menaced? If France now protests to the league of nations about the latest threat to peace it is not its own interest it is serving, but the interest of all states. The world's peace is at stake, a peace founded on justice and honor which now absorbs us. This is no longer a Franco-German question.

"There are in Europe many weak nations whose existence would be threatened if we allowed a policy of force to replace a policy of justice. Certainly we do not intend to abide by injustice or an intolerable situation. Within the framework of the law all arrangements of treaties are possible.

"The government will do all that must be done to maintain peace and will not cease to group about itself great nations which have kept the same ideal. All France henceforth must be united in sacred love of country. We must recognize that anti-army propaganda is a crime of high treason. We have had enough of negation of the idea of the motherland. Enough, Enough! Let us reëstablish union. Let us recreate a national soul."

Vote to Raise Army Service.

The senate, after listening to Flandin's energetic declaration, voted confidence in the government on its plan to increase the term of compulsory military service from one year to two. The vote was 263 to 21.

The significance of the French appeal to Geneva is not its possible efficacy against Germany, which, it is generally agreed, will be nil, but the pressure it will exert on Great Britain. The British shudder at the mere idea of the league council sitting as a sort of international tribunal, passing sentence on Germany by default and branding it as an outlaw among nations.

The French and Italians are now agreed that they will not sign any arms convention which does not allow them military superiority over Germany to compensate for Germany's greater population and potential war strength.

Laval Will Visit Moscow.

If Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, does not agree to force this concession down Reichsfuehrer Hitler's throat during the visit in Berlin next week, France is going ahead with its intention to raise an international hue and cry against Germany at Geneva. That is what is back of the latest French move, which was formally decided at this morning's council of ministers.

At the same meeting it was also decided that Laval would go to Moscow and the French protest note, the general lines of which were reported in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, was approved without change. It was telegraphed to Berlin today, as was a similarly worded Italian message, and will be published tomorrow.

The French note denounces the German action as a violation of "human rights and international law," and informs Reichsfuehrer Hitler that so far as France is concerned, Germany is still bound by the Versailles treaty and France will not recognize any agreement negotiated with England or other powers that legalizes repudiation of the treaty.

Act to Increase Air Force.

Other measures decided or projected today are the following:

FIRST—Gen. Victor Denain, air minister, appeared before the air commission of the chamber of deputies and asked for authorization to increase this year's aviation program from $65,000,000 to $95,000,000 by drawing an advance on the total of the three year program, fixed at $200,000,000.

SECOND—The deputies asked Gen. Louis Philip Thomas Maurin, minister of war, to appear tomorrow before them and state what measures he is taking to protect the country against a German attack. It is understood the commission will ask about the advisability of such measures as immediately manning the border fortifications on a war time basis, keeping the military class which is due to be liberated in April under arms another six months, and creating a motorized professional corps as a strategic reserve back of the fortified area.

THIRD—Acceptance by the French government of the British proposal to send Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, to Paris Saturday for a three power conference on the eve of Simon's visit to Berlin. Fulvio Suvich, Italian undersecretary of foreign affairs, is coming to represent Premier Mussolini. A second consultation will be held on Simon's return from the German capital and before the league of nations' council is convoked at Geneva.

GERMANS SCORN FRENCH PROTEST ON REARMAMENT

Defense of Step Is Easy, Official Claims.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 20.—While a German official was expressing confidence that "it will be easy to answer any arguments against Germany's step," the French ambassador, André François-Poncet, spent the afternoon in a futile effort to present to the foreign office notification that France is filing a protest with the league of nations against German military conscription.

Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath sidestepped the Paris envoy by attending a tea and reception at which the chairman of the German Olympic committee told of the efficient, thorough and enthusiastic preparations for the Olympic games in 1936.

François-Poncet thus was delayed until tomorrow to present his note, when, diplomatic circles believe, Italy also will make known a protest.

Claim Hitler Has New Plan.

"Protests and complaints, threats or promises, will not change the German attitude," a high Nazi official declared tonight. "Germany has given herself the military safety to which she is entitled. We are all military equals in Europe now, and, to get on, this must be borne in mind by negotiators in all forthcoming talks."

Several recent statements of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Reich Air Minister Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering revived the impression among foreign observers here that Hitler has devised his own scheme for the pacification of Europe to supercede the league of nations, which Germany regards an adjunct of the hated Versailles treaty.

Prominent Nazis declared Hitler wants to hold back his definite plans until he confers with British Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon and his assistant, Capt. Anthony Eden, here Monday and Tuesday.

Warn Against Conspiracy.

The Deutsche Diplomatische Korrespondenz, official government newspaper, took veiled cognizance of the meeting of French, Italian and British representatives in Paris Saturday prior to the Simon visit to Berlin, saying:

"Nothing can be more dangerous than a new risk in western Europe which might lead to the formation of blocs of enemies. After the independent English attitude recently displayed that not all international decisions necessarily must come from Paris, it appeared that the basis of free discussion seems to be insured.

"It was indicated in London that the British policy is not aimed at taking sides pro or con regarding a certain nation, but to work for complete rapprochement of all countries. Germany has a keen interest in knowing that friendships are not exaggerated into conspiracies against another nation."

Yesterday's military air maneuvers—the first since the war—were continued today with a simulated air raid over Kreuzberg district of Berlin.

Bombing planes flew low over the district dropping cannon cracker "bombs." Automobile carrying gas masks and stretchers rushed through the streets to give first aid.

Two Lengths of Service.

Several points of the German military plans were revealed today. Orders are being issued now, and will be until the middle of April, for new conscripts to report for service Oct. 1.

"Conscripts will be somewhat cramped for space at first, but they are young and do not need fancy quarters. The old time imperial soldier used to sleep in double deck beds. Now we will use three-decker beds and the boys will get along all right."

Gen. Hans von Seeckt, organizer of the reichswehr [long service army], after the war, had the idea that Germany should have two kinds of soldiers—conscripts and long term men. The treaty forbid the conscript service. Now the plan will become a reality since soldiers of many branches of the army which are based on technical knowledge will serve much longer than infantry men, who are scheduled to serve a year.

'Big 3' of Europe to Confer on Steps Against Germany

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 20.—Responding to the hysterical French outburst over Great Britain's temerity in replying to the German rearmament declaration without first consulting the Quai d'Orsay, the British government today suggested that Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, go to Paris Saturday for a meeting there with Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs Fulvio Suvich of Italy and Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France.

Then under this plan Eden would join Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, in Berlin in time for the scheduled conversations with German officials there Monday and Tuesday.

France Is Dissatisfied.

Already there are indications that the French are not completely pacified and that they feel slighted because Simon does not rush to Paris personally instead of sending an assistant.

The British action is symbolical of the new British orientation. While there is no desire to cut loose from the French-Italian-Belgian entente, there is a definite determination that Great Britain shall have full say in future political moves and will not be content longer to act on orders from France or on the French estimate of dangers which the British often think do not exist.

According to present plans Eden will fly to Paris Saturday morning and meet Suvich and Laval, either returning to London the same day in time to fly to Berlin with Simon Sunday or going directly by train from Paris to Berlin.

Frown on League Protest.

The British are not likely to associate themselves with a French protest to the league of nations against Germany's rearmament. They have decided that the fact might as well be recognized, and the purpose of the visit of Simon and Eden to Berlin is to find out what Germany intends to do, now that it has secured equality in armaments.

This means they want to know whether Reichsfuehrer Hitler is going to play a lone hand or come back into the league.

Simon today officially informed Ray Atherton, chargé d'affaires of the American embassy, of all the events of the last few days. Atherton called upon Simon at the latter's request.

RUSSIA LAUNCHES DRIVE TO FOMENT GERMAN REVOLT

Urges Workers to Oust Nazis.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, March 20.—While the soviet press continued today to charge that Germany's restoration of compulsory military service was the first move in plans for war against Russia, Dictator Stalin's government controled radio station took a hand in the fight.

The station Comintern [communist Internationale] at Moscow broadcast a program of lectures by the German faculty of Moscow university. These lectures advised German workers as to the proper methods of organizing secretly to overthrow the Nazi regime. German communists were told they must prepare to help the soviet government in event Germany is planning a war of conquest to the east.

Charge British German Plot.

The forthcoming reception of Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, in Moscow will be cool, according to the newspaper Pravda, official organ of the Kremlin, which today blamed Great Britain for Germany's rearmament.

Pravda alleged that London is plotting with Germany to change the map of Europe, and is sabotaging the cause of peace.

Pravda charged that the forthcoming visit to Berlin of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, is merely a sham and that the program for that visit was drawn up long ago. It sees confirmation of this assertion in the visits to Berlin last January of Lord Lothian and Lord Allen of Hurtwood, who, following their discussions with Reichfuehrer Hitler, returned to England and became advocates of giving Germany a free hand in eastern Europe. Lord Allen of Hurtwood, according to Prevda, was greeted in Berlin as a confidential agent of the British prime minister.

Orders Riots Abroad.

The Moscow Trud, organ of soviet labor unions, carries on its front page an appeal from the labor unions department of the communist Internationale, calling upon foreign unions to demonstrate with the communists on May 1 against Fascism, capitalism, and the threat of war. It especially asks coöperation between the labor unions of France and Spain for furthering the projected world revolution.

Besides demanding that Germany permit organization of independent labor unions, the proclamation orders Red agents abroad to coöperate for the realization of Moscow's most important command addressed to the world labor movement—establishment of a united front of unions under the communist Internationale's leadership.

The proclamation further denounces Italy for sending troops to Ethiopia, Japan's policy of imperialist aggression in the far east, and the Fascist governments in Germany, Austria, and Spain, which have outlawed the communist movement.

GERMANY REPORTED NEAR ECONOMIC CRASH; WAR SOON POSSIBLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 20.—The prediction that Germany is on the verge of financial and economic collapse, that war is possible in the near future in central Europe, and that the Hitler government may soon confiscate all industrial capital is made in a 20 page document which three United States diplomatic attachés have sent to President Roosevelt after many weeks of thorough investigation in Berlin.

The Paris newspaper Jour tomorrow morning is publishing a summary of the report, which it guarantees to be authentic. It explains that Mr. Roosevelt some time ago personally asked the American embassy at Berlin to file a political, financial, and economic report of the situation there. Three attachés, one of whom came from the London embassy, were assigned to the job.

The report contains nine chapters with these conclusions in addition to those mentioned above:

FIRST—No pacific evolution is possible in Germany.

SECOND—The Nazi government will last several years because there is no opposition.

THIRD—Raw materials will become extremely scarce after April.

FOURTH—The present resources of Germany are not sufficient for the population.

FIFTH—American business men are advised to hold only real estate in Germany, since that is the only kind of property the Hitler government will not dare confiscate.

COPIES OF EXILE'S ATTACK ON NAZIS SPREAD IN MUNICH

MUNICH, Germany, March 20.—(AP)—Under the scarehead "Murderers Cannot Be Leaders in Germany," copies of Otto Strasser's blackfront organ "Deutsche Revolution," printed in Czechoslovakia, appeared secretly here today.

The issue contained allegations that an engineer named Formis had been killed in Czechoslovakia by an emissary of the government. It was estimated 300 copies are sent regularly to dissatisfied old Nazis.

FRIENDLY TERMS WITH ALL, KEY TO POLICY OF U. S.

Roosevelt Gives Hint at Press Parley.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today expressed the hope that the American principle of "good neighbor" might be extended to Europe as a basis for the peaceful settlement of the tense situation brought about by Germany's decision to rearm through conscription.

The President said the United States will maintain this principle. He was asked to comment on the German decision at his press conference this morning. He added that he hoped that good neighborliness might be extended in Europe to become a more and more vital factor in bringing about an amicable solution of the German problem and be an essential and component part of a disarmament movement.

Protest Question Open.

The President declined to say whether this government will send a note to Germany protesting against its move to abrogate military provisions of the separate treaty with this country. Although the United States is not a signatory to the Versailles treaty, the separate peace treaty, negotiated with Germany, incorporates the military phases of the Versailles treaty.

Comment was also withheld on whether an American observer will be sent to the proposed conference of representatives of France, England, and Italy on the German decision. It was indicated, however, during the day that none will be sent.

President Roosevelt said the outlook of the long standing deadlocked Geneva disarmament conference was more promising than appeared on the surface. He said that details had been discussed more thoroughly than ever before, so that the general situation was more hopeful than it was six weeks ago.

Officials Remain Silent.

Meanwhile, officials of the state department continued to maintain their policy of silence on the German question. Secretary of State Cordell Hull said he had nothing new to report, but promised to make public immediately any action taken by his department.

As administration officials weighed the situation, the house military and naval committees laid plans to push forward measures to increase the nation's defenses on land, afloat, and in the air. The naval committee plans to bring up bills to strengthen Pacific naval bases and increase the navy air force as soon as the veterans' bonus is voted upon.

Hearings were set for Friday by the military subcommittee on aviation for a bill to develop army air bases in the United States, Panama, and Alaska. Other subcommittees were planning to advocate hearings on a 450 million dollar army modernization program.

HERRIOT SAYS NAZIS BUILD CANNON WITH RANGE OF 75 MILES

PARIS, March 20.—(AP)—A charge that Germany is building long range guns of 75 miles or more, like those which bombarded Paris during the world war, was made tonight by former Premier Edouard Herriot.

Speaking at a meeting of his Radical Socialist party, Herriot said Germany was making tremendous efforts to make ready the country for "dreadful ends."

"Tanks, forts protected by high tension wires, and camouflaged forests which hide ammunition dumps and a heavy gun platform are being hurriedly constructed," he said. "The least important workmen on these projects are bound to secrecy by oath, with death the penalty for violation."

WRECK JEWISH SHOP LIGHTED DURING AIR DRILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 20.—Semina, a shop specializing in women's attire, owned by a Jew named Weber and situated in Steglitz, a suburb of Berlin, was wrecked and rifled during the air raid drill Tuesday night.

When the shop closed an automatic device was set to turn off the lighting system at 10 o'clock. It failed, however, and the lights continued to burn when the city was supposed to be darkened.

An incensed crowd stoned the windows. Storm Troopers hastened to cover the windows with paint and other dark material. Meanwhile the crowd seized the opportunity to supply themselves with the latest spring fashions free of charge.

Editor Denies 'Duty to Buy Nazi Newspapers'; Arrested

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, March 20.—Because he asserted civil servants and members of various other professional groups and party organizations did not need to regard subscription to a Nazi newspaper as a duty expected of them by the government, the editor of the Koelnische Zeitung, Johann Schaefer, was arrested today by the secret police. The Berliner Tageblatt states he was released later in the day.

German Athlete Arrested Photographing French Fort

METZ, France, March 20.—(AP)—Emmanuel Bernhardt, 25, a member of the German soccer team that defeated a French squad in Paris Sunday, was jailed here today on charges of photographing frontier fortifications. Bernhardt told police he found the door to the Metz fortifications open, walked in out of curiosity, and took several pictures. He was held for investigation.

THOUSANDS MILL THROUGH HARLEM RIOT DISTRICTS

Blame Reds for Stirring Up Uprising.

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—Crowds of restless colored residents and thousands of curious white visitors thronged Harlem's sidewalks tonight. They were under the sharp watch of more than 500 policemen, and there were no new outbreaks such as kept the district in turmoil all Tuesday night and early this morning.

Of the 100 or more white men and colored persons who were shot, stabbed, clubbed or stoned during the rioting of Tuesday night, only a handful remained in Harlem hospitals. These, however, were on the critical list. Up to tonight there was only one death.

While the police seemed certan that they had enough men in the district to put down any new uprising of the hoodlum element that looted stores and broke more than 200 shop windows during the rioting, the Merchants' Association of Harlem telegraphed to Gov. Herbert Lehman that the police force was inadequate and made a plea for "military assistance."

Accuse Reds of Starting It.

While Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia blamed the riots upon "a few irresponsible individuals," others accused Communists of using the supposed attack upon a 16 year old candy grabber as a pretext for fomenting the outbreak.

Mayor La Guardia, in a statement at city hall, said:

"The unfortunate occurrence of last night and early this morning was instigated and artificially stimulated by a few irresponsible individuals," and appointed a committee to begin an investigation into the rioting and into the "cause of the disorder."

He also sent into the Harlem district tonight two patrol wagon loads of circulars appealing to the law abiding element to keep their heads and to assist public officials in getting at the source of the trouble.

Leaders Blame Discrimination.

Harlem's colored leaders seemed divided on the cause of the riot. Some blamed the communists, other said the communists merely stepped in and took advantage of the rioting after it started. All seemed to agree, however, that the "basic cause is economic maladjustment; segregation of and discrimination against colored persons in the matter of employment."

A group of Harlem's colored leaders and some white men interested in the welfare of the race, after a meeting in the home of the Rev. A. Clayton Powell Jr., issued a statement to that effect. Dr. Clayton said a mass meeting may be held in Madison Square Garden soon to acquaint New Yorkers with conditions under which Harlem Negroes live.

Statements issued by communist organizations tried to fix the whole blame for the trouble on the policemen. They maintained that the police were unjustifiably brutal in keeping down the crowds. Witnesses, however, said the police kept cool, even when they were stoned by enraged hoodlums; that snipers started the shooting.

Boy, Unmarked, at Home.

Lino Rivera, a Porto Rican boy who was ejected from the Kress store Tuesday afternoon after one of the floor walkers had seen him take a 10 cent penknife from a tray, was a dejected figure at his home tonight.

Despite the inflammatory communist handbills charging that he had been brutally beaten, the boy was unmarked. He was overwhelmed by the fact that his desire for a 10 cent knife had precipitated the riot and resultant bloodshed. His mother, a widow, harangued him in Spanish in the presence of reporters; she said she was ill as a result of his escapade.

RESTAURANT OWNER ROBBED.

John Chipain, his wife, and a waitress were alone in his restaurant at 3201 West 51st street yesterday when three men walked in and drew pistols. The robbers took $245 then fled in an automobile bearing Iowa license plates.

Hollywood, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—June Grabiner, 20 year old daughter of Harry Grabiner, executive of Chicago White Sox, was signed today to a five year optional motion picture contract by Warner Brothers, and will start her acting career at once with a bit in "Crashing Society," a Guy Kibbee-Zasu Pitts-Edward Everett Horton comedy. A brunette weighing 118 pounds and 5 feet 4½ inches tall, Miss Grabiner was given a prior screen test by Paramount studio last year. She was educated at Starrett school and the University of Chicago.

CHINESE IS 'COLORED, TOO,' BUT IT FAILS TO SAVE HIS SHOP

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—The rioting in Harlem was not without a grim touch of humor, here and there.

The proprietor of a Chinese laundry at 367 Lenox avenue shared the fears of other store owners on the street as hoodlums raged along the sidewalks shattering windows with bricks and stones.

Then he noticed that shopkeepers were painting on their display windows, in huge white letters, the word: "COLORED," to warn the rioters off. He adopted the idea and up went a sign: "ME COLORED TOO."

The window was smashed.

BUTTER STOLEN FROM SPEEDING BOX CAR; 4 HELD

Four men who are alleged to have looted a freight car on the Santa Fe railroad of 29 tubs of butter were arrested yesterday by the county highway police at Willow Springs.

The investigators asserted that the men boarded the train at Harlem avenue and tossed out the tubs as the train was moving, returning later to pick them up. One of the four, William Vyskocial, 22 years old, 4526 South Maple avenue, Forest View, was carrying a tub on his back when he was seized. He named his companions, George Patz, 28 years old, 4439 South Maple avenue; Joseph Pabian, 42 years old, 4341 South Wisconsin avenue, and Frank Zick, 28 years old, 4343 South Wisconsin, all of Stickney. The prisoners are to be turned over to federal authorities.

Raiders Seize Lottery Slips, Two Women and Five Men

A hotel clerk told police that Richard E. Lazarus of Peoria tried to sell lottery tickets. Arrested, Lazarus directed Capt. Martin Mullen and his gambling squad yesterday to 3264 Washington boulevard, where they seized several thousand tickets and arrested persons who said they were Jack Damask, Julian and David Shapiro, brothers; Eric Fellenius and Lillian, his wife, and a colored maid, Willie Evans. One prisoner said the fiat was a branch of a national lottery system.

SPEED UP TIME OF '400,' FASTEST AMERICAN TRAIN

North Western Cuts 30 Minutes Off Run.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The fastest train on the American continent is to be speeded up to run still faster. Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railway, announced yesterday that on April 28 the running time of the "400" will be reduced half an hour on its trip between Chicago and the Twin Cities.

On its new schedule the "400" will travel the 408.6 miles between Chicago and St. Paul in 390 minutes, or an average of 63 miles an hour. The time between Chicago and Milwaukee will be shortened 5 minutes, so the train will travel the 85 miles between the two in 75 minutes, or at the rate of 68 miles an hour.

Change with Daylight Saving.

The increase in speed will be made when the schedules are rearranged to conform with daylight saving time. On the daylight saving schedule the train will leave Chicago at 4:30 p. m. [3:30 standard time] and arrive at St. Paul at 10 p. m. central standard time. It will arrive at Minneapolis at 10:30. Taking into account the hour gained through daylight saving, the train will in effect give 5½ hour service to St. Paul, allowing business men almost a full day here.

The "400" will leave Minneapolis at 3 p. m. and St. Paul at 3:30 p. m., arriving at Chicago at 11 p. m. daylight saving time or 10 o'clock central standard time.

Locomotives Prove Ability.

There will be no change in the equipment, the same E-2-A type of steam locomotives pulling the train. Mr. Sargent said these engines demonstrated their ability to meet the faster running time last winter when they were able to maintain the regular schedules, with late arrivals occurring only a couple of times.

Mr. Sargent said the trains were able to make up without difficulty the time lost due to bad weather. The only times the train was late, he said was during subzero blizzards in St. Paul.

The "400" will continue to consist of six cars, including combination coach, lounge car, dining car, parlor lounge and two de luxe parlor cars. It was put into service on Jan. 2 and since then has carried nearly 19,000 passengers, or an average of 326 passengers a day for the round trip.

MORE SPEED TO NEW YORK.

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—Plans for cutting down the running time of all fast trains between New York and Chicago over both the Pennsylvania and New York Central lines are now being worked out, it was reliably reported here today. In some cases as much as an hour is to be clipped from the "through" schedules.

An official of the Pennsylvania admitted tonight that the road's through schedules were "under course of revision." May 1 was mentioned as a possible time for inaugurating the new schedules.

The "revision" it was learned will call for the complete elimination of Manhattan Transfer as a through train stop, making Newark the first stop after leaving New York, and the last one before entering the city. This, it is calculated will save from five to seven minutes.

Another factor of the plan will be the new type electric locomotives to run between here and Philadelphia of which ten are already in service.

$30,219,462 PAID IN INCOME TAXES BY CHICAGO AREA

A total of $30,219,462 in income taxes was collected from the northern district of Illinois, which includes Chicago, between Jan. 1 and March 15, the deadline for filing returns, it was announced yesterday by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue. This is $9,099,980 more than the $21,119,482 collected during the same period of 1934. The collections, Mr. Harrison said, were made from 124,200 taxable returns.

ETHIOPIANS SEIZE 100 CAMELS FROM ITALIAN NATIVES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 20.—Seizure of 100 camels belonging to Italian natives of Italian Somaliland by an armed band from Ethiopia was reported today in dispatches from the African colony. The raid was made near Agable, according to the dispatches. Italian forces from Forts El Bit and Gorodol pursued the raiders to the frontier, but were unable to apprehend them, it was stated.

The Italian legation at Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, has been requested formally to protest the raid and to reserve the right to ask reparation for the stolen camels and other damage done by the raiding party.

It was feared that the incident will increase the difficulties now blocking settlement of the dispute between the two countries over previous border clashes. The dispute is at present in the hands of the league of nations.

RUSSIA REVEALS 62,000 RAILWAY WRECKS IN A YEAR

MOSCOW, March 20.—(AP)—Announcing that 62,000 accidents had occurred on Russian railroads last year, the new railway commissar, Lazar Kaganovich announced today that the managers of rail lines and other high officials would themselves have to answer for future accidents.

He said his action was in an effort to put an end to the train wrecks which have been increasing in number despite the drastic punishment, sometimes as severe as execution, for those to blame.

He said hundreds of lives had been lost and thousands of persons had been injured, with destruction or damage to 7,000 locomotives and 64,000 cars. The seriousness of the situation is obvious, Kaganovich pointed out, when it is taken into account that in the face of this wholesale damage, only 19,000 new cars were produced and delivered to railroads during the year.

LOUIS M. HOWE, ROOSEVELT AID, BELIEVED DYING

White House Calls Off All Engagements.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Col. Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, was reported today to be losing strength steadily in his fight against a bronchial ailment complicated by a cardiac disorder.

Although physicians declined to comment on the chances of their White House patient, aides expressed the belief that Howe will not last through the night. A bulletin, issued by physicians in the evening, said Howe is growing weaker.

Hartley Howe, son of the senior secretary, was summoned to the bedside from Boston in the morning. A daughter, Mrs. Howard Baker of Chicago, arrived during the afternoon.

All social engagements were canceled at the White House.

At the request of the President the White House Correspondents' association postponed its annual banquet, set for Saturday evening, to April 27.

President Roosevelt followed the illness of his friend from his desk in the executive office. Conferences, scheduled for the day, were interrupted by reports from the bedside.

RELIEF SCANDAL IN OHIO BECOMES POLITICAL ISSUE

Both Sides Have Eye on 1936 Campaign.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Columbus, O., March 20.—[Special.]—Gov. Martin Luther Davey, whose administration less than two months old is at war with the relief branch of the Roosevelt administration, with consequences that will be felt in the 1936 campaign, moved swiftly today to counteract the charges made against him by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator. Both sides have their eyes on the effect of the investigation on the presidential primary and state campaign next year.

Under Gov. Davey's direction the Democratic caucus of the general assembly tonight adopted a resolution calling upon the President to "right the wrong which has been done our governor and to forthwith do the things that are so urgently necessary to eliminate waste and inefficiency, and to terminate the inhuman practices of mistaken agents of the relief commission."

Vote State Investigation.

Earlier in the evening the senate adopted a resolution unanimously authorizing the appointment of a committee of ten members, five from each house, to investigate the relief situation in all its phases. The house is expected to concur in this tomorrow and the committee, which will consist of six Democrats and four Republicans, may get to work Friday.

With the grand jury meeting tomorrow to take up the Hopkins charges, which involve the governor and his campaign managers in the candal of soliciting money from firms that did business with the relief commission, the Democratic caucus rallied to the governor's side. The effort is to keep the President to one side of this war. The Republicans here are delighted at the turn of events, but are saying little.

Deplores "Insult" to Governor.

The Democratic caucus resolution deplored and condemned the "gratuitous insult directed at our chief executive" and added:

"Especially do we express our deep resentment of the obvious effort made by Mr. Hopkins to insinuate wrongdoing on the part of the governor of Ohio, when he, the said Harry L. Hopkins, well knew from facts and evidence then in his possession that the governor of Ohio was guilty of no wrong doing, and whereas in truth and in fact he well knew that whatever inefficiency and wrong doing, maladministration and dishonesty on the part of employés of the relief commission took place under the administration of one Gen. Henderson employé of the said Mr. Hopkins.

"We hereby emphatically declare our unwavering confidence in the integrity, ability, and high purpose of our governor, Martin L. Davey, and we do hereby pledge to him our allegiance and our support in his courageous fight against waste and inefficiency in the administration of relief, against the impractical theorists who have been placed in charge of this work, all this being to the detriment of the best interests of society and to the interests of the taxpayers of Ohio."

Gov. Davey today turned over to C. C. Stillman, federal relief administrator, $11,500,000 in relief funds and has washed his hands of all responsibility for this money in the future. Stillman, former missionary, judge, and college professor, has set calmly about the administration of the biggest business in the state, the care of 20 per cent of the population.

To Be Made Social Laboratory.

Ohio, it appears, is to be made a sort of social laboratory in relief work when the new works bill is passed. The federal funds are to be used to put the able now on relief at work, while the state funds will be used to support those who are incapacitated.

William R. McNamara, Thomas A. Jones, and John Lee, former employés of the state relief commission, who are named in the sensational affidavits on campaign contributions, were dismissed from their posts today. They will testify tomorrow before the grand jury.

The attitude of those accused by Hopkins, from the governor down, is that nothing wrong has been done. It is admitted that campaign contributions were received, but it is denied that they were solicited from persons who were doing business with the commission.

Governor's Future in Balance.

Ohio has already become a doubtful state politically, and Gov. Davey, in forcing an investigation that may tear down the strength of the New Dealers and the President, may also be hurting his own future. He is entirely aware of this, however, but declares that no other course is open to him.

The federal group is expected to bend every energy to making good its charges against the Davey political camp. Department of justice agents are said to be making an investigation of federal funds spent on highways as well as relief. The federal grand jury in May may come into the picture. A question that is still undecided is whether prosecution is possible if the illegal use of relief funds is shown.

"Let the investigation go forward and let the chips fall where they may" is the governor's attitude.

"What can they do?" he asks. "There was nothing wrong here in the law or in morals. Contributions were taken without solicitation or promise. The money was entered on the books of the committee, and the books are open."

John McComb, collector for the committee, took in $20,000 to pay a campaign deficit, it is admitted.

Dan Duffy, executive secretary to the governor, has volunteered to go before the grand jury, although he has not been accused of anything, only mentioned as having been close to the collectors. Democratic committee account books were seized today by representatives of the prosecutor.

Birth Control Charges.

A sample of what may be expected when the state investigation of relief methods and practices gets under way is shown today in an affidavit made public by the governor. It was signed by Mrs. Roma Hendricks of Columbus and was to the effect that relief case workers who visited her home advised birth control and that as a result she submitted to an operation last July, which "has caused much distress and nervousness."

The two women case workers named deny that they advised anything of the sort and said that arrangements had been made for the operation before they visited the house.

"How many children a family has is nobody's business," is the attitude of the governor.

Sources of discontent throughout the state are wiring him and sending him alleged information of abuses and neglect and waste.

BLAMES REPUBLICANS

Columbus, O., March 20.—(AP)—Francis W. Poulson, chairman of the Ohio Democratic executive committee, plunged into the thick of the Davey-Hopkins relief controversy today with a statement charging that Republicans in high government offices "have betrayed the President."

President Roosevelt's "greatest mistakes have been the appointment of Republicans to high positions," said Poulson. The President's "real friends are the Democrats. . . And not the Republicans, as in the case of Dr. Hopkins, who tears down and who could be expected to tear down the Democratic party."

Subpenaed for Grand Jury.

Poulson is under subpena to appear tomorrow before the Franklin county [Columbus] grand jury by County Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins, who has affidavits from Hopkins alleging Ohio relief workers "shook down" concerns with which the relief department did business to obtain funds for Davey's $10,000 campaign and inaugural deficit.

Administrator Hopkins, Poulson said, "in my mind personifies beautifully the fallacy of Democrats appointing Republicans to high office. Every Democrat in Ohio is a stanch supporter of President Roosevelt. Most of us feel, however, that his greatest mistakes have been the appointment of Republicans to high positions, especially Republicans of the uplift type—the long-haired men and short-haired women. They have betrayed the President."

Questions Hopkins' Motive.

Poulson asserted "Dr. Hopkins' main motive in this entire affair is to muddy the waters so as to divert public attention from Gov. Davey's unanswered charges against the administration of relief in Ohio."

"If the firms doing business with the Ohio relief commission have been 'shaken down,' as Dr. Hopkins says, the shakedown was done by employés appointed by Gen. Henderson, while serving under Gen. Henderson, and owing their jobs to Gen. Henderson."

Frank D. Henderson, former adjutant general, was dismissed as state relief director by Davey.

Works Relief Cash Sought for South and West Schools

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Southern and western Democrats from the states which have relied most heavily upon the federal government to carry their relief burdens today earmarked a slice of the five billion dollar public works fund to run their public schools.

An amendment submitted by Senator Bronson Cutting [Radical Rep., N. M.], allocating 40 million dollars to be doled out to states to keep their schools open for the remainder of the term, was passed by the senate, 55 to 25. Administration forces thus suffered a minor defeat as the lure of more easy money led many good New Dealers to forget their loyalty.

The vote on the schools amendment was preceded by prolonged and bitter discussion, with Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.] leading the fight against what he termed "an attempt to penalize states which are making an honest effort to take care of their people."

"Insult to Humanity."

"Why should any state legislature appropriate money for its public schools when it can come here to Washington and get the money?" Tydings asked. "It's an outrage to the misery that exists in our cities and an insult to humanity."

Tydings turned to Senator Cutting and asserted that New Mexico last year got back from the federal government more than ten times what it paid in federal revenue.

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], the President's spokesman on the works bill, spoke against the measure, saying it was unnecessary because the FERA already was authorized to supply money for schools.

Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], ordinarily just as loyal to the administration, spoke against the amendment and then voted for it. He said he was opposed to placing any limitation on what the FERA could do for the schools and for that reason wished Senator Cutting would withdraw the proposal. Cutting refused, however, and Harrison voted "Aye."

"I want to say that I don't know where this appropriation could give greater relief than in the public schools," Harrison declared.

The administration leaders accepted an amendment submitted by Senator Carl Hayden [Dem., Ariz.], as amended by Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], which provides that all highway construction, reclamation and irrigation projects, river and harbor improvements and permanent public buildings shall be carried out by the existing agencies of government having jurisdiction.

Hayden objected to "the setting up of a new burocracy" to build highways, insisting that the funds be allocated to state highway departments in accordance with existing law.

Senator Robert La Follette [Radical Wis.] began addressing the senate on his amendment adding five billion dollars to the bill but did not finish. La Follette inveighed against talk of balancing the budget, calling it "perfectly idle and futile."

"We can no more think of balancing the budget in an emergency of this character than we could have during the world war," he said.

Assails Delaware Corporations.

Earlier in the session the senate heard an impassioned plea from Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.] in support of his amendment to abolish the alphabetical corporations organized by the New Deal under the laws of Delaware and to prohibit the organization of such concerns in the future. The administration leaders indignantly demanded the "ayes and nays" and Schall's amendment was voted down, 69 to 10.

Schall said the six corporations organized under the Delaware laws "in perpetuity and five of them marked 'Do not publish,'" were designed to take over every form of business activity in the United States.

"If they get this five billion dollars, two and a half billion will go into these corporations and we'll be on our way to Moscow, under Franklin Delaware Roosevelt," the Minnesota senator declared.

HEAR OBJECTORS TO NEW STATE INSURANCE CODE

Springfield Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—Several objections to enactment of the proposed new insurance code were registered before the senate committee on insurance today at an open hearing.

Among those heard was E. M. Griggs of Chicago, assistant general council of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, who asked that the code be amended so that agents applying for a license the first time would not be required to appear personally before the insurance director for examination.

He maintained that this would work a hardship, particularly on those prospective agents living in rural areas. Griggs also asked that a section requiring the filing of all "riders" to policies with the director of insurance be stricken, explaining that a multitude of policies have special provisions and inclusion of them in the state records would make a voluminous file. Further hearings will be held April 10.

Berkeley, Cal., March 20.—(AP)—Nine University of California students, including four girls, were arrested today on charges of illegally distributing handbills which advised against war. Police Judge Oliver Young released the students.

ILLINOIS HOUSE ASKS FEDERAL DATA ON RELIEF

Sends Five to Washington to Get Facts.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—Winding up another day of turmoil and debate over relief expenditures and administration, the house today adopted a resolution calling for the appointment of a select committee of five to journey to Washington for a consultation with relief officials.

The committee's instructions are to ask for the arithmetical formula by which the Washington relief burocracy determined that Illinois should contribute 36 millions annually as its share of relief expenditures. The committee members also are to ask what change Illinois can make in the method of administering relief. They are to report back on April 3.

Adjourn Until April 3.

That date was set as being the next day that the house will be in regular session. Both the senate and house agreed today to adjourn until April 3 on the theory that nothing can be done on relief until congress has acted on President Roosevelt's 4 billion 800 million work relief bill.

The first business of the legislature when it reconvenes will be consideration of a bill appropriating 3 million dollars for relief for the month from April 15 to May 15. The money is to be taken from whatever funds are available and unencumbered,, and will be the state's share of relief expenses.

In setting the adjournment date the house won a victory over the senate. The latter had decided April 9 was the proper date, but opposition developed in the house and the senators finally capitulated on the now agreed date.

Fears Over Hasty Action.

"I'm against an adjournment later than April 3," said Representative LeRoy Green, minority leader from Rockford. "If we have to act on relief legislation in April and have adjourned until the 9th it is likely that a bill will be thrown in here that has been hastily drawn. We should take more time on this important subject."

"Will we carry on a courtship with the federal government in the interim?" asked Representative Reed F. Cutler [Rep., Lewiston]. The Washington trip at that time had not been decided upon.

Predicts Commission Pressure.

The senate speeches were sharp.

"If we wait too long before adopting a relief program," said Senator R. Wallace Karraker [Dem., Jonesboro], "the Illinois Emergency Relief commission will be here with warnings that the people will starve and the commission will seek action to raise money by dusting off scenes of the French revolution. The windup will see the retention of the IERC although we have a report here condemning the present relief administration methods."

The relief debate in the house reached its greatest tension with the introduction by Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville], of a resolution rebuking Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, for "cheap showmanship" in "barnstorming" the country on a lecture tour with an admission charge of 50 cents.

Previously the house had tabled by a viva voce vote a resolution introduced by Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill [Rep., Downers Grove]. It invited Hopkins to confer in Springfield with the general assembly on relief needs and the methods of disbursing funds.

Opposing the O'Neill resolution, Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] said the house might place itself in a position to be humiliated by a person (Hopkins) not elected by the voters of Illinois or of any other state. That remark brought forth the suggestion from Clinton Searle [Rep., Rock Island] that the entire matter be placed in the hands of Congressman Michael L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago].

Aside from relief both the senate and the house transacted some business. Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] had Mayor Kelly's refunding bill placed on third reading, and Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton] served notice that when the senate reconvenes he will ask for the advancement of the relief tax bills, increasing the sales tax to 3 per cent and bringing under it the public utilities and raising the gasoline tax to four cents a gallon, to the passage stage.

Senator Ward obtained the passage of his bills providing for constitutional amendments to be placed on a separate ballot; correcting abuses in the habeas corpus act, providing that petitions for writs of habeas corpus must be filed in counties or judicial circuits in which the prisoner is imprisoned or from which he was sentenced; and providing for use by the Chicago park district of reëmployment registers of the former separate park districts.

Some of House Bills.

Among the new bills introduced in the senate were three by James C. Mayor [Dem., La Harpe], providing that the state convention of any political party may adopt a resolution for or against any proposed amendment to the constitution, or for or against the assemblying of a constitution convention. The contents of the resolution could be printed on the ballot and a vote in the party circle would be counted on the proposition.

Among the new bills in the house were:

JOHN M. BOLTON [Dem., Chicago]—Would require secretary of state to equip and maintain auto inspection stations in Chicago.

GREEN—Would limit expenditures by IERC for salaries to 6 per cent of the amounts received from all sources.

O'NEILL—Would permit governor to turn over to county boards state relief funds for administration, the IERC continuing to disburse federal funds.

EDWARD P. O'GRADY [Dem., Chicago]—Would require that bread should contain not less than ten ounces of dry solids per pound.

CHARLES H. WEBER [Dem., Chicago]—Would require all aliens to register with department of registration and education.

P. J. BREEN [Dem., Paris]—Would create board for examining osteopaths.

Because of the adjournment the house hearing on the permanent registration bill was changed to April 3, and the house hearing on the new proposed insurance code to April 10.

LITTLE UNCOVERED BY RELIEF INQUIRY IN BERRIEN COUNTY

Niles, Mich., March 20.—[Special.]—The second day of the inquiry into charges of favoritism, discrimination, and misuse of political patronage voiced against Mrs. Anne C. Parsal, Berrien county relief administrator, ended here today with little evidence to support the allegations.

Miss Esther Tuttle, assistant attorney general for the state, has been hearing the complaints to determine whether indictments should be sought. While Miss Tuttle declined to make a statement, it was indicated that no evidence of criminality in the county's relief affairs has yet been revealed by the witnesses.

The present hearing is the result of many months of friction among Mrs. Parsal, relief clients, and members of the Niles city council. Yesterday's witnesses included two grocers who complained that they were not obtaining shares of relief orders, one grocer whose complaint was that payment for his relief orders was slow in coming, and a dentist who sought advice on collecting rent from one of his tenants who is on relief. Mrs. Parsal, reported ill in her home in Benton Harbor, was not present today.

DEMOCRATS MAY HOLD CONVENTION IN ATLANTIC CITY

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—The next Democratic national convention may be held in Atlantic City, according to Democratic leaders who have been considering the question. The Atlantic City committee is prepared to submit a bid of $150,000, of which $50,000 has already been pledged by a leading New Jersey citizen.

The Democratic party's fight in 1936 will stress the holding of eastern states gained in 1933 and 1934, members of the national committee say. They feel that western states, once the stronghold of Republicanism, but lately Democratic, will be reasonably sure to maintain next year their new allegiance. For that reason, it is argued, the convention should be held in the east.

Republican leaders express confidence, on the other hand, that the former Republican states of the east and the middle west may go Republican without much campaign effort. Therefore, the Republican strategy is to go west, name a liberal ticket, and adopt a liberal platform.

HORNER TAKES REST; GRAHAM RUNS ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—Senator Richey V. Graham of Cicero, president pro tempore of the senate, became acting governor of Illinois today when Gov. Horner departed for a few days at Hot Springs, Ark. Lieutenant Governor Thomas F. Donovan is in Washington and Graham is next in line of succession.

ESTIMATE STATE ALIENS ON RELIEF EXCEED 270,000

Families of at least 75,000 aliens, comprising about 270,000 persons, are being supported by the taxpayers through the Illinois Emergency Relief commission according to estimates made yesterday. This organization has no records to indicate how many aliens are on its benefit rolls.

At the last census, there were 361,000 aliens in the state, of whom 294,000 resided in Cook county. About one-sixth of the state's total population is now on relief. Pointing out that aliens are under greater handicaps than others in their search for employment, W. S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the IERC, admitted that a much larger proportion of the alien population is dependent upon public aid.

"The primary necessity is for regulation at the gate of entry," Mr. Reynolds said. "We ought to make entrance requirements more strict, and provide automatic deportation if the immigrant has not taken first steps to become a citizen within a year after his arrival.

"But to deport noncitizens who came to this country without any warning of such requirements does not seem just. That would be like throwing a guest out of your home when he becomes sick."

WOMAN STRICKEN ABOARD TRAIN; $173,505 FOUND

Silent to Questions on Mystery Fortune.

Mrs. Isabel Mulhall McHie, 68 years old, wife of Sidmon McHie, former New York stock broker, now a newspaper publisher of Hammond, Ind., was taken from a Grand Trunk railroad train at Battle Creek, Mich., yesterday by the train crew because she appeared ill and was acting strangely.

As Mrs. McHie was assisted to the station platform where an ambulance awaited her she dropped her large black purse. The purse snapped open and a total of $178,505—most of it in bills of $5,000 and $10,000 denominations—was scattered about.

Taken to the Lelia Montgomery hospital in Battle Creek, Mrs. McHie identified herself but refused to explain why she was carrying the fortune in cash or answer questions of police and railroad detectives.

Boarded Train at Chicago.

Her tickets disclosed that she had boarded the train in Chicago and that her destination was Montreal. A further search of her luggage brought to light a large jewel box filled with rings, brooches and watches.

In Hammond yesterday employés of the Lake County Times, the newspaper owned by McHie, said that Mrs. McHie had been estranged from her husband for years. They said that McHie was in French Lick Springs and that he knew nothing of his wife's actions.

His associates said he has a divorce suit pending in Indiana. Mrs. McHie has filed several actions against her husband in the federal courts. She is seeking the appointment of a receiver for his properties, and demands an accounting and property settlement, according to court records.

In 1923 Mrs. McHie announced that her entire fortune of more than $450,000 would be left to build the largest animal hospital in the world near New York City.

Inscription for a Bust.

She said she would stipulate that a marble bust of herself must be placed in the hospital, under the terms of her will, and that it would bear the inscription, "The more I saw of people, the more I thought of dogs."

In 1930 she was adjudged incompetent in Baltimore upon the petition of her mother, Mrs. Susan J. Mulhall of Washington, and placed in a hospital there. In May, the following year, she escaped, fled to New York, and in a court battle won back control of her fortune.

Born in St. Louis, Mrs. McHie became known as "one of the most beautiful girls in the world" when she was 18 years old. She met and married Albert Royal Delmont, a stock market "plunger" of the first decade of this century. In 1907 Delmont lost his wealth and was divorced by his wife who soon thereafter married McHie.

SEC. ICKES MAKES PEACE MEDICINE WITH SEMINOLES

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—Squatting on their haunches in a circle on the shores of Lake Worth, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and seven Seminole Indians today revived negotiations to end the 100 year "war" between the tribesmen and the United States.

Through an interpreter, the representatives of a majority of the 500 Seminoles surviving in Florida asked a domain of 200,000 acres in the Everglades and $15 a month each from the government as indemnity for seizure of the rest of the state by "our white friends."

In return they offered to recognize the United States and obey its laws except the game laws.

"The Seminoles," replied Secretary Ickes, "are a proud and independent people. I do not know whether it will be possible to give them all they ask, but in coöperation with the state of Florida the administration in Washington will do all in its power to give them the land and the game they require to live the lives of their forefathers."

Pope Blesses Flyer Who First Hopped Ocean to U. S.

VATICAN CITY, March 20.—(AP)—Capt. Herman Koehl, who with Commander James Fitzmaurice aboard the plane Bremen, was the first to fly from Europe to America, was given a special blessing by Pope Pius today upon the beginning of his career as an aerial missionary. Capt. Koehl will leave shortly for South Africa, where he will spend a year as an inspector for the Mission Travel society.

DELAY HIT-RUN CASE AGAINST MAYOR-TO-BE

Justice of the Peace Ira Lambert of Summit continued indefinitly yesterday a charge of leaving the scene of an accident against John Rust, unopposed candidate for mayor of Willow Springs in the coming election. Rust was released in $5,000 bail.

Arrested Sunday, Rust admitted it was his automobile that on Saturday evening struck and seriously injured Willis Rowley, 33 years old, near his home at 110th street and Archer avenue in Lemont township. Rowley is in grave condition with a fracture of the skull in St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet. The continuance yesterday was to await the outcome of the victim's injuries.

Gets Phone Nickel from Suspect.

Rust's arrest was brought about by Fred Matky, brother-in-law of Rowley, who found the mayoral candidate's automobile, still bearing bloodstains, parked in the lot of the Maple Lake office of the forest preserve district.

Rowley borrowed a nickel from Rust and used it to summon Policemen John Burns and John Laggrassa of the Willow Springs county highway department.

In a statement to the police, Rust said that his wife was with him when his car struck Rowley. He went across the street to a gasoline station to telephone police, he said, but became alarmed when a crowd gathered, and he and his wife drove from the scene.

Third Fireman Dies in Crash.

Fireman Peter Doyle of rescue squad No. 1 died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital of injuries incurred early Saturday morning when the squad truck collided with the truck of engine company No. 13 at State and Adams streets. Doyle's was the third death resulting from the accident. Capt. Frank O'Connor and Fireman Lawrence O'Connell, both of the rescue squad, also were fatally injured.

Three other firemen, Philip Kelly, 4151 North Central Park avenue, and John J. Sullivan, 3955 North Lamon avenue, members of the rescue squad, and Edward Banks, 506 North Hamlin avenue, a member of the engine company, are in a serious condition from their injuries. Six others with less serious injuries yesterday were reported recovering at the hospital.

The death of Doyle and one other yesterday increased the 1935 Cook county traffic toll to 198. At 4 p. m. the total of persons killed this year within the Chicago city limits stood at 161 and the number of injured at 3,054. Yesterday's other death:

Herbert Schupp, 38 years old, operator of a gasoline station at Harms and Glenview roads in Glenview, was fatally injured yesterday when the automobile he was driving collided with another at Lake avenue and Skokie boulevard in Wilmette. P. A. Richardson, 51 years old, 290 Lake drive, Oshkosh, Wis., driver of the other car, and his wife, Elsie, were cut and bruised. Richardson is in technical custody pending the inquest this morning.

The body of a man fatally injured Monday morning when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver at Jackson boulevard and Hamilton avenue was identified yesterday as that of Dave Lewis, 60 years old, formerly employed by a junk dealer.

SOUTH'S TENANT SYSTEM IN NEED OF REFORMATION

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—Complete reformation of the south's land tenure system, its credit methods, its "excessive devotion" to cotton and the economic status assigned to the colored farmer, have become inevitable, according to a report made public today by the committee on minority groups in the economic recovery.

The report is the result of more than a year's study in the southern states directed by Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund; Dr. Will W. Alexander, director of the commission on interracial cooperation, and Prof. Charles S. Johnson, colored, head of the department of social research at Fisk university.

Life On Low Scale.

The discovery was considered unusual in that the general opinion, as well as that of the committee when it began the survey, was that the colored farmer was living in the worst economic condition. The report also finds that the economic and social life of the European peasant is on a higher scale than that of the southern tenant farmer.

The report declares that at present there are 1,091,944 white tenant farmers and 698,839 colored in the south. The present condition, it was said, is due to the fact that between 1920 and 1930 more than 200,000 whites became tenant farmers, mainly through the loss of their property by foreclosure or sale, and the colored tenants decreased by some 2,000. Many of the colored farmers left to go to the large cities of the south and north.

Tenants Do the Work.

"Against an average of 42 per cent for the entire country," the report reads, "58 per cent of the 3,088,111 farms in the 13 cotton states are worked by tenants, the prevalence of tenancy running to 71 per cent in the case of cotton farms and in certain 'black belt' regions to 80 per cent. Half of these tenants are 'share croppers,' owning neither land nor capital, live stock nor tools and wholly dependant for these on their landlords.

"The furnishing of tenants with seed and tools and food and clothing at the traditional margin of from 20 to 30 per cent above cash prices has taken on a new aspect since it has become possible for land owners to secure their needed funds from the Farm Credit administration at rates varying from 4½ to 6½ per cent. As a result, the government finds itself in an involuntary, if not unsuspecting, partner usury. It has furnished the credit for a thoroughly reprehensible system of extortion."

Only governmental relief which totaled $212,561,552 last year prevented "wholesale" starvation and rioting among the white and colored tenant farmers of the south, Mr. Embree said.

Say it as softly as thy prayer: B/G rhubarb pie! Ask for it as though you asked for a benediction: B/G rhubarb pie: Tell her like you'd whisper heavenly things: B/G rhubarb pie . . . it's a PIE you'll love us for wisen you to!

. . . We trace its pedigree for you

How OYSTERS first came to be eaten

An old legend relates
How oyster-eating originated
From a very natural cause.

A man was walking
By the sea one day
And out of curiosity
Picked up an oyster.
It was in the act of gaping
And as he inserted
An exploring finger
It promptly closed
With surprising force.

The injured finger
Was quickly withdrawn,
And as quickly transferred
To its owner's mouth.
What a happy result!
For the first time he tasted
The delicious savor
Of oyster juice
And soon brought oyster-eating
Into fashion.

The finest selected oysters
Come to us daily
By fast refrigerator express,
Direct from the seaboard
To the Harvey table.
And our chefs know how
To prepare oyster dishes
That are unusually delicious.

Have them served
On the half shell,
In cocktails or stews
Or scalloped.
Any way you like them best.

. . . You'll find a wide variety of Lenten Dishes featured daily at Harvey's

SENATORS HEAR OF PROFIT JUMP IN WORLD WAR

Wages Felt It Last, Says Witness.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—Testimony that heads of big corporations began pouring into their own pockets the profits of the last war before distributing any to labor, was given to the senate munitions committee today by John T. Flynn, who is an adviser of the committee.

JOHN T. FLYNN.

Flynn told the committee earlier that the United States Steel corporation had piled up $96,000,000 in surplus during the war under pretense that sum was necessary for enlarging plants.

At his press conference President Roosevelt said legislation on war profits appeared possible this session.

Pay Swells with War.

Flynn declared salaries of high officials of big corporations began swelling as soon as the war broke out in 1914 and not until 1916 and 1917 was there any appreciable increase in wages of labor.

"It is an interesting thing al .," he said, "that the huge salary increases did not take place among the lower officers."

Citing as an instance the American Rolling Mills company, Flynn said the salary of the president increased from $16,000 to $86,000 a year between 1915 and 1917 "while the salary of the chief engineer was going down."

Flynn introduced the evidence in support of a proposal he placed before the committee for taking by taxation all salaries above $10,000 a year and limiting profits by a close fitting system of income taxes. Answering a suggestion of Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich], who favored "punitive taxes to deal with evasions of the proposed curbs on war profits and high salaries," Flynn said such taxes had not been very successful.

Hits Recovery Suits.

"We must make it very dangerous for any doubt to be resolved in any way but in favor of the government," Senator Vandenberg said when told corporations paid such taxes, then sued to recover them.

Flynn cited the American Rolling Mills, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, and the International Harvester company as examples of corporations he said gave high officials wartime salary increases many months before labor benefited.

Blames Demand for Bonus on Roosevelt Spending Policy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Payment of two billion dollars for the veterans' bonus has come before congress because of the extravagant program of the President.

That was the statement on the house floor today by Representative John Taber [Rep., N. Y.], ranking minority member of the house appropriations committee. Taber said, although he could not vote for the bonus, he sympathized with the veterans for wanting it now in the light of destruction of values in the future.

Blames "Wild Schemes."

The Taber attack came on the second day of debate over the bonus. The house is expected to vote on the proposition next week.

"The bonus bill is here," said Taber, "because instead of conserving the resources of the country, saving the money of the people and reducing the expenses of government, we have embarked on the promotion of all kinds of wild schemes which have provided no relief from unemployment and have increased the expenditures of government from 4 to 8½ billion dollars a year."

Taber said the end was not in sight. He charged that the President did not dare to tell the people the truth about an inevitable increase in taxes.

"Taxes raised to meet the extravagant program of the President would have to be on a basis far beyond the dreams of any of us," he asserted. "A continuation of the present course of the President and the congress in spending will completely destroy the credit structure of the government."

Attacks Patman Bill Backers.

Representative Scott W. Lucas [Dem., Ill.], four times national judge advocate of the American Legion, attacked supporters of the Patman bill, providing for payment of the bonus in greenbacks, for tacking inflation to a bill to pay the veterans.

"It is unfair to be asked to vote for the bonus and at the same time an uncrystalized scheme for expansion of the currency," Lucas said. "What a travesty on intellectual honesty to bring this bill before us! Its supporters have a hobby for confusion. They will vote for this bill and send it to the senate. There it will rest in oblivion forever."

Lucas argued for the Vinson bill, which would provide the 2 billion dollars from funds in the treasury.

Cites Cos' of Defense.

A brand new argument for immediate payment of the bonus was injected into the debate by Representative Everett M. Dirksen [Rep., Ill.]. He contended that when the American people had to foot the bill they would realize the value of peace.

"It is niggardly not to pay the bonus," Dirksen said, "when we are spending a billion this year on the army and navy. Why, every time you see the navy in practice and hear the booming of the guns you might say: 'There goes the bonus in the air.'"

PINK SLIP REPEALER FACES SENATE CALL MONDAY; FIGHT SEEN

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—Chairman Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] of the senate finance committee said today he would try to call up in the senate Monday the house resolution to repeal the "pink slip" income tax publicity law.

Some senate leaders have indicated they would not press for action on the pink slip repeal because of the fight facing it from a powerful bloc of independents, but Harrison's statement indicated administration leaders were prepared to force a vote.

Farmer Asks $1,500 Alimony and Custody of 7 Children

Rochester, Ind., March 20.—(AP)—The usual procedure in divorce suits has been reversed by Wilbur Landis, a farmer. Landis asks $1,500 alimony from his wife, Eunice, and custody of their seven children. The farmer alleges he was forced to part from his wife because of cruel treatment.

AVERS JUSTICE BUREAU IS NOT FRIEND OF NRA

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Thurlow M. Gordon, legal advisor to a group of NRA code authorities, charged today that the department of justice and the federal trade commission "sabotage the enforcement of the National Recovery act in every possible way, because they are not in sympathy with it and never were."

Gordon told the commerce committee of the American Bar association that industry was satisfied with the NRA.

DARROW DERIDES NRA AS FOOLISH ECONOMIC IDEA

Recommends Entire Plan Be Junked.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Clarence Darrow, who rose to fame as the lawyer for the defense, took the stand today as star witness for the prosecution.

Called before the senate finance committee to tell the flaws which he found in the NRA while he headed the National Recovery Review board last summer, Darrow lashed the whole Roosevelt recovery program as "the most foolish idea that ever entered the head of a political economist." He recommended that the NRA be junked.

"Create a scarcity so that we will all be rich because we are all poor? Poor political economy!" scoffed the 77 year old jurist after excoriating the price raising and production control features of the NRA and AAA.

"No Overproduction.

"It's inherent in the NRA that scarcity is a blessing, plenty a curse," he growled. "There is no such thing as overproduction. We want things. Until these wants are satisfied, there can be no overproduction."

President Roosevelt tried to hustle his review board out of town when New Dealers learned that he was hostile to the NRA, Darrow charged. With irony reminiscent of his old fire, he accused the President of bad faith because the board's first report was turned over to the NRA before being made public. He pointed out that subsequent reports were made direct to the public and not to the President.

Declaring that "the NRA was gotten up to help the big fellow" at the expense of small business, Darrow denied that it had even helped labor or played an important part in the abolition of child labor. NRA's demise would help rather than hurt employment, he predicted.

Would Redistribute Wealth.

But to replace all the Roosevelt recovery measures he held out a "radical redistribution" of wealth and socialism.

After Darrow's testimony, Donald Richberg, New Deal coördinator; W. A. Harriman, NRA administrator, and Sidney Hillman, NRA board member, all of whom had heard Darrow, hastened to the White House to discuss with President Roosevelt the possibility of persuading the finance committee to recommend continuance of NRA.

Although Darrow's memory frequently failed him, and although his voice was low and husky, the packed committee room was hushed except when his ironic thrusts provoked gales of laughter.

Senators Listen Attentively.

Before him as he leaned back in the witness chair was the committee's semicircular dais where senators listened attentively or questioned him politely. To the left and rear were banked two tiers of chattering, staring NRA officials. To his right sat Donald Richberg, his friend of old Chicago days with whom he has traded many a vicious tirade over the NRA.

"Let me tell you who made this thing," Darrow started once, and then turned to Richberg to say, "I'm not going to talk about you, Don—he was a friend of the poor man once, once I said," he added to the committee while Richberg grinned.

"The first thing that attracted my attention to it," Darrow said at the height of his denunciation of the Roosevelt program, "was the wise political economists who advocated killing little pigs and plowing up food lest people overeat—not only advocating it, but doing it.

"Intelligence in South."

"In the south they got out the mules to plow under cotton, but they had trouble with the mules. They had been taught not to step on cotton. So there was some intelligence left in the south," he concluded, while the room rocked with laughter.

"So they took a more ladylike way. They hired people not to work. You know farmers like to work so well you have to hire them not to. They are doing that now. I would like a job like that.

"It was the most foolish idea that had ever entered the head of a political economist. There is no such thing as overproduction. We want things. Until all these wants are satisfied there can be no overproduction. Nobody has enough. Do you want scarcity or plenty? I want plenty."

Darrow traced the work of his review board from the time of his appointment, dropping in casually the remark that "I had nothing against Gen. Johnson then or since."

Asked to Speed Reports.

Before he had been at work three weeks, President Roosevelt wrote suggesting the board's report be speeded up, and during three months of his board's existence he received three such letters, he said.

"I formed some opinions on the question," Darrow told the committee. "The first was that NRA was gotten up to help the big fellow, and they couldn't help big business much without taking away from little business. Big business has the advantage, and NRA has very materially increased that advantage."

Senator Alben Barkley [Dem., Ky.] called Darrow's attention to Richberg's suggestion that the number of codes be reduced from 700 to 180.

"The fewer the better, but I'd reduce them further — nothing," Darrow snapped.

U. S. IS HEADED FOR INFLATION, JOHNSON SAYS

In what he said was the first speech for which he received a fee, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former National Recovery administrator, last night told members of the National Association of Waste Material Dealers at the Hotel Sherman that they hold the "key to peace or war" in their hands by virtue of handling a large proportion of all the basic materials used in the United States. Gen. Johnson said he would return to Washington today.

"Sit down and shut up!" were the first words he bellowed at the 1,600 guests, each of whom had paid $7.50 to attend the closing banquet of their convention and to hear him speak. His prepared address dealt with the importance of the waste material industry.

In answer to a question after his address Gen. Johnson said he believed the government's programs were headed toward inflation.

In the afternoon Gen. Johnson addressed a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Bar association and took the opportunity of throwing a few "dead cats" at Donald R. Richberg, his successor in NRA.

"Once Richberg had ants in his pants," Johnson declared, "but now he has tarantulas in the same spot. The other day there were twelve distinct libels against me in one newspaper article, but the only one I will publicly resent is the one which claimed that I recommended Richberg to the President."

STORM OF DUST KILLS THREE IN KANSAS TOWNS

Halts Land and Air Trafic in Several States.

Kansas City, Mo., March 20.—(AP)—Another major dust storm, causing confusion and widespread property damage, rolled eastward tonight across the midwest plains. The winds were 25 to 35 miles an hour.

Trafic was paralyzed by both land and air. Schools were closed. Business was tied up. Street lights were turned on in mid-day.

Joseph Bernard Meier, 2 years old, died at Hays, Kas., of pneumonia, the attending physician attributed to inhalation of dust. This fatality was the fifth charged to the week's disturbances in Kansas. There were two other child victims of pneumonia, Shirley Ann Frazier, 2 months old Graham county baby, and Bernita Towns, 13, of Palco, Kas.

West Kansas Suffers Most.

Western Kansas appeared hardest hit, but in south eastern Wyoming dust was reported so severe as to cover fences. The storms ranged from western Oklahoma and eastern New Mexico north to South Dakota's Black hills reaching eastward into Missouri.

Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas said he would ask President Roosevelt for aid in attempting to control soil blowing.

Government experts pointed out the section hit is part of the vast drouth area of 1934. They said conditions now parallel those of a year ago.

Forecasts Big Loss.

H. G. Duncan, Oklahoma state statistician, estimated general weather damage—including dust, wind, and freezing—as 25 per cent of the wheat crop for the entire state and 50 per cent for western Oklahoma. He predicted a loss "of $10,000,000" on wheat.

Fourteen dense dust storms and seven light storms have been recorded since the first great clouds swirled and settled a few weeks ago. On 16 other days, some dust has been reported.

Halt Highway Trafic.

While Kansas City, Mo., visibility was limited to two blocks or less, Kansas highway patrolmen blocked the roads, tying up travel to forestal accidents. In places it was impossible to see across the street. Those forced to be out of doors tied handkerchiefs over their faces.

Kansas agricultural authorities explained the dust storms are attributable to the fact that much of the western sod has been plowed up for wheat. Having lost the protective covering of grass and being dry from drouth, the soil can be blown freely.

Dust Storm Hits Quincy.

Quincy, Ill., March 20.—(AP)—Quincy closed its windows tight today despite abnormally warm weather as western dust storms swept across the Mississippi.

The temperature reached 80 at 5 p. m., just before the swirling dirt enveloped the city, borne on gusty winds. Increasing winds indicated the dust storm would hit the eastern part of the state and shove into Ohio by morning.

HUSBAND SEIZED AFTER FRIEND'S CHARGE OF PLOT

John T. Gilfillan, 37 years old, 625 Deerfield road, Deerfield, arrested Tuesday on a charge made by Ralph Jacobson, 3906 North Sawyer avenue, that Gilfillan was plotting against his own wife, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt in Waukegan yesterday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was held in $5,000 bonds for a further hearing next Thursday.

The prisoner denied the story that he had sought to enlist Jacobson in a plot. He did say, however, that he had planned suicide because of losses in the stock market.

Gilfillan, a former credit man for the H. J. Heinz company of Chicago, was discharged Thursday. Jacobson, a former salesman there, left a month ago. Arrested in a dance hall in Waukegan, Gilfillan was carrying a revolver.

Mrs. Gilfillan, 35 years old, was stunned by Jacobson's story, and refused to seek bail for her husband. "He's better off in jail," she told Assistant State's Attorney Okel Fuqua of Lake county. "If he gets out I'm afraid of what he might do to himself or me."

Zack Terrell, Circus Man, Collapses in Courtroom

Zack Terrell, 55 years old, owner of the Cole Brothers and Clyde Beatty circus, collapsed yesterday while awaiting the trial of his divorce suit in the courtroom of Sperior Judge Rudolph F. Desort. He was revived in chambers and the hearing was continued for 10 days. Attorneys representing Terrell's wife, Myrtle, informed the judge that she is in an institution in Jefferson county, Kentucky, having been adjudged insane. Terrell charges desertion.

HELD BY U. S. AS THIEF.

Alfred Bergfeldt, 29 years old, 947 Irving Park boulevard, was held to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on charges of stealing and cashing a war veteran's $110 compensation check.

Seeks Divorce

MRS. MARY CHAPIN.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, March 20.—Charging abusive cruelty, the wealthy Mary Alexander Dahlberg Chapin of Chicago has started divorce proceedings against her husband, Huntley Chapin of Buffalo, which will probably end with the granting of a mutual consent decree. Mrs. Chapin refused to accede to a request of her husband's that the suit be brought in fashionable Cuernavaca.

Guillermo Obregon, one of the most prominent members of the Mexican bar, has been retained by Mrs. Chapin. She said she also intends to sue her mother-in-law, Mary Huntley Chapin Green of Buffalo, for alienation of affections. Mrs. Green, who is also here, was prostrated by the action.

The Chapins were married at Taos, N. M., in 1933. She is the former wife of Bror Dahlberg of Chicago, president of the Celotex company, whom she divorced in 1932.

NORTH ATLANTIC GUARD SEES FIRST BERG OF SEASON

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—A coast guard cutter off Newfoundland signaled today—a full month earlier than last year—the approach of five icebergs to the ocean steamship routes.

One of the five islands of ice that the cutter Mendota sighted extended "far as can see."

All along the steamer lanes cognizance was taken of the menace. In Boston the cutter Pontchartrain was being laden for its summer task of watching icebergs. The General Green, a patrol boat, already had left Boston to join the Mendota.

All summer these boats will trail the ice. The Mendota and Pontchartrain will alternate in watching, each relieving the other for brief trips to Halifax for outfitting. The General Green will scout for new dangers, tracing its quarry by the changing water temperatures and currents.

FLAMES SWEEP CHURCH OF FR. COX IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 21 (Thursday).—(AP)—Old St. Patrick's church, home church of the Rev. Father James R. Cox, friend of the unemployed, caught fire early this morning and firemen feared the structure was doomed.

Five alarms were sounded as the staid old edifice, within sight of Pittsburgh's busiest section, broke into flames which could be seen for blocks around. The cause was not immediately determined.

Father Cox several years ago led a march of the unemployed to Washington and was mentioned for President on a "Liberal party" ticket. Much of his work among the poor has been done from his office in the old church at Penn avenue and 17th street.

U. S. FILES TAX LIENS AGAINST FILM NOTABLES

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—Film celebrities of Hollywood received attention from the collector of internal revenue here today when income tax liens were filed.

Ruth Chatterton and her former husband, George Brent, were both named, the actress assertedly owing an additional $11,064 on her 1933 income and Brent an additional $11,613 for the same period.

Ted Healy was named in a lien for $2,816 on his 1931 income. Harry V. Edwards and his wife, Evelyn Brent, owe the government an additional $92, according to another lien, while Milton H. Weinberger of Warner Brothers' studio is said to owe an additional $166.

PRICKED BY NEEDLE, DIES.

Moline, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—An infection resulting from the prick of a sewing needle caused the death of Mrs. Matilda Malones, wife of a local shoe repair shop owner, according to a coroner's jury today.

TROOPS CALLED AS FLOOD MOB BLASTS LEVEE

Other Mississippi Dikes Under Guard.

Greenwood, Miss., March 20.—(AP)—National guard troops were hurriedly ordered to LeFlore county tonight after several hundred men overpowered guards and dynamited a levee near Philipp in Tallahatchie county.

Reports circulated that the vandals were headed toward the dry Bayou levee 12 miles north of here where 25 guards stood ready to defend it with machine guns and riot guns.

"Shoot to Kill" Orders

They had orders to "shoot to kill" if any one attempted to blast the embankment.

The object of dynamiting the levee is to relieve water pressure at other points and thereby prevent natural crevasses.

The tributary flood peril extended farther south into Arkansas today, while in Mississppi fighters apparently won a victory over the rising Yazoo river.

As the crest of the St. Francis flood in the southern Missouri-northern Arkansas sector moved downstream, nearly 5,000 refugees had returned to their homes, but the Red Cross estimated today that nearly 20,000 still were homeless, mostly in Arkansas.

Mississippi Threat Lessened.

The slim possibility of a flood threat along the mighty Mississippi river seemed further dissipated by a report from U. S. engineers that the big stream was practically stationary tonight just below Cairo where it receives the waters from the Ohio. A rise of only two-tenths of a foot in 24 hours was reported this morning at Cairo. The Mississippi reached 33.4 feet at Memphis, a little more than half a foot below the technical flood stage here.

Convicts kept at their task four miles from Sifton, Miss., although they believed the fight was won to maintain the levee against the rising Yazoo, which is due to reach its crest tomorrow. Many families have been flooded out in Leflore and Humphreys counties by the Yazoo and Tchula lake.

Six cases of pneumonia were reported in the refugee zone in northeast Arkansas. Many of the homeless, lodged in churches, courthouses and railroad box cars, suffered from exposure.

Missouri Senate Passes Old Age Pension Bill

Jefferson City, Mo., March 20.—(AP)—An old age pension bill passed the Missouri senate today. Providing for payment of not more than $30 monthly to indigent persons over 70, it now goes to the house.

HARDY CITIZENS JEST AT CLOUDS OF DUST; TELL THESE STORIES

Guymon, Okla., March 20.—(AP)—Undaunted by a week of dust, weather-beaten citizens of the southwest chuckled tonight over these stories of the storm:

A horse, left tied to a tree overnight, was found hanged the next morning, the wind having blown away the sand on which he was standing.

An old bachelor harnessed the sand blast which ripped through his kitchen keyhole, holding his pots and pans in it until they were spic and span.

A traveler reported seeing a prairie dog 100 feet in the air, burrowing.

Rabbits, their noses irritated by the dust, twitched themselves to death.

A man and his wife, returning to New Mexico from the east, drove 200 miles in a circle in the storm, refueling three times in Elk City, Okla.

Jaybirds flew backward to keep the sand out of their eyes.

Fish wouldn't bite because they couldn't see the bait for the sand in their eyes.

A check by surveyors disclosed the state line had blown a mile and three-quarters east.

A man was hit on the head with a drop of rain. They had to throw two buckets of sand in his face to revive him.

HEAVY DAMAGE CAUSED BY HAIL AT GREENFIELD

Jacksonville, Ill., March 20.—(AP)—Severe hailstorms hit Jacksonville and surrounding territory late today, bringing injury to one man and causing great property damage.

Large hailstones shattered windows, drove through automobile tops and windshields, killed lambs and chickens.

Apparently Greenfield was hardest hit by the hail. Not a house escaped undamaged there and high winds unroofed several buildings. Thomas Scott was beaten so severely on his head by hailstones that he required medical treatment.

Every building on the Harvey Castle farm outside of Greenfield was unroofed. Eighteen lambs were killed.

At Scottsville, 25 miles southeast of Jacksonville, windows were broken in every building, and in the high school 140 were smashed.

The hail hit Springfield late in the day and dust clouds rolled over the city about 9 p. m.

Car Lines Get More Time to Move Tracks on Drive

An extension to June 18 to relocate the street car tracks in Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and Ohio street was granted to the Chicago Surface Lines yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission. The relocation was ordered by the commission several months ago after ten years of effort toward that goal by the Lincoln park board.

RICHMAN BROTHERS

HE NEEDS NO HELP

$22.50

We are pleased to have our customer bring along his wife, his sweetheart or his friend when he comes to our store. Their advice is often helpful in selecting a style, a color or a pattern. But our customer doesn't need any help in selecting quality. He can't make a mistake.

Because we don't have a variety of prices, and because our one price doesn't vary from one end of the season to the other, we have no need for various grades of quality.

There may be differences of opinion about the style, but Richman Brothers quality is just as safe, just as certain, and just as standard as the Richman Brothers price.

Complete control of quality is assured because Richman Brothers clothes are made in our own shops. The clothes are sold in our own stores, and our price doesn't include wholesale selling costs, charge account losses or delivery expenses.

RUTH OWEN BOOK FAILS TO CLARIFY CUTTER JUNKET

New Volume Deals with Greenland Trip.

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, United States minister to Denmark, is the author of "Leaves from a Greenland Diary," a book published today which gives a prosaic account of her visit to the Danish colony, which caused United States Senator Daniel Hastings of Delaware to criticize her.

RUTH BRYAN OWEN.

Mrs. Owen was taken from Greenland to the United States by the coast guard cutter Champlain. The senator said that the minister had asked the ship to come to Greenland to take her to New York. He said this request caused the absence of the ship from the scene of the Morro Castle disaster. He also commented on the fact that the nineteen day trip cost $9,120.

Cutter Turns Up.

Mrs. Owen denied, at the time, that she had asked the coast guard to send the ship. She said she merely asked if there was to be a ship in those waters. The Champlain, whatever the reason, turned up at Greenland and took her home.

In the book are some references to the Champlain, but the reason for the ship's presence in Greenland waters is not given.

The book says, under the date of Sept. 11:

"We had received the news in last night's 'radio avis' that the American coast guard cutter Champlain which is to carry me back to the United States, had reached the appointed rendezvous at Ivigtut yesterday morning.

"In a land where any craft is a source of interest, the arrival of an American warship is certain to be a momentous event in any Greenland port, and there has been much conjecture on board the Disko about the Champlain's dimensions and type. We were all out on the bridge deck to catch a first glimpse.

See Champlain at Anchor.

"With very little clearage at each side we slid between the rocks and soon we caught sight of the Champlain at anchor, trim and white, and beyond her the little mining town with its erections of iron and steel which are so unexpected on a Greenland scene. Before the Disko had docked and the bridge gangway connected us with Ivigtut's wharf, the colony's welcoming committee on its launch and the commander in the Champlain's motor boat, had come out to the Disko for their official calls.

"Direktor Daugaard-Jensen and I met Commander MacLane at the ship's steps as he mounted them all agleam with gold braid and sword [the Champlain's motor boat has a little canopy of white with knotted fringe shading the broadcloth covered seat which somehow suggested Venice, and the American officer, with his fine drawn dark face and his cocked hat, fitted into a Venetian picture.]"

Three Days After Tragedy.

This was three days after the beaching of the Ward liner and the deaths of scores of people.

The minister also reprints a composition which she called "To Greenland." It says, in part:

When I have seen your mountains sink
Below the far horizon's brink,
All of your icy peaks which gleam
Like frozen music in a dream;
Although I can no longer see
Your loveliness and majesty.
I will not bid a last adieu.
I know I will come back to you.

The book, which is published by Dodd, Mead & Co., contains several photographs of Mrs. Owen, sometimes clad in Eskimo costume.

BREAK GROUND FOR NEW STORE OF GOLDBLATTS'

Mayor Kelly broke ground yesterday morning for the new $500,000 Goldblatt department store on the southwest corner of 91st street and Commercial avenue. The mayor and other public officials and store executives spoke.

"It's a refreshing thing to find a firm with nerve enough to go ahead and spend half a million dollars on a commercial enterprise in times like these," said the mayor. "This is a step in helping the city out of the depression. It will mean more construction jobs and more work for store employés."

JAILED FOR MARIJUANA CIGARETS.

William Marshall, 28 years old, 5114 Sheridan road, arrested in his home Tuesday while making marijuana cigarets, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell and fined $500 yesterday by Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman.

RIDE VICTIM LEFT NEAR OFFICES OF ANTI-VICE GROUP

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—The underworld took a man for a "ride" today and left his body a few doors from the offices of the Society for the Suppression of Vice in Hell's Kitchen. Police said it was probably a policy racket murder, seventh since the Blanshard exposé.

It may have been pure coincidence that the victim was found so close to the quarters of John S. Sumner's Crusaders, but in view of the society's current activity police viewed it as a gesture of mockery.

The victim was unidentified. He was found, a bullet through his head, beneath the steering wheel of a sedan.

The dead man was about 35 and was flashily dressed. All labels had been removed from his clothing. He was slain with one shot from a .32 caliber gun. The bullet entered the back of the head and passed out the front. It was found on the floor of the car.

ENDS LIFE WITH AUTO FUMES.

Harry De Bold, 41 years old, a truck farmer, committed suicide yesterday by leaving his automobile engine running in the garage behind his home at 1537 East 93d street and inhaling the exhaust fumes.

RADIO COMPASS HAWAII FLIGHT OUT, AVERS U. S.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—Commerce department officials today said definitly that no flight would be made to Hawaii by the radio compass plane now being tested on the Pacific coast.

They explained that previous plans for such a flight had been highly tentative in character and never had been approved by Secretary Roper. The plan now is to continue the test flights in which the plane will fly long distances from the Pacific coast and return. These distances might extend to 900 or 1,000 miles.

By combining both outward and inward bound trips, virtually the same distance as a hop to Hawaii could be achieved.

Secretary Roper was said to have definitly dismissed the plan for flying to Hawaii on the ground that the test could be made as satisfactorily with long test flights.

The radio compass under test on the plane was described as a device by which the pilot picks up radio signals from boats at sea or from land stations and thereby is enabled, by following a needle on the compass, to fly directly to that spot.

5 MENDIETA FOES STAGE DARING AIR ESCAPE TO U. S.

ABC Men Dress as Women, Officers; Trick Troops

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, March 20.—Two leaders of the ABC, powerful secret political organization, Jorge Manach and Francisco Ichaso, and three of their followers today daringly avoided arrest by soldiers who for weeks have surrounded the airport here. Disguised as old women and naval officers, they escaped to Miami.

Manach and Ichaso were editor in chief and managing editor respectively of the newspaper Accion. Both are charged by the army's intelligence service with being "moral and intellectual inciters and with having been responsible for the recent attempt to assassinate Ramon Vasconcelos. Vasconcelos is president of the Liberal party [once led by exiled President Machado], and a prominent newspaperman.

Accused of Part in Strike.

Manach and Ichaso are also accused of "promoting and supporting the recent revolutionary general strike to overthrow President Carlos Mendieta and Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staf."

Julio Power, photographer; Diego Boniche, reporter; and Eduardo Hector Alonso, news editor, all of the Accion, left on the same plane. They were also charged with attempting to kill Vasconcelos.

Boniche and Alonso boarded the plane first, dressed as first and second lieutenants of the navy. They were followed by "Corporal" Power. Boniche wore heavy rimmed smoked glasses. Power had a two weeks' growth of beard—goatee and mustache.

Manach Poses As Old Woman.

Manach posed as an aged, rheumatic woman, with white hair, a black bonnet, a plain black dress with white trimmings and low heeled black satin slippers.

He walked slowly, constantly limping and resting on the cane in his right hand.

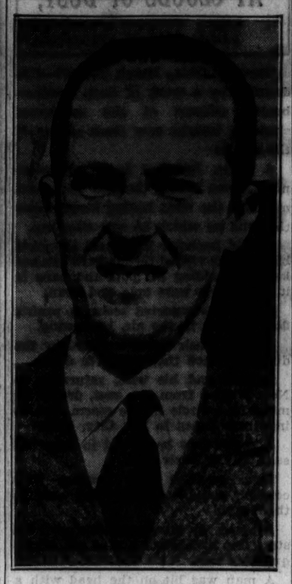
A tall, husky young man, six feet tall, accompanied him, seemingly going with his feeble, sick mother to the plane. However, both carried revolvers.

Ichaso, also dressed like a woman, embarked under the same kind of protection.

Put Poison Fin Bones in Sweetheart's Bed; On Trial

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, March 20.—(AP)—A fisherman accused of planting poisonous fin bones of Trinidad's deadly "devil fish" in his sweetheart's bed was committed for trial in Supreme court yesterday. Ribo Jaspar, a fisherman, was accused of attempting to injure Olive Edwards. She testified only a neighbor's warning had saved her from lying on the bones as she retired.

ALLOWANCE ENDED



COUNT COVADONGA.

CANNES, France, March 20.—(AP)—Count Covadonga, whose allowance has been discontinued by his father, former King Alfonso of Spain, because he refused to attend the wedding of his brother, Don Jaime, may enter the movies in the United States, it was reported today.

Friends close to the count said the former king stopped the small allowance because his oldest son, despite an invitation, declined to attend the wedding of Jaime and Emanuela de Dampierre at Rome March 4. The count is living in a small villa on the outskirts of Cannes.

The count recently expressed resentment that his father gave permission for his brother's marriage to a commoner while he withheld permission when the count married Edelmira Sampedro in 1933.

KING OF BELGIANS SEEKS BUSINESS DATA ON CABINET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, March 20.—King Leopold today set a precedent in Belgium by conferring with business leaders in an attempt to devise a new cabinet to carry on the fight to preserve the gold standard. The cabinet of Premier Georges Theunis resigned yesterday, unable to agree on policies in connection with the maintenance of gold.

The king called in the presidents of the Brussels and Antwerp chambers of commerce as well as political leaders, and it was suggested consequently that the new administration might represent an entirely new political setup.

Theunis is still given the best chance to head up the new administration, since his resignation was in no way due to parliamentary opposition. Some quarters, however, believe that Henry Jaspar, a former foreign minister who is a stout advocate of the gold standard, will be selected.

MEXICO HUNTS TWO YANKS HELD BY KIDNAP GANG

Death Threatened Unless Ransom Is Paid.

MEXICO CITY, March 20.—(AP)—Active, if discreet, efforts to free two Americans kidnaped in the state of Zacatecas last week were under way tonight in the states of Zacatecas, Aguascalientes and San Luis Potosi.

One of the Americans, Louis Vremsak of Santa Barabar, Cal., was kidnaped in Huchipila, Zacatecas, on March 12. The other, Mark Fowler, of Nebraska City, Neb., was seized in Jalpa on March 15.

Fearing the men might be killed if troops were sent into the region, the Mexican government instructed its agents to proceed cautiously but to use every means to free them. It was reported that the same gang of kidnapers seized both.

Ransom Money Ready.

Friends of Fowler, a prominent mining engineer well known throughout northern Mexico, indicated their willingness to pay the 10,000 pesos [$2,785] demanded for his release.

A Mexican named Jasmine, who was kidnaped with Fowler, was released and returned to the city of Aguascalientes to conduct the ransom negotiations. He brought word that the kidnapers set today as the deadline for the payment of the ransom, threatening otherwise to kill their prisoner.

United States consuls at San Luis and Aguascalientes were working with Mexican authorities, while the embassy here was coöperating in the effort to secure release of the Americans.

Wife on Way With Ransom.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—(AP)—In an effort to save the lives of two American men held by bandits in a mountain retreat near Juchipila, Zacatecas, 250 miles northwest of Mexico City, two women tonight were speeding toward Mexico by train from Los Angeles carrying $2,800 as ransom.

Louis F. Vremsaw, Santa Barbara, Cal., manufacturer, who was captured while seeking buried gold, and Mark Fowler, Nebraska City, Neb., mining man, were the two held for ransom.

Mrs. Vremsak and Mrs. Mary L. McKinney, who accompanied Vremsak on the treasure hunt and was released by the bandits to come to Los Angeles to raise the money, boarded a train early today to enter Mexico via Nogales, Sonora.

Pair Face Death Today.

"I have received word from the American consul at San Luis Potosi that Vremsak and Fowler were to be shot at 5 p. m. [Pacific time] tomorrow unless the ransom money is paid," said Jose L. Navarro, attorney here. Navarro obtained permission in Mexico for Vremsak and Mrs. McKinney to seek 40 large bars of gold said to have been buried more than a century ago when Mexico rebelled against Spanish rule.

"The consul, notified of the departure of the two women, telegraphed that he hoped to delay the threatened shooting—and to obtain the ransom money, if possible, from the Mexican government," Navarro said. "However, the outcome now is in the lap of fate."

Fowler, who was doing some mining work in Mexico, was believed to have been mistakenly identified by the bandits as one of the treasure hunters. Navarro said that Vremsak's interpreter, Elias Romo, also was being held.

HELD ON AUTO THEFT CHARGE.

Jack Karp, 18 years old, 1220 South Millard avenue, was held to the grand jury for automobile theft yesterday by Municipal Judge Joseph A. Graber.

DYING OUTLAW'S VISIT TO PRIEST IS TOLD IN TRIAL

in the house with my two small nephews. I refused to take him in and said I would take him somewhere else.

"I got into my car and told them to follow. I drove west to Skokie boulevard and as I rounded into the boulevard I noticed they had turned off in another direction and speeded away."

Although Father Coughlan had not up to this point said that he recognized Mr. and Mrs. Williams as the hunted Nelsons, he testified that he called up the department of justice office in Chicago and told an agent there of his encounter with the fugitives.

Cross-Examined by O'Brien.

The priest was cross-examined by Attorney W. W. O'Brien, chief of defense counsel.

"You knew the man was dying?" the lawyer asked.

"I felt he was," Father Coughlan answered.

"Yet you did nothing?" O'Brien persisted.

"That is right," the priest replied.

On redirect examination Prosecutor McMahon inquired: "You knew who the Williamses really were?"

"I had not known when I met them at Long Beach," the witness said, "but after the escape of John Dillinger and his men from the Little Bohemia resort in northern Wisconsin [on April 22, 1934] I saw pictures of Nelson and his wife in the newspaper and recognized them as Mr. and Mrs. Williams."

Leaves Court Under Heavy Guard.

The heavy federal guard again accompanied Father Coughlan as he left the federal courthouse, brushing aside photographers. Later United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green cleared up some of the mysterious points in the priest's encounters with the Nelsons and Chase.

"When Father Coughlan met the Nelsons under the name of Williams in Long Beach he gave them his address in Wilmette, as they had been very friendly and seemed to be a nice couple," Mr. Green said.

"Shortly before the battle at Little Bohemia, Chase went to the priest in Wilmette, introduced himself as Ed Burns and told him: 'Jimmy Williams wants to see you.' Father Coughlan replied that Williams could come to his home. Chase went away and that was the last Father Coughlan saw of him until Chase and the Nelsons, whom the priest had not seen since the summer at Long Beach, appeared at the house on the night of Nov. 27."

Medical Aid His First Thought.

"Where was Father Coughlan going to take the three of them when he told them to follow his car?" Mr. Green was asked.

"He has said to me that he didn't know just where himself," the prosecutor replied, "but he intended getting some place where Nelson could receive medical aid. Then Father Coughlan planned to call the police on the department of justice and inform them of Nelson's whereabouts."

According to the list of prosecution witnesses made public before the trial, Father Coughlan's address was given as "in care of the Rev. L. Hugo of the Holy Name parish at Canute, Okla." It was learned that Father Coughlan is not connected with that parish but uses the address for receipt of mail.

A Rev. Philip W. Coughlan is listed in the Roman Catholic year book for 1929 as being a member of a Missouri diocese, but the name is not listed in any subsequent Catholic yearbooks. No priest of such a name is connected with the Chicago archdiocese.

BATTLE SCENE DESCRIBED

Earlier yesterday eyewitnesses to the Barrington gun fight testified for the government. The fusillades of shots that transformed the intersection of the Northwest highway and route 63 into a battlefield were vividly described.

The first of these witnesses was Mrs. Frances Kramer, whose son Harold operates a gasoline station on the Northwest highway near the scene of the shooting.

Mrs. Kramer saw what happened after Nelson, his wife, and Chase had been pursued into Barrington from the northwest by Cowley and Hollis. Nelson's car, disabled in an earlier encounter with other federal agents, pulled off the Northwest highway into the entrance to Barrington park, while Cowley and Hollis stopped their car fifty yards east of the park entrance.

"I was in the garage with Harold and his 2 year old baby," Mrs. Kramer related, "when I heard explosions outside. At first I thought it was backfire from automobiles. Then I heard the screech of brakes and went outside.

"I saw a woman [later identified as Nelson's wife] run to the north side of the highway and hide in some weeds. I saw two men [Chase and Nelson] aiming from behind their Ford at a Hudson car [which Cowley and Hollis were just leaving]. The shooting was terrific.

"The smaller man [Nelson] ran toward Hollis, shooting. Chase was firing from his car. Hollis fell in a ditch on the north side of the road. Then Nelson ran to the ditch, dropped his gun and looked at Hollis. Nelson motioned with his hand to Chase that he was going to get in the Hudson.

She Describes the Getaway.

"He got in this car, backed it to the Barrington park entrance on the south side of the highway. Cowley was lying in a ditch on the south side of the road near a telephone pole.

"Nelson drove the Hudson to where his Ford was standing and Chase transferred guns from the rear of the Ford to the other car.

"Chase got behind the wheel and Nelson sagged in the front passenger seat. The woman ran from the weeds and jumped into the rear of the car and they sped off."

On cross-examination Mrs. Kramer was asked if she was certain the first shots had come from the Ford. She replied:

"That's the way I saw it."

Version of Another Witness.

Paul W. Sherman, 4526 North Spaulding avenue, an automobile salesman, said he was driving west in the highway when he heard the shots.

"I slowed down from 65 to 60 miles an hour," Sherman testified, "and then finally braked my car as I came in view of the firing. I backed up on the north side of the highway and tried to hide. But the shooting was so continuous and terrific that I started to run to a gasoline station to call the police. [This was not Kramer's station, but another one nearby].

"Shots were buzzing around my ears and I had to drop into mud twice before I could reach the station. After the three people had fled in the Hudson I came out with Policeman Gallagher [William Gallagher of the state highway police].

"We saw Hollis lying dead. Then we saw Cowley and at first I started to cuss him out, but he motioned me to get down and listen to him. He was mumbling incoherently. Then we found a card in his pocket which identified him as a government agent."

Watch and Pen Lost.

On cross-examination Sherman said that he had lost his watch and fountain pen in his flight from the shooting.

Q.—[By O'Brien]—Are you going to sue the government for the pen and watch? A.—You don't expect me to sue Baby Face Nelson for them, do you?

Q.—Didn't you blame Cowley for the shooting? A.—I talked wildly when I first saw him. After all I had just escaped being shot.

Q.—Was it your impression that Cowley was hurt so badly he couldn't talk? A.—He was badly hurt, but I do remember now that he asked: 'How is my pal, Hollis.'

Robert T. Malone, attendant in the filling station where Sherman had sought safety, and Policeman Gallagher told stories similar to that of Sherman. Malone said he had seized a rifle in his garage and had gone to the road and fired a shot in the air "to distract the other shooters." Gallagher then seized the rifle and fired several more shots.

On cross-examination Malone and Gallagher admitted they could not identify Chase as one of those in the gun battle. Chase, however, has already been identified by other government witnesses.

U. S. Agent Exposes Dope Ring

Melvin Hanks (left), United States customs agent of Seattle, Wash., who spent 14 months on case, and Chin Guey, held in connection with investigation of ring. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Ordered to Seattle

Chin Guey, 6150 Dorchester avenue, Chinese importer and for many years a Chicago merchant, was ordered yesterday to Seattle, Wash., for trial on an indictment charging the smuggling of narcotics into the United States. There are fourteen defendants to the charge.

Formal entry of the order was stayed by United States Commissioner Walker until March 27 to give Chin Guey an opportunity to post his bonds of $4,000.

Arrest of the members of the alleged dope ring came as a result of investigations made by Melvin Harks, a customs agent at Seattle. By going through an oriental ceremony of initiation he was admitted to the councils of the smugglers and thus learned their secrets.

U. S. SCORES A POINT

During the day the government scored a victory when Judge Sullivan permitted the introduction of evidence that the Ford V-8 sedan in which Nelson and his companions rode into Barrington had been stolen the day before from Harold W. Prince, 2639 North New England avenue. Prince told of this from the witness stand.

The importance of this line of testimony, Prosecutor Green explained, was that it will show the outlaws had a criminal motive for firing first at the agents. The stolen car had been taken over the state line into Wisconsin, a federal offense, and then back to Illinois.

The fact that Nelson and his party were riding in a stolen car is expected to refute an indicated defense that the agents were the aggressors. The defense contends the department of justice wanted Nelson killed from ambush and not captured alive.

Cowley "Statement" Under Fire.

The defense began its efforts to block the government from introducing a purported dying declaration of Cowley in which he named his assailants.

Although the prosecution has not yet submitted the declaration, Defense Attorney O'Brien in cross-examination of Dr. Morgan G. Carpenter, a government witness, indicated that he would assert Cowley was unconscious and could not have made a coherent statement. Dr. Carpenter operated on Cowley in the Sherman hospital at Elgin in a vain effort to save the agent's life.

Under O'Brien's questioning Dr. Carpenter said that Melvin Purvis, chief of the department of justice agents in Chicago, did not have an opportunity to talk to Cowley before the operation but was in the room.

Q. [by O'Brien]—What was the patient's condition when Purvis talked to him after the operation? A.—He was conscious but suffering from shock.

Q.—Do you recall anything Cowley said after the operation? A.—I was there once when he recognized his wife at his bedside. He said to her: "Hello, sweetheart."

More government witnesses will testify today.

$250,000 GIVEN DON CHAMPAGNE, WIDOW TESTIFIES

Gay Spender's Pleas for More Cash Told.

Mrs. Grace M. Forschner, elderly widow of the late Thomas J. Forschner, wealthy contractor, told a jury in Judge John C. Lewe's Criminal court yesterday how she had turned over approximately $250,000 to John Donald Walker, better known in night life circles as Don Champagne, a former convict. She had only a casual acquaintance with him, she said.

Walker is on trial on a charge of larceny by bailee of 900 shares of Chicago Corporation stock, valued at $17,030, which Mrs. Forschner said she gave him to use as collateral for a loan. The defendant, who was released from the Joliet penitentiary in April, 1933, is being tried under the habitual criminal act, and if convicted can be given a flat sentence of 10 years.

Prosecutor Has Troubles.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty, who is in charge of the prosecution, had difficulty in getting the desired testimony from the gray haired complaining witness and from Mrs. Louise M. Ranger, 6637 Kimbark avenue, who introduced Walker to Mrs. Forschner.

"I first met Walker in the summer of 1931 at the honor farm at Joliet," she told the jury. "I was introduced to him by Mrs. Ranger."

Mrs. Forschner said that in June, 1933, two months after Walker's release from the penitentiary, she met him again when he came to her house with Mrs. Ranger. She then told of giving Walker 900 shares of stock on Jan. 26, 1934. This is the specific item listed in the indictment. She also told of other stock transfers, totaling 3,900 shares with a value of more than $100,000.

Prosecutor Dougherty became exasperated several times because Mrs. Forschner insisted on giving summaries of what was said rather than telling the exact conversation.

Emphatic in Cross-Quiz.

When cross-examined by Defense Attorneys James M. Burke and George Crane, however, Mrs. Forschner showed she could be emphatic in her answers, and she refused to back down from her original story that she never authorized Walker to sell the stock and pocket the money.

"I never questioned Walker," she continued. "He always told me not to worry, that I would never lose one penny through him."

Mrs. Ranger was the only other prosecution witness. She was evasive in her answers and several times Prosecutor Dougherty shouted his questions at her.

Husband Stole Patients, So She Gets Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—Professional rivalry was blamed in Superior court here today when Dr. Nellie Blaylock, physician and surgeon, won an uncontested divorce from her husband, Dr. Kenneth W. Blaylock, osteopath. "He told my patients he was a better doctor than I and that they would be better off with him," the wife testified.

SWEAR IN EIGHT FOR DEATH JURY IN ERICKSEN CASE

State's Penalty Demand Slows Up Selection.

Eight jurors were selected and sworn in yesterday in the Criminal court of Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan to hear the murder case against Mrs. Anna Ericksen, 39 years old, mother of six children. The two panels were selected before the court adjourned for lunch at 12:30 o'clock. The prospective jurors' conscientious scruples against the death penalty slowed down selection of the last four, whose selection will continue when court resumes today. More than seventy-five veniremen passed through the jury box during the day.

Mrs. Ericksen is charged with causing, on Dec. 22, 1934, the murder of her husband, George, 46 years old, who with her operated the Airport grill, 6001 South Cicero avenue. She was indicted jointly for the murder with James Senese, 19 years old, 6204 South Keating avenue, and Elmer Krueger, 21 years old, 3434 West 114th street.

Two Young Men Confess.

Senese confessed firing four shots into Ericksen's body in the areaway adjoining the restaurateur's home at 6221 South Keating avenue. Krueger said he saw the slaying and that Senese promised him $250 of the $500 which they declared Mrs. Ericksen agreed to pay to Senese for killing Ericksen. Senese and Krueger have been granted separate trials. They were listed yesterday among the prosecution witnesses.

Mrs. Ericksen, a short, plumpish woman with dark red freshly waved hair, a turned up nose and small feet and hands, indulged in a cry in an anteroom before court convened, but maintained a stoical calm during the remainder of the day. Occasionally she conferred with her attorneys, Emmet Byrne and Harold Levy, and their investigator, Edward Evans, regarding selection of the jurors.

Qualify for Death Penalty.

Assistant State's Attorneys Emmett Moynihan, John Boyle and Frank Donoghue, in charge of the prosecution, in turn examined the prospective jurors and qualified them for the death penalty.

"Would the fact that this woman had six children influence your sympathetic nature?" Assistant State's Attorney Donoghue inquired of Ernest Hunt, a Maywood mechanic. "Tears are not going to influence you one way or another?"

"No sir," said Hunt firmly.

Hunt was excused by the defense, along with twelve others. The state challenged six peremptorily. Fourteen were excused by the court when they declared they had conscientious scruples against the death penalty and 16 were excused by agreement, many because they admitted prejudice against inflicting the death penalty.

An insurance agent among prospective jurors was excused by agreement. He was connected with the company which handled the $2,500 policies on Ericksen's life, for which the state charges Mrs. Ericksen plotted her husband's murder.

POLICE HUNT FOR PAL OF ROBBER SLAIN IN TRAP

The police sought yesterday a companion of M. Boban, 40 years old, 1016 East 62d street, who was shot to death in a gun battle with police early yesterday morning after he had been trapped in the rear of 6143 Ellis avenue.

Before the shooting, Boban and his friend robbed George Richards, 808 North Wabash avenue, a cab driver, of $6. Police pursued, and Policeman George Kush of Sergt. James Daley's detective bureau squad seized Boban's ally. Kush freed his captive, however, when a bullet ripped through the policeman's coat and lodged in a thick wallet in his pocket. Kush turned his attention to firing on Boban and dropped him.

Boban had no police record here, but is said to have recently come to this city from Kansas City, Mo. His wife, who is reported to have left him a week ago and returned to Kansas City, is being sought by the police to learn more of his record.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—The senate today confirmed Charles T. Fisher of Detroit as a director of the Reconstruction corporation. The senate also confirmed Clifton Mathews of Arizona as judge of the Ninth federal circuit and John M. Moore as United States marshal for the eastern district of Kentucky.

MARTIN INSULL WILL DEPART FOR CANADA TONIGHT, A DEPORTEE

Martin J. Insull, former president of the Middle West Utilities company, will leave Chicago at midnight tonight, a deportee.

Accompanied by an immigration inspector, Insull will go to Detroit, where he will be turned over to Canadian authorities. Insull fled to Canada after the collapse in 1932 of the utilities empire headed by his brother, Samuel. He was extradited to Chicago, and last December won acquittal on a charge of embezzlement. A second embezzlement charge was nol prossed this week.

Insull has been staying with his son-in-law, Maj. William K. Rafferty, at Morocco, Ind. After he returns to Canada his status will be that of any other alien, and he may reënter the United States under the British quota.

Robs Man to Get Material for Book; Sent to Prison

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 20.—Under an urge to write a history of his life which he felt would not be complete until he had committed a crime, Duncan MacRae, 42, held up a man and robbed him of 65 cents and a can of lubricating oil. He told the judge today that he had wandered over North America eking out a living at odd jobs. Sentencing him to two years' imprisonment, Judge Harper said he took into consideration MacRae's "foolish compact with himself."

ACT TO ORGANIZE HOMEMAKERS AS ENDURING GROUP

Committee Will Report to Conference Today.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

A committee chosen yesterday in the Midwest Conference on Homemaking to collect and disseminate educational material of importance to women's organizations promises to develop the Conference on Homemaking into a permanent enterprise. The conference is to close today its three day gathering in the Hotel Sherman.

The new committee consists of the heads of the Congresses of Parents and Teachers in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana and Michigan, and the presidents of several large local Parent-Teacher associations, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Arthur Williams of the Illinois Parent-Teacher association.

This group is to devise ways to collate the data supplied during the current conference by the experts on its speakers' program, and to find means to add to this information and to make it available to other organizations. It will report this afternoon and official action is expected to follow.

Aims of the Movement.

The basic purpose is to institute an organized consumer movement embracing the five states represented in the sessions here and to promote intelligent buying by supplying housewives with specific information on articles purchased.

The conference is expected to adopt at a breakfast this morning the "homemakers' code" submitted yesterday by the resolutions committee. The breakfast will take place in the house on the roof of the Hotel Sherman.

The proposed code exhorts the delegates to further home welfare by fostering sound domestic economics, good physical and sanitary conditions, and intelligent coöperative management of the family by its several members.

Ex-NRA Official Attacks NRA.

At yesterday afternoon's session, Prof. Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago, a former member of the Consumers' Advisory board of the National Recovery administration, declared that under the NRA many practices have "blossomed out" which prove adverse to the consumer and which, through trade associations, help monopolies to boost prices above their competitive level.

The professor attributed these evils to the formation of open price agreements, provided for in about half the NRA codes, and to the clause in about three-fourths of the codes that forbids sales to take place below what is defined as "cost."

"By requiring business men to notify the code authorities in advance if they plan to reduce prices," he explained, "it is made possible for bigger companies to 'turn the heat on' the smaller concerns. And great opportunities for abuse are presented in the definition of what constitutes 'cost,' with the pronounced tendency for the full burden of overhead to be charged to an output still far below normal."

Strachey Is Back in Town; Deportation Hearing Today

Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey, radical British author, is to appear today before Fred J. Schlotfeldt, director of the Chicago office of the bureau of immigration, for a hearing on a citation charging that he is a communistic alien and therefore subject to deportation. The hearing is scheduled for 11 a. m. in the immigration office in the postoffice building.

Strachey left New York for Chicago yesterday in a plane, accompanied by his wife and Attorney Arthur Garfield Hayes, representing the American Civil Liberties union, which has taken up the writer's defense. The plane was forced down at Toledo by fog and the party continued the journey here by train.

Scheduled to Talk Tonight.

In the event the hearing does not bring an immediate order for Strachey to cease his lecturing—he was arrested in Glencoe March 12 after he had finished a talk—he will appear this evening in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium to explain his "intellectual communism" again.

Specifically, the immigration authorities charge that Strachey came into the United States on false pretenses. To officials in New York, where he entered the country last December, he denied that he favored the overthrow of the United States government by "force or violence."

D. W. MacCormack, commissioner of immigration, contends, however, that advocacy of communism or membership in the communist party is prima facie evidence of a desire to overthrow the government by force or violence and that on this showing Strachey must be sent out of the country.

Government to Cite Works.

It is known that the government, to prove that Strachey is a communist, will present a transcript of speeches by him and also an article entitled "Why I Became a Communist," which is published today in the magazine The Modern Thinker and Author's Review.

"Many and deep are the numerous neuroses which made a communist out of me," reads a sentence in the magazine article. Another quotation, referring to his activities at one period in England, reads: "Be that as it may, I became a Socialist because it gave me a more focused outlook on social and political conditions. It also caused me to seriously work and hope for the collapse of capitalism and the forceful seizure of government by the workers."

The concluding sentence in the article is: "We will finally discover that the choice lies between moral and intellectual suicide and communism."

Position Taken by Strachey.

Strachey, since his arrest, has contended that he has not advocated anything in the United States and is merely giving informative talks.

Mr. Schlotfeldt said last night that the hearing this morning is a fact finding inquiry. Information presented to him will not be made available to the public, officially. The usual procedure is for the local authority to forward his recommendations to Washington for approval and action.

GREEK PREMIER REVISES CABINET TORN BY REVOLT

ATHENS, March 20.—(AP)—Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris tonight completed the reorganization of his cabinet, disrupted by resignations following the revolt. He retained the portfolio of foreign minister for himself.

Gen. George Kondylis, who doffed ministerial duties to take the field at the head of government troops, remains as war minister. Pericles Rhallis was named minister of the interior.

The finance ministry goes to Pesmazoglou, the ministry of marine to Dousmanis.

7 HUNGARIANS DIE AS POLICE OPEN FIRE ON MEETING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 20.—Gendarmes firing into an assembly gathered for a political meeting killed six persons, one a woman, and mortally wounded another in the village of Endrod, near Bekes-Csaba, today.

The election meeting included small landholders opposed to Premier Julius Goemboes. When the speaker who had called the meeting failed to appear, the gendarmes attempted to disperse the crowd.

Younger peasants refused to leave and the gendarmes opened fire with rifles.

CORN WALLACE, THE DICTATOR.

The housewife going to market these days is the forgotten woman. Nobody pays any attention to her or her problem of providing a balanced diet for her family when prices are soaring.

Down in Washington Secretary Corn Wallace is demanding the enactment of amendments to the agricultural act to give him complete control over the food supply of the nation. Nobody has troubled to ask the forgotten woman what she thinks about this scheme. She knows what has happened to prices since Corn Wallace and his army of burocrats have been in power and she has every reason to fear that the extension of the authority of the AAA will mean much more of the same. But she is not being consulted.

Secretary Wallace now is asking the Democratic majority in congress to vote him the right to license persons engaged in growing, handling, or processing farm commodities. The power to license includes the power to revoke a license. When a license has been revoked a business has been destroyed. What the secretary wants, therefore, is the right to threaten all men in the food, clothing, and tobacco businesses with the loss of their livelihoods if they disobey him.

Some doubt has been raised about his present power to control and regulate. He wants all doubt removed. He wants to be in a position to tell the farmers what they may grow and how much they must take for their crops and to tell those who buy and process farm products what they must charge the housewife for them. Any one who wishes to sell below the price fixed by the secretary can then be forced out of business if he so wills. The processor may be satisfied with the lower price and the housewife may be able to pay no more, but Corn Wallace demands the right to step between them and forbid the sale.

No such powers have ever been exercised by any man in this country. No man is wise enough to wield them without doing more harm than good. Certainly on his record Corn Wallace has shown himself neither sufficiently wise nor sufficiently trustworthy for so colossal a task. He is the same Wallace who as a public official instituted the corn control program which has earned him a handsome profit as a breeder of seed corn. He is the same Wallace whose farm paper, with others, has been ordered by the United States Supreme court to defend itself against the charge of violating the anti-trust laws. It is this man whose record in public and private life is dubious who presumes to dictate the relations of millions of hard working and honorable men to their customers.

COMPETITION FOR PROGRESS.

Even as now amended the Mead bill, on which the growth of our air lines depends, is far from satisfactory. Congress is again emulating the interstate commerce act by attempting to preserve competition and still destroy it. Under the terms of the most recent amendment all existing services may be continued, whether or not they involve an air mail contract, but if an express or passenger nonair mail service is added the mail carrier operating between the same competitive points has the privilege of filing a complaint with the interstate commerce commission. If he can show that such competitive service tends to decrease his revenues, and consequently increase the cost of air mail transportation, an order will be issued directing the respondent to discontinue or restrict the number of flights.

Air travel is in its infancy. Tremendous progress has been made within the last year, but there is no reason for doubting that the next year will produce changes that will outmode existing craft. If an aggressive air line wishes to install faster, safer, or more comfortable equipment there should be no legal obstacle available to prevent such air progress.

If it passes this measure congress will handicap future generations to favor incompetents with political pull.

WHO WAS THE PSYCHOPATH?

So long as probation is incorporated in our system of criminal justice it is certain that its privileges should be granted rather freely to a certain percentage of youthful offenders, if for no other reason than that their life expectancy justifies society in some special effort to restore them to useful citizenship. Whether probation is proper for sex offenders, even youthful ones, is more doubtful. Their offenses are too often the evidence of a permanent mental distortion which makes their segregation desirable.

The recent conduct of Municipal Judge Lambert K. Hayes in granting what amounts to probation to a youth arraigned on charges of attempting to rape three women is plainly outrageous. The judge ostensibly acted on the quaint recommendation of Dr. David B. Rotman of the Municipal court psychiatric laboratory that the 17 year old boy, while normal in other respects, "had not been properly instructed in sex knowledge."

If the judge was actually motivated by this recommendation, we submit in all seriousness that he and Dr. Rotman should be examined in their own laboratory. If the psychiatrist's recommendation was merely made a cloak for some other motive, the action was still more reprehensible.

Judge Hayes' conduct will prove embarrassing to those sincere and thoughtful lawyers who are recommending that criminal penalties be made more severe, and that this severity be balanced by granting judges broader powers of parole and probation, that they may fit the penalty to the offender rather than to the crime. Their reply in such cases as this is usually that if a judge is not fit to exercise the broader powers they propose for him, neither is he fit to exercise those which he now holds.

And that is an idea.

PASS THE SMALL LOANS ACT.

The revision of the Illinois small loans act now pending in the Illinois legislature is meritorious and should be passed. The proposed law would complete the job started by THE TRIBUNE a quarter century ago of ridding the state of loan sharks.

When this newspaper declared war on interest gougers in 1911 the rate of interest on a $50 loan secured by pledges of salary or furniture was from 10 to 50 per cent per month. In a notorious case at the time an unfortunate workman was found to be paying at the rate of 796 per cent per year. Reënforced by 80 leading lawyers who donated their services, THE TRIBUNE'S anti-loan shark bureau took the unprincipled usurers of this city through a thorough cleaning.

But this was not enough. The loan shark's opportunity is created by the insistent need of the poor man for credit. Few have the collateral necessary for commercial banking accommodation, and when because of death or illness the need for cash funds becomes insistent and friends or relatives cannot be found to provide them, resort must be had to the small loan agencies. If legitimate places do not exist to obtain what must be had, the bootlegger supplies the service on his own terms. The loan shark was curbed in Illinois not alone by repression and prosecution and the giving of free legal assistance to a pressed borrower but by legalizing the business of lending moderate amounts on other than first class security with safeguards to prevent extortion.

In this way private decent capital was persuaded to go into the business of providing for the credit needs of the average citizen. The laws of this and a number of other states now recognize that the best way to meet the problem is to permit an extra interest rate to cover the actual cost of making small loans at a profit to the lender comparable to that provided by other legitimate businesses.

The present Illinois law has not completely succeeded in driving out the loan shark, as may be seen in the fact that as many as 2,793 notes bearing rates of interest from 300 to 900 per cent were recently adjudicated through the office of the state's attorney of Cook county. However, most necessitous borrowers are now provided for at rates of from 2½ to 3½ per cent through agencies licensed by the state and supervised by the state insurance department.

The proposed law would eliminate the loan shark entirely and would make the supervision of reputable agencies more effective. Licensees would be required to have $20,000 in assets for use in the business. The fitness of applicants would be gone into thoroughly by the state insurance department, which would have wide discretionary powers to grant or deny licenses. To avoid the kind of aggressive competition in which borrowers might be encouraged to overextend themselves the insurance department would be empowered to deny the right to do business where it was believed that existing facilities were adequate.

The maximum rates, while remaining high by ordinary commercial banking standards, are reduced moderately by the proposed law. The rates are those which in the opinion of the Russell Sage Foundation are as low as possible for the present considering the risk and service involved.

The proposed law has the indorsement of Ernest Palmer, the able state director of insurance, and of those agencies headed by the Russell Sage Foundation which have taken a leading part in driving loan sharks out of business. The bill thus comes before the legislature well recommended by those desirous of having funds made available to necessitous borrowers but with safeguards to prevent them from being imposed upon.

Editorial of the Day

THREE EXPERIMENTS FAIL.

[Kansas City Star.]

Developments of the last few days at Washington have invited attention once more to the need of ending the period of experimentation and removing the uncertainties that are holding back business.

We refer especially to the huge public works appropriation bill, with the controversy over the "prevailing wage" to be paid for work relief; the fog that envelops the revamping of the NRA, and the President's remarks at a press conference on the value of the dollar in connection with the price structure.

All three matters have to do with far reaching experimental policies that have been tried in the last two years. All had powerful popular or business support. All have been given sufficient trial to demonstrate their value or lack of value as recovery measures.

The record leads to these conclusions:

1. Vast expenditures on public works do not prime the pump. On the contrary, they involve high future taxes and carry a threat of inflation. Necessary relief expenditures ought to be held as low as possible, and the balancing of the budget ought to be made the definite aim.

2. In the revision of the national industrial recovery act most of the NRA ought to go out of the window, with retention of child labor and anti-sweatshop provisions.

3. Further experimenting with the currency will do only harm by its unsettling effect on business. If industry is not to continue to operate on a hand to mouth basis there must be assurance as to the future value of money.

The unhappy results of these three major experiments are obvious. The experiments have not worked. To pursue them further would be worse than futile. They have proved obstacles to progress.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SING TRA LA LA! tra la la, tra la la, 'tis Spring, 'tis Spring. At eighteen minutes after seven o'clock the sun crosses the line and Spring begins. And it's darned near time. We've had just about all the Winter we could stand. And we'll probably get more snow, ice, blizzards, and what not. But who cares as long as it's Spring! And, anyhow, things like that don't last long in Springtime. In Winter they may hang around for days and weeks, but in the Spring a blizzard hardly pokes his nose in and commences acting rough before up comes a soft, fragrant breeze from the south and gives him a swift kick in the pants and chases him back to the north pole. March, the gloomy old grouch, may go out like a lion, whoinell cares! The important thing is not how March goes out, but that it goes out. And soon the green grass and the wild flowers will come peeping out. So sing again, tra la la, 'tis Spring, 'tis Spring!

THE SENATE has just voted a gold medal to Maj. Gen. A. W. Greely for the discoveries he made in the neighborhood of the north pole away back in 1881. Gen. Greely is ninety years old. Who said republics are ungrateful? They're not if you live until you are ninety years old.

THE COURTEOUS GUEST.

When that dark-liveried lackey knocks
Upon my chamber door
To tell me that the sun is up
And I must fare once more

Forth from this hostelry of life
So filled with song and light,
Wherein I spend a festive day
And pass a love-starred night,

Let me not grudgingly reply
But with good grace instead,
Remembering miles to travel still
And lighted inns ahead.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

THERE'S A SAD old woodchopper over in Holland, Bill Hohenzollern, who ought to sit down and take his pen in hand and write a postcard to Herr Hitler. He should say: "Don't think you can lick the world, Adolph. That's what I thought—once. And only once."

LOOKS LIKE ANOTHER big war in Europe coming soon. Right now the administration says "hands off." That's all right enough—and especially as there isn't any war at present. But when it starts we're liable to get all nervous and excited and want to mix in. But, anyhow, they've got to get a brand new slogan to lure us into the new war. That "Make the world safe for democracy" stuff is worn out and the "war to end war" thing is the raspberry, and all it pulls any more is a loud ha-ha. But the slogan makers are smart; they're liable to get up a new one that we'll all fall for. What we ought to do is to lock all the slogan makers up in jail until the coming war is ended. Because we Americans are carried right off our feet by slogans. And if we have no slogans we'll have no war. Put the slogan writers in jail—then we'll stay quiet. Maybe?

LIKEWISE THE POETS and the song writers ought to be interned or something likewise while the crisis is on over in Europe. John R. Dix won eternal fame by saying, "If any one attempts to haul down the American flag shoot him on the spot." All right, if any poet or song writer pulls another "We're Coming Over, We're Coming Over, and It Won't Be Over Till We're Over Over There" or "Keep the Home Fires Burning Till the Boys Come Home" or "It's a Long Way to Tipperary"—only one thing to do—shoot him on the spot.

AND IF ANY NATION in Europe gets the wind up, as the English so quaintly say, and tries to draw the U. S. into the war on their side let's send 'em a message: "We're with you. Will send our last navy dirigible balloon over right away to hover over your army." Then they'll wire right back: "In the name of humanity keep out. War is hell all right, but your navy dirigibles—oh, keep away, keep away!"

ANYHOW, THE LADIES will be strongly opposed to the U. S. A. getting into the war. All nations at war require civilians as well as soldiers to wear gas masks, and can you imagine the girls being willing to go around with their faces covered with gas masks so that nobody could see how truly beautiful they were? Besides, it would smear their rouge and face powder all up. Mercy, no!

HAUNTED.

Oh, when I die, it's not the fresh-dug clay
Or stifling closeness of the grave I'll dread;
Not paleness of the shroud that I shall fear,
Or noiseless nearness of the resigned dead.
It's dearness of the small things I shall miss:
The dusk shot through by yellow window-glow,
Blue morning glory on the backyard fence,
And dancing of the heart at sight of snow;
The whiff of locust blooms in early spring,
The drench of rain on sober, waiting land.
But I shall cry, with none to hear or care,
Knowing I cannot ever touch your hand.

ANNELLE GRIFFIN.

A TERRIBLE FEAR comes over me as I read that Joel S. Zzess, SUP. 3839, is the last name of the new best seller, the Chicago Telephone Directory, out yesterday. My fear is this, that I don't know how many Zzesses there are and whether or not they're a firm. But suppose they are and some day my phone should ring and I would go to it and a voice would say, "Zzess, Zzess, Zzess & Zzess, Mr. Zzess speaking." If I ever heard that I would cut out that new cocktail I've just learned how to make, "French Seventy-fives," I just know I would. I'd never dare drink those things again.

AND HERR HITLER had better be careful about bringing on a war. He probably wouldn't mind much if a cannon ball took off a leg, but worse could easily happen—somebody might shoot his funny mustache off. Gosh! R. H. L.

WISDOM TEETH.

WHEN the third molars [wisdom teeth] arrive, does it mean that we have reached the state of wisdom through our travels along the pathway of knowledge? Perhaps not, but when the wisdom teeth come through many of us undergo a new but unforgettable experience. The third molars may stir up considerable fuss and sometimes the patient is quite ill.

There are many cases on record in which these teeth have appeared as early as the age of 14, and a recent report notes that some persons are 40 years of age or older before their wisdom teeth appear. The usual age is between 20 and 30, and for this reason individuals in this age period have the most trouble. The lower jaw is more frequently involved than the upper.

According to C. Bowdler Henry, symptoms caused by wisdom teeth may fall into two general categories. The first group may be attributed to pressure and its several manifestations; the second to infection. French surgeons particularly have described many cases of severe infection [sepsis]. The explanation lies in the fact that as the tooth erupts from the jaw bone the mucous membrane may form a hood over a portion of the structure, beneath which infection may lodge. Local discomfort ofttimes progresses to actual illness. Even though the first symptoms may subside within a few days, unless drainage is established the inflammation may recur periodically nd increase in severity. Ulceration sometimes spreads to the mucous surfaces of the mouth and throat. Instances have been recorded of infection of the jaw bone itself, resulting in destruction of the bone and abscess formation in other parts of the body.

Due to the absorption of infection from the jaws, iritis [inflammation of the iris of the eye accompanied by severe pain] may prove to be a severe complication. The case is reported of a young woman with a severe iritis that failed to yield under skilful management. An X-ray of the jaw revealed an infected, impacted [tightly lodged] wisdom tooth, the removal of which was followed by recovery.

Occasionally cases of a stubborn neuritis have been traced to an impacted wisdom tooth. A careful X-ray of the teeth will disclose the condition accurately.

Many authorities have called attention to the relation between the psychoses and impacted wisdom teeth, and W. Hunter tells of a girl of 17 years who became violently destructive and completely disturbed mentally until an impacted wisdom tooth was discovered and extracted.

Henry's report lists nervous and mental symptoms in 75 cases, osteomyelitis in 41, acute suppuration [inflammation plus pus formation] in 116, and neuritis in 83. He does not believe that infection alone is responsible for the numerous symptoms that are relieved by the removal of these teeth, and his series includes a number of cases in which the molars were apparently healthy, although their continued presence was characterized by severe symptoms. He believes that there may be some defect of the tooth germ. This in some instances causes the tooth to become grossly misplaced.

Expert dental surgeons frankly admit that they cannot explain why the development of wisdom teeth is arrested, although the opinion is advanced that most of the difficulties with wisdom teeth could be detected and prevented if the teeth of children between 9 and 11 years were routinely X-rayed. This would disclose badly placed wisdom teeth, which could be extracted if they did not proceed to normal development. Intervention at this stage would save most if not all of the serious complications which sometimes ensue.

WHITE OF EGG.

M. A. S. writes: What food value has the white of an egg?

REPLY.

The white of an egg contains from 3 to 4 grams of protein. This is as valuable a form of protein food as any other.

APPEAL TO VANITY.

G. M. E. writes: How can I stop my husband from twisting his mouth out of shape by biting the inside of his cheeks? Although I have called it to his attention, he continues to do it unconsciously.

REPLY.

Habit "tics" are not uncommon. They do have a tendency to grow on one. Scolding and criticising will avail little. He may be made conscious of this habit by placing him before a mirror and letting him witness the show. Appeal to the strain of vanity inherent in all males.

RIGHT TO PENSION.

Chicago, March 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mr. X, who paid into the Municipal Employés' Benefit fund for several years, and was on a pension for at least ten years, received his pension on the first of each month. Mr. X died Feb. 24 and his pension goes to his wife for the rest of her lifetime. 1. Is the widow entitled to the pension that would have gone to the deceased on March 1, which was four days short, or would she have to wait a full month? 2. Is the widow entitled to the pension from Feb. 1 to the twenty-fourth of the month as long as the payments to this fund were made separate for Mr. X and Mrs. X's pensions? J. H.

1. If she is his only heir, then she would be entitled to all moneys owing to him at the time of his death, but probate proceedings would be necessary in order to force matters. You may be able to persuade the officials to waive probate.

2. The pension officials are in a better position to answer these questions than we are.

FLYING STORIES

By Test Pilot Jim Collins

DEATH ON GRIDIRON.

It's funny how things turn out sometimes. Fate gives you a capricious little tweak, and there you are. I often think of the case of Zep Schock.

Zep and I were fraternity brothers at college. I was crazy about aviation and Zep was crazy about football. I had been too poor to fly up until then and Zep had been too little to play football. He only weighed about 95 pounds when he came to college. They had even used him as a sort of mascot on the high school teams.

Near the end of my freshman year I discovered quite accidentally, through reading an aviation magazine which I had repeatedly promised myself not to read because it took my mind off my work, that the army would teach me to fly for nothing. They would even pay me for it! And Zep suddenly started to grow.

I passed my entrance examinations for the Army Primary Flying school at Brooks field, San Antonio, Tex., that fall, and prepared to quit school after the midterm exams—which would mark the end of my freshman year because I had started college in January instead of March—to go to flying school the following March. Zep had made the freshman football team in the meantime.

There wasn't much flying outside of the army in those days and nobody knew much about it except that it was dangerous. None of the fellows could understand why I was doing such a fool thing. They tried to talk me out of it, discovered they couldn't, decided I was nuts and started kidding me. Zep was the best of the bunch.

Every night at dinner he used to propose a toast to me. "Here is to Jimmy Collins," he used to say; "the average life of the aviator is forty hours." He had picked those figures up some place reading about war pilots.

That was eleven years ago and I'm still flying. Poor Zep made the regular team the next year and got killed playing football.

BLOCKING TRANSPORT PROGRESS.

McGuffey, O., March 16.—Your editorial, "Blocking Transport Progress," is very interesting.

At this point in Ohio we produce around 1,500 to 2,000 cars of potatoes and onions, of which 75 per cent are hauled by truck from here. We ourselves ship around 800 to 1,000 cars of onions annually out of Michigan to all points in the United States.

I notice the railroads have a pickup and delivery system in various parts of our country, which is included in the rate on local freight. We could do much more business and the railroads could compete with the trucks and increase their earnings if they would allow us to tramp cars from city to city unloading part at each stopping point, not making any charge for this stop-off. Today it is almost impossible to get cars stopping off on roads even if paying $6.30 for this privilege in addition to the regular rate.

It does seem that there is something radically wrong with the handling of our railroads. Just recently our freight rates were raised 20 per cent to Gulf of Mexico points and eastern seaboard points, Jacksonville, New Orleans, and Pensacola. With these higher rates we are shut out and the business is all going by truck. If they had reduced their rates 20 per cent they would have increased their business 50 per cent from our products alone. It may be that some day they will come to their senses and look after the interest of the public.

O, JOHN!

Chicago, March 17.—Your cartoon on the front page on St. Patrick's day belongs in trash magazines and not before the eyes of the public. Every one over the age of 8 knows that St. Patrick was a man. The artist would have been better off if he had painted shamrocks. Or doesn't he paint flowers?

AVOIDABLE ACCIDENTS.

Chicago, March 18.—In our seventh grade schoolroom we use the pieces from the paper about "Avoidable Accidents." These notices help us to remember more about safety. My teacher asked me to write to you and tell you that we were glad those pieces are in the paper.

BREAKING QUARANTINE

Chicago, March 16.—We all feel sorry for people in trouble, but it does seem selfish for people who live on taxpayers' money to willfully break quarantine and go out among other people's children, forgetting that if those children contract the disease their parents would have to meet all expenses out of their own small tax-rifled pocketbooks.

WORRIED.

TRIBUTE TO AN ENGLISH INSTRUCTOR.

Chicago, March 18.—On March 4 I wrote you 293 words, calling attention to one mistake in English frequently made in your editorial columns. You pruned my letter down to 96 words and added insult upon injury by calling my dear old deceased professor a prig.

In your March 8 issue, however, you apparently gave full space to an article on the salacious subject "Massage Parlors."

On March 14 you printed a letter from "L. M. K.," Battle Creek, Mich., who sponsored my original criticism, but your caption to "L. M. K.'s" request for a public acknowledgment of your error was "No." In other words, you stubbornly tried to maintain your untenable position a second time with that terse but inconsiderate caption.

Today "Ionia" from Huntington, Ind., harks back to his instruction in the fourth grade for proof in support of my contention about the importance and proper placement of "nots" in carefully constructed English sentences.

You apparently are trying to justify the continued misplacement of the "nots" in your editorial columns by the fact that Bill Shakespeare, several centuries ago, also misplaced the "not." What cowardice and narrowness and lack of sincerity or progress you display when you so boorishly treat and comment upon a constructive criticism when made only after years of punishment and silence on my part and the part of others equally interested in accurate English.

If I were to write a caption apropos to head this letter I would try to decide between one of the following: "There are none so blind as those who will not see," or "No argument can be won merely by calling names," or "Prigs may be bad, but stubborn Bourbons are certainly worse," or "You have not constructively answered my criticism."

Take your choice, as either one of these captions fit the situation.

FRANK E. SPENCER.

SPEAKING OF INVESTIGATIONS—

Chicago, March 17.—President Roosevelt has signed the bill appropriating $750,000 for the government's investigation into the affairs of the A. T. & T.

It seems to me that it would be well for this government of ours to start investigating their own affairs, including the reasons for high taxation, graft in most of our branches of the relief organization, etc. If our elected officers cannot handle the duties of the government at a cost within the limits of the people's ability to pay, how can they go into other lines of business and tell the world what is wrong and what has to be done? It would be well for the government to leave our large companies as they are.

JOHN STEDMAN.

PEACEABLE SUBMISSION.

Chicago, March 16.—This week's papers have carried the story of the murder of an old storekeeper who resisted a bandit who held him up with a gun. When apprehended the robber expressed himself as much annoyed by his victim's resistance. "Why couldn't he have submitted to this robbery peaceably?" he said.

This has a decided parallel in Mr. Roosevelt's attacks on the public utility investors. The President and the TVA officials are annoyed and indignant that the stockholders of the Knoxville Light and Power company and of other properties in that territory have not submitted peaceably to being robbed of their property. On the contrary, these stockholders have sued in the federal courts for protection of their rights and have won the first case under Judge Grubb's decision at Birmingham.

That the President is likewise irritated by the resistance to his holding company bill, on the part of stockholders whom it would ruin, is clearly indicated by the temper displayed in his message on the subject to congress of last Tuesday.

He plainly is annoyed that these stockholders should resist being robbed of their savings. Why cannot they submit peaceably to this confiscation? He did not expect such opposition. A. T. T.

PROPER RELIEF COSTS.

Plymouth, Wis., March 18.—According to a statement by the mayor of Platteville, Wis., as it appears in THE TRIBUNE of March 15, the workers of his city do not fare as well on their $14 per week average wages as do those on the federal relief. He seems to be grieved at the amount of supplies received by those on the relief rolls. He seems to maintain that the average rate of wages of $14 per week is a gauge by which the families of the poor and needy should be provided.

The cost of feeding the inmates of the Sheboygan county, Wisconsin, jail is reported at 25 cents per meal or 75 cents per day. The cost of providing for the inmates of penal institutions is approximately $400 per year.

Some one versed in mathematics and economics might prepare an itemized list of the necessities of life with their cost at present retail prices.

JAMES DE ZWARTE SR.

THAT'S WHERE THE MONEY GOES.

Chicago, March 16.—It seems evident that the 5 billion dollar fund which congress is being forced to pass is intended as a slush fund for spending the way back into the White House in 1936. It should take about that sum to perpetuate a Democratic administration which has shown no interest in the industrial development of our poor country.

MAYOR ASKS CITY TO LAUNCH NEW RECOVERY DRIVE

Promises to Fight for Huge Works Fund.

In a talk to Chicago business men Mayor Kelly yesterday called on Chicago to launch a new campaign toward business recovery and promised to lead the way with a campaign to get $250,000,000 of federal public works funds, which, he anticipates, will be successful.

"The moment the $4,880,000,000 public works bill is approved by congress I will go to Washington to ask President Roosevelt for upward of $250,000,000 for Chicago to prime the pumps of our industry," the mayor declared. "I am confident that the aid will be granted, and I'm calling on Chicago citizens now to prepare for a business drive that will give this city eventually the commercial leadership of the whole United States."

Urges Permanent Fair.

Mayor Kelly spoke before several hundred business men and women at a special luncheon meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Palmer house. He was scheduled to discuss plans for the $20,000,000 permanent Chicago Fair proposed for Burnham park. The mayor pointed to the fair as one important item in a great Chicago recovery program, and his address quickly expanded beyond the subject of the fair itself.

Speaking with an air of great confidence, the mayor pointed to Chicago's optimistic future if a campaign for business and renewed prosperity is started now.

"We can't have business and work by just talking about it," said the mayor. "We must go after it. The past World's Fair has demonstrated what Chicago can do.

Envisions Rush to City.

"If business is ready, this administration is ready to go ahead with a huge reconstruction program that will provide employment for 100,000 workers, pour millions into the trade channels in this city, and bring countless thousands of visitors here for relaxation, business, and perhaps to establish their homes.

"We're on the way up in Chicago now, but if we're to take real leadership in the nation we must go to work. The time has come for us to stop talking and to start action. If the people of this city are ready to cooperate, I feel certain that the federal government will aid us in our project."

Funds for the establishment of a $20,000,000 permanent fair on the lake front are practically assured, the mayor said.

Invites Views of Citizens.

"I have discussed the project with the man who, I believe, will handle the funds, and I know that he wants the Chicago Fair and that the necessary money will be provided.

"I am not here to enter into a debate on the merits of the Fair plan. I want to present the plan to the people and to have them study it and offer criticism.

"The world has known what Chicago has done with A Century of Progress. If we want to make this city the greatest playground in the United States, if we want to make it the greatest convention center in the world, we'll seriously consider this plan as advanced by a commission of experts and leading citizens.

"Experts have estimated that if Chicago can establish a great Fair and make the city a real convention center it will mean $150,000,000 a year to our business. We need that business.

Stresses Need of City.

"In addition to that, we need a dignified, cultural recreation center where our people can play and where they can bring their friends from the outside. The Chicago Fair will satisfy these needs. It will be the first step in a program to stimulate Chicago business and to give our people work."

The mayor outlined the history of the plans for a permanent Fair, pointing out that the Burnham park area is unsuitable for a park and that, equipped with a large convention hall, it offers an admirable site as a national convention center.

"Things objectionable in A Century of Progress will be eliminated," he said. "There will be no concessions. There will be no ballyhoo and fanfare. Also, the commission to supervise the Fair will not be politically controled. The project will not cost any taxpayer one cent."

The proposed Fair will immediately build up the south and near west sides, the mayor predicted. He forecast it would continue the general business revival which accompanied A Century of Progress.

"The sponsors of A Century of Progress were considered almost insane by some, and the sponsors of this new project may be so considered," the mayor added. "Nevertheless we believe that this new plan is right."

Among the projects in the $250,000,000 business priming program, Mayor Kelly listed The Chicago Fair, the construction and rehabilitation of sewers, streets and water mains, and the building of superhighways, a maternity hospital, and water filtration plants. And the list, he indicated, is not yet complete.

WORLD'S FAIR IS PAID FOR, WITH $424,000 LEFT FOR DEMOLITION

All bondholders and creditors of A Century of Progress have been paid and the Fair is entering its final fiscal period with $424,254.44 in available cash and $277,916.67 in securities and cash held by the Chicago Park district, according to an announcement yesterday by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager.

Demolition of unwanted buildings and equipment and readaptation of the ground occupied by A Century of Progress must be completed within the next fifteen months. Maj. Lohr explained that the available cash would be used to finance the demolition and restoration of park property. Sixty persons remain employed in the various offices of the Fair and additional workers will be employed on restoration.

The controler's report shows a total revenue for the period of Jan. 5, 1928, to Dec. 31, 1934, of $29,321,876.07. The total operating expenses for the same period were $16,983,646.45. The operating expense item does not include the payment of $10,000,000 to bondholders.

Although 6,637,037 fewer people entered the Fair grounds during the 1934 season than in 1933, the revenue to A Century of Progress dropped only $5,405,500.16 during the second season. The total gross concession sales in 1933 were $23,953,312.45 and in 1934 were $14,918,243.84. The report shows further that several concessions did practically as large a gross business in 1934 as in 1933.

ATTACKS SCHOOL BOARD'S WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

Clubwoman's Charge Denied by McCahey.

Changes in the procedure of regular school board meetings were demanded yesterday by Mrs. Mark P. Mears, president of the Woman's City club of Chicago, in a letter to James B. McCahey, president of the board. Mrs. Mears said that when several officers of the club attended a board meeting recently the measures coming before the board were read by number and title only and were acted upon without discussion.

She said that the board meeting was scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. and that after a discussion carried on in committee, outside the board rooms, the meeting actually got under way at 3:40 p. m. and was concluded at 4:30 o'clock.

"Public but Not Open."

The protest of the Woman's City club says, "The law provides that the meetings of the Board of Education shall be open and public. Public in a certain sense they may be, but open in the sense that the public can understand what is being done, they certainly are not."

Mr. McCahey asserted yesterday that any person who wished to attend the meeting and to learn the action on any measure might obtain the number and title of any bill at the office of the secretary of the board. He said that discussion on measures is omitted from the board procedure largely because the group understands the work before it and works in harmony.

Study Measures Beforehand.

Forty-eight hours before each board meeting copies of all measures to come before that session are delivered to the home of each member. The president of the board said that the members study the measures and occasionally discuss them informally or ask questions before going into meeting and are then ready to vote on the measures in meeting.

"We are acting," Mr. McCahey commented "only in accordance with the modern intelligent trend in governmental procedure which is designed to eliminate the habit of talking to the gallery."

MOSLEM DEATHS BY BRITISH GUNS INCREASED TO 34

KARACHI, India, March 20.—(AP)—Three more Mohammedans, injured when British troops fired on a rioting mob of 100,000 yesterday, died today, bringing the number of dead to 34.

Several of the injured who had been carried to their homes entered hospitals. The total wounded under treatment in various institutions reached 101.

The Moslems had swarmed into Karachi to demonstrate against the execution of a member of their faith who had been convicted of the murder of a Hindu. They carried the body of the dead man with them as they paraded through the streets until they were dispersed by the shots of the soldiers.

REPORT IGOE CHOICE FOR U. S. ATTORNEY TO SUCCEED GREEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—The report that Representative Michael L. Igoe [Dem., Ill.] will be the next United States attorney for Chicago was strengthened today when the congressman held a conference with Attorney General Hugh Cummings.

MICHAEL IGOE.

Igoe smilingly refused to comment. After leaving Cummings' office he was closeted for some time with William Stanley, assistant to the attorney general, who handles his political appointments.

While various names have been mentioned for a successor to Dwight Green, federal attorney in Chicago, Igoe's has been most prominent in recent months. Igoe has been recommended for the post by United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis and the Illinois senator has been pushing for this appointment for some time.

Green, who has been held over from the Republican administration because of the Insull trial and other complicated litigation, was reported recently as willing to step out when the attorney general was ready. It also was said Green was retained because Cummings liked him and his work.

Mrs. Mary L. Brown, 100; Resident of Bloomington

Bloomington, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary L. Brown of Bloomington, widow of George P. Brown, today celebrated her 100th birthday.

G. O. P. ELDERS GIVEN SAMPLE OF OLD PARTY SPIRIT

Young Leader Urges Others to Awake.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Freshmen in the school of politics set an example of fighting spirit for their dissatisfied, disgruntled elders at the weekly Republican Round Table at Henrici's restaurant yesterday.

The luncheon meeting had been turned over to the Young Republicans, Inc., and their spokesman, Robert Tieken, an attorney, appealed for a united G. O. P., condemned the wavering policies of the national administration, and predicted a split in the Democratic ranks that will mean a terrific crash for the party.

"With only two years of power behind them," he said, "our Democratic brethren are demonstrating their inability to coöperate, their incapacity to rule. What, may I ask, short of a return of the age of miracles, can bring the warring groups back behind the present administration?"

Spares No Words.

In attacking some of the present problems of the Roosevelt administration, Attorney Tieken used some strong language.

"Economic panaceas proposed by witch doctors," he said, "will never restore sanity and prosperity. How can little coteries get together in a radical atmosphere steeped in communistic doctrines and make up a program of planned economy for the American people which would compare with the deliberations and experiences of 148 years during which our government has achieved superiority in practically every field of endeavor?

"It would be like throwing away the common law of England and the civil law of Rome and adopting in their place some nostrum or modernistic invention to rule the courts and the conduct of our people. It is just too preposterous to contemplate."

Calls Fear Un-American.

He described as "un-American" the state of fear among the people caused by the uncertainty resulting from experimentation in the fields of finance, commerce, and social adjustments.

"The tyrannical laws which strangle the business of this country," he said at another point, "are one of the major reasons for the lack of a return to prosperity. The rules and regulations of the administrative agencies created by the Democratic administration hog-tie industry and commerce.

"Business men, laboring men and farmers are dissatisfied. Go out and listen to the dirt farmer. Here and there you find one who received a check for two dozen pigs he did not raise, but, on the whole, the administration has failed to fulfill its promise to raise prices of agricultural products so that the farmer can buy on a parity with the man of the city."

Names Mayoralty Committee.

Edward F. Moore, acting chairman of the Republican city central committee, announced yesterday the personnel of the subcommittee which will coöperate with the G. O. P. mayoralty nominee, Emil C. Wetten. He named five ward committeemen proposed by Mr. Wetten.

Charles E. Peace, representative of Wetten's home ward, the 42d, was appointed chairman. The other members are Louis Nettelhorst [50th], James W. Breen [14th], Frank M. Kalteux [38th], and William E. King [2d].

"SAVAGE!" Says PHOTOPLAY'S BEAUTY EDITOR

"SENSIBLE!" Says YOUR OWN DENTIST

•You can still be civilized and avoid "PINK TOOTH BRUSH"

"A BARBAROUS PICTURE," was the prompt verdict of Miss Carolyn Van Wyck, the beauty editor of Photoplay—"an offense against every code of manners—except perhaps those of darkest Africa."

But dentists take a radically different view.

"I disagree flatly," would probably be your own dentist's sharp retort. "It's a bold and instructive photograph—and I'm glad to see it published. If modern people were less polite and more primitive about chewing, if all of us ate more tough, coarse and fibrous foods, we'd hear a lot less about tender, ailing gums and 'pink tooth brush.'"

It's true . . . too true! Our modern menus, our civilized soft and super-refined foods, do rob our gums of work and health. They grow lazy . . . tender . . . sensitive. And though that eventual tinge of "pink" on your tooth brush is only a warning—it's a very serious one. It means definitely that you need Ipana and massage.

IPANA and Massage mean Sparkling Teeth and Sound, Healthy Gums

Your dentist knows the practical and protective value of Ipana and massage in the home care of the mouth. He knows that neglect of "pink tooth brush" may even lead to such serious disorders as gingivitis, Vincent's disease or pyorrhea.

Take his advice. Begin at once to massage your gums with Ipana every time you brush your teeth. Each time, rub a little extra Ipana on the gums. For Ipana with massage helps restore the gums to healthy firmness.

Start cleaning your teeth and massaging your gums with Ipana—today. Your teeth will be brighter, your gums firmer. And you can forget "pink tooth brush."

Put an EXTRA Package of Alka-Seltzer in Your Medicine Cabinet this Week

. . . You'll Find it a Friend in Need

When any member of your family suffers with distress after meals, gas on the stomach, headaches, or if they come home suffering with the first signs of a cold—that's when a good supply of ALKA-SELTZER Tablets at home is a friend indeed. You can always depend on ALKA-SELTZER to give you day and night protection from the pain and discomfort of everyday ailments caused by an over-acid condition.

An ALKA-SELTZER Tablet in a glass of water makes a sparkling, effervescent, anti-acid drink which gives such prompt and pleasant relief. As each drink contains an analgesic (acetyl salicylate) it first relieves the pain and discomfort of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance, corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

ARGENTINA AND CHILE IN FIGHT FOR SUPREMACY

Buenos Aires Is Charged with Isolation Tactics.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 20.—The outbreak of diplomatic quarreling between Chile and Argentina has focused the spotlight once again on the jealousies that divide the leading South American countries in their strenuous competition to secure dominant power on the continent.

The Chileans, who call themselves the "Yankees of South America," are angry at the Argentines, who, they claim, are trying to isolate them on the Pacific, hoping to relegate them to a minor category among American powers.

Isolation tactics, according to declarations by President Arturo Alessandri and Publisher Agustin Edwards, are aimed at severing trans-Andean railroads and blocking the maritime passage of the far south. If these succeed, Chile would become what she is often dubbed by the Argentines—"a remote country in the southern Pacific."

Rail Route Biggest Grievance.

Chile's biggest grievance is over railroad connections. She is within 20 days of Europe, via Argentina, whereas the sea route via Panama takes 35 days. But three attempts to secure trans-Andean rail services have failed, through alleged Argentine opposition.

The main route, via Juncal and Mendoza, was closed down three years ago by a customs war. A year's negotiations brought about partial resumption and then several miles of the line were washed away in Argentina and have never been restored.

Argentina pleads there is no money available for restoration of the railroad. If there were, she says, investors would want a guarantee that there would be no more customs complications. Her main objection to linking up across the mountains is that she prefers her freight to be handled through Buenos Aires and not by the shorter route through Chile.

Beagle Canal Dispute.

The dispute over the Beagle Canal Islands has been hanging fire for 25 years. It has been brought to the fore by the increasing economic importance of Patagonia and the clash of Chilean and Argentine efforts to develop the far southern territories, which have a wealthy cattle rearing and frozen meat trade.

The Argentines seem to fear the virility of the Chilean race and the expansionist spirit shown in Patagonia. Ownership of the islands in dispute would give her command of the Beagle channel, yield a base to offset Chilean naval superiority in the far south, and block the Atlantic passage.

Another phase of the discord came to light when it was revealed that Argentina tried to block the commercial treaty between Chile and Peru. Publisher Edwards, who is President Alessandri's greatest friend, declared that the Argentine ambassador in Lima used threats against Peru.

Argentina claimed that part of her commerce was affected by the Chile-Peruvian trade pact and that her intervention was justified. The pact gave a monopoly of wheat supply to Chile, whereas Argentina had formerly been the principal supplier.

Builds Trade Pacts.

Chile, long recognized as the dominant power on the western side of the Cordillera, has been trying to wipe out the bitter feeling created by the Pacific war of 1879 when she defeated Peru and Bolivia. She has built up friendship with these countries on the basis of reciprocal trade pacts. She has also made overtures to Ecuador and Colombia.

While Argentina looks askance on these maneuvers, seen as an attempt to create an anti-Argentine Pacific bloc, many Chileans interpret the increased amenities between Argentina and Brazil, mainly stimulated by the Buenas Aires government, as an opposing Atlantic bloc.

The most dangerous question of all involves peace promotion procedure in the Chaco war. Following the Chilean accusations and the insults heaped on the Argentine foreign secretary, Saavedra Lamas, a diplomatic slip might set the whole continent aflame.

It is common knowledge that in everything short of actual fighting Argentina is backing Paraguay, and Chile is for Bolivia. Argentina has too many economic interests at stake in Paraguay and the Chaco territory itself to allow Bolivia to crash through to Asuncion. Conversely, Chilean capital is preponderant in Bolivian mining.

SHAVES 'TO THE GRAIN' AND KEEPS HIS MOUTH SHUT!

Barber Marks 50th Year in Chicago.

BY MARCIA WINN.

"I always shave with the grain," said the barber at chair No. 22 in the Palmer house barber shop yesterday. "Sixty years ago I learned to shave with the grain."

The barber, Charles P. Basil, 71 years old, is celebrating his 50th anniversary of barbering in Chicago this month.

It was 61 years ago that Basil, then a boy of 10, was apprenticed to a barber in Messina, Sicily. His only duty at first was to lather the faces of customers, and a journeyman barber did the shaving.

Graduates from Lathering.

"Then pretty soon I began shaving and cutting hair, and then I was a real barber, too," Basil recalled, "but it was back in Messina I learned to shave in the direction the hair slanted. I think that it why my customers come back to me."

In 1884 Basil left Messina for New York. He landed there in May, but ten months later, in March, 1885, he came to Chicago.

It isn't so much the fact that this month marks his 50th anniversary in Chicago, however, that brings pride to his eye. It is the fact that in those 50 years he has worked in only three shops, his present one—the Palmer house—having been his stopping place for the last 39 years.

"Most barbers, they wander," he said. "They don't like to stay in one place. They cut hair all the way from New York to California. I prove that some barbers like to stay still."

Shaved Notables of '90s.

His first job in Chicago was at the old Brown hotel on the southwest corner of State and Van Buren streets. He remained here until 1891, when he went to the old Grand Pacific barber shop. There, because the Grand Pacific was Republican headquarters, the political celebrities of the day were shaved by Basil. In 1896 he went to the Palmer house, the famous old shop where silver dollars were imbedded in the tiles.

Among the customers Basil recalls were James G. Blaine, William McKinley, Benjamin Harrison, Mark Hanna, George Pullman, and Potter Palmer. He boasts that he gave Paul Rader, the evangelist, his first shave.

Basil figures that he has shaved an average of 100 customers a week during his years in Chicago, or a total of 250,000 in his total stay here, and out of the 250,000 he has learned only two things.

"Don't talk unless the customer talks first," he cautioned, "and don't ever expect a tip from these famous people. It's the little ones—the ones that make from $3,000 to $5,000 a year—that do the heavy tipping."

Ann Dvorak Clubs Coyote to Death in Chicken Pen

Hollywood, Cal., March 20.—(AP)—Ann Dvorak, movie actress, clubbed a coyote to death early today in the chicken pen of her ranch home at Van Nuys. The coyote had killed several of Miss Dvorak's prized fowls.

PORTER AND MAID ALLEGE FRAMEUP IN $50,000 SUIT

He Denies Her Charge He Caused Arrest.

Charges of "frameup" were made by both sides at yesterday's session of Mrs. Marie Sauer's $50,000 suit against Washington Porter II., wealthy real estate man and art collector, charging false imprisonment. A jury is hearing the case before Judge Roman E. Posanski of Calumet City, sitting in the Circuit court here.

Mrs. Sauer, for twenty-one years a maid in the home of Porter's mother, Mrs. Frances Porter, 4043 Lake Park avenue, where the son also lives, charges that Porter caused her detention by police on Jan. 24, 1932, by accusing her of the theft of a Russian enamel silver set valued at $10,000.

Maid Testifies First.

As the first witness, Mrs. Sauer testified that Porter had "planted" a silver strainer, part of the set, on a table in the maid's home at 4456 Greenwood avenue. Porter showed the strainer to the Hyde Park police in accusing Mrs. Sauer, she said, and after hearing her protests of innocence Sergt. Fred Tapscott declared that he "wouldn't stand for framing this poor woman," whereupon Porter declared that the "frameup" charge was "ridiculous."

Sergt. Tapscott and Sergt. James McLaughlin, who made the investigation, testified they did so at Porter's request. Lieut. Arthur F. Patten said from the stand that Porter had agreed at the outset of the investigation to sign a complaint against the maid, but added that no complaint had been signed.

Denies Instigating Arrest.

Porter was the first defense witness. In a voice that was scarcely audible at times, he denied that it was he who had caused the maid's detention.

"It was merely a police investigation," he said. "I called the police at the advice of the insurance company, upon discovering that the silver set was missing from the steel cabinet where I had locked it several weeks before."

He said the silver set was finally found in a burlap bag in the basement of the Porter home.

When Sergt. Tapscott suggested in the maid's home that Porter had "framed" her, he testified, he replied, "Is this a frameup against me?" He denied vigorously that he had placed the silver strainer on the table in the maid's home.

Porter was still under cross-examination when the case was adjourned until today. It is expected it will reach the jury by tonight.

Wins Annulment of His Crown Point Marriage

Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday granted Milton W. Elfert, 5603 South Bishop street, an annulment of his marriage in Crown Point last June to Mrs. Ethel Beckman Sanford, who now lives at 6437 Ellis avenue. Elfert testified that he learned that when he married her she was still the wife of Clyde Glen Sanford of Los Angeles. She was divorced last August, two months after her second marriage. Mrs. Elfert was placed on probation on a robbery charge in the Criminal court last December.

JOHN J. ASTOR III. ACCEPTS CLERICAL JOB AT $25 SALARY

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—John Jacob Astor III., though heir to millions, went to work today for $25 a week for the International Mercantile Marine company, and, so it is announced, intends to learn the business.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR III.

When asked to explain his sudden decision to take a job, Mr. Astor said:

"I like ships. It's the business I've always wanted to get into. I said when I was 18 that this is what I wanted to do, and so I am doing it."

Mr. Astor is the half-brother of Vincent Astor, who is a vice president of the I. M. M. company and one of its principal stockholders.

Last June 20 young Mr. Astor, then just turning 21, married Miss Ellen Tuck French, 18.

When discovered at work today Mr. Astor was inspecting the President Roosevelt of the United States Lines, accompanied by a representative of Capt. Frederick Fender, assistant marine superintendent of the I. M. M. Co. He explained, however, that for the present his work would consist of clerical duties.

YANK HUNTS FOR RICHES OF KING JOHN; LOSES $1,625

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 20.—James Rawlings Herbert Boone of Baltimore, Md., who has been trying to dig up the baggage and treasure lost by King John in the Cross Keys Wash about the year 1216, lost $1,625 in the civil court today.

Boone formed a company and up to 1933 had spent some $110,000 in hunting the treasure, which is supposedly buried somewhere in the Wash, an inlet between the counties of Norfolk and Lincoln off the North sea. It was here that tides engulfed the treasure wagons of the king, who himself barely escaped with his life.

An engineer, Digby Charles Henry D'Avigdor, and a reclamation specialist, William Muirhead, who were employed by Boone, won the $1,625 judgments for salary arrears.

DRAMA OF DUKE'S 30 MILLION ENDS AFTER 65 YEARS

Paris Court Rejects Bid of Count.

PARIS, March 20.—(AP)—A real life drama which opened more than 65 years ago when Duke Karl II. fled from his native Brunswick to Geneva with his tidy fortune of $30,000,000 played for the last time today in the musty Seine tribunal.

The court threw out the suit of Count de Civry, who had sought to recover the duke's millions from the city of Geneva. He had claimed the money which went to the city when no will of the duke was found. The count was a son of the countess of Colmar, who said she was an illegitimate daughter of Duke Karl.

"The Duke and the Policeman."

Frenchmen were wont to call the drama "The Duke and the Policeman."

When the duke arrived at Geneva he was courteously received. He decided to leave his $30,000,000 to the city when he died.

The policeman entered the picture in 1870. At that time the duke was driving through Geneva's streets in his favorite barouche. The policeman pointed out that the duke was driving on the left side of the road, contrary to rules. The duke was enraged and whipped his horses into a smart gallop. He changed his will and cut off the city without a centime.

No Will Found at Death.

But when Duke Karl died in 1873 no will was found, and the city took the money anyway. With some of it was built a huge monument in Karl's memory on the shores of Lake Geneva.

The countess of Colmar burst into the office of Geneva's mayor one day soon afterward and declared: "I am the duke's illegitimate daughter and the money is mine."

The next scene was in the Seine tribunal in 1894. Pierre Marie Rene Waldeck-Rousseau, later premier, in a stirring burst of oratory claimed the money on behalf of his client, Count de Civry.

Today the court decided the revamped civil action of the count was based on questions settled 30 years ago.

Cheers and Whistles Greet Conductor Stock.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE fashionable Friday and Tuesday afternoon and Thursday night symphony concert audiences often receive mention in the society columns, but seldom does one read about the one that assembles in Orchestra hall one Wednesday in each month from October to April. But that is certainly the most joyous and enthusiastic of the many that listen to Dr. Frederick Stock and the members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra during the season.

Such hearty applause and whistles of delight as welcome Dr. Stock when he appears on the stage aren't heard at any other time, perhaps because maturity brings to most Americans a reserve that prevents such demonstrations.

Many of the same limousines that deposit concert-goers at Orchestra hall for the other concerts draw up there on the Wednesday afternoons of the young people's concerts, but the similarity ends there, for on no other occasions are there such hilarity and informality of greeting in the lobby before the program starts. "Hi there, Bill," shouts a golden-haired young lady who will be thinking of a debut in eight or nine years. "Is there time to go next door and buy some candy?" a young man inquires of one of Mr. Voegeli's assistants at the door, and another anxiously asks the same patient gentleman, "Has Bobby Jones come in yet?" and seems distressed that Mr. Adams does not know Bobby.

Children Sing One Number.

Concert Master Mischakoff receives almost as much applause and as many shrill whistles when he appears on the stage as Dr. Stock does, but it is the white-haired conductor who started the young people's concerts 16 years ago and who jokes with the children when he is explaining things to them whom they adore.

"I am glad you came in spite of the fact that it is raining cats and dogs" was his greeting to his "young friends" yesterday, and when he urged them "to whoop it up" and "to make it twice as much louder" when they were singing Keller's American Hymn they responded so well that the rafters almost shook.

There is no intermission in the hour's concert, which starts at 3:45 o'clock so that school children may attend it, but in the middle of the program there always is a song to give the young people a chance to stretch their legs and to exercise tongues which cannot be kept quiet for long when one is young. Dr. Stock's youngest audiences always have an opportunity of choosing a number, too, something the older audiences would like, undoubtedly. Adults not accompanied by children are not admitted to the concerts and it is mainly a youthful audience, for children who have been going for more than one season usually go with schoolmates instead of parents.

Some Forced to Borrow Children.

However, I know of at least one mother who took her son to the very first concerts, and now that he is away at college she still subscribes for two seats and takes a neighbor's child to each concert. That going to these concerts when they are young will make girls and boys able to appreciate symphony concerts when they are older cannot be doubted by any one who attends one, for the knowledge the youngsters display is amazing.

Even the smallest ones are able to name the instruments that give the themes and the attention the children pay during the music is remarkable. Most schools nowadays work with Dr. Stock along this line and children learn at an early age more than most adults today know about a symphony orchestra.

Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, who has no children, but who often has some young guests or who gives her box away, is a boxholder for the young people's concerts, and so are Mrs. Ralph H. Norton, who gives

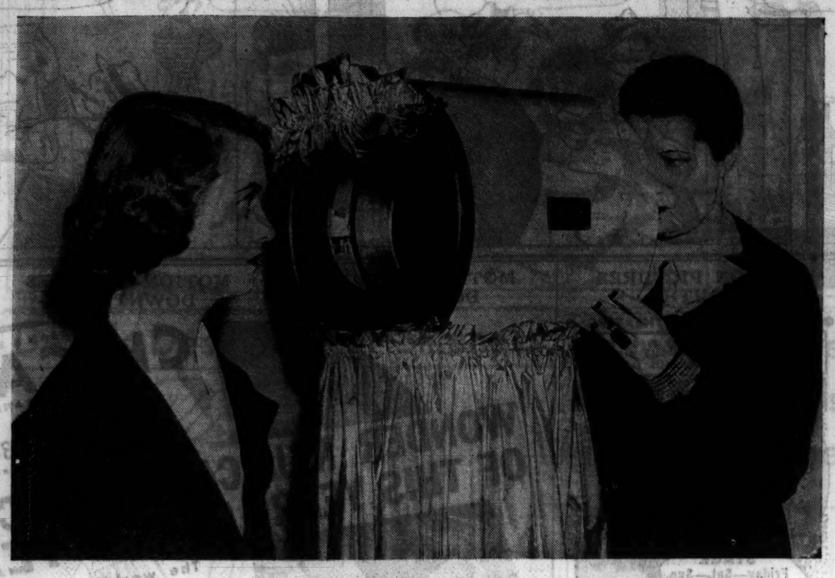
THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS



An apparatus used for skin analysis has a merciless lens at least a foot in diameter which, aided by bright lights, tells all about your skin beauty or lack of it.

We've had the lie detecter. Enter now what might be called the "line" detector, an apparatus from Vienna that sees all and tells all about your own particular skin beauty or lack of it! It can't tell any fibs, either, because you can see the truth with your own eyes if you'll pop those eyes into it some day before the week is out. It's set up in a Chicago shop and getting the real lowdown on your face for once in your life is yours for the looking.

It's an impressive looking affair, equipped with a special lens that's all of a foot in diameter; this, aided by special lights, is as searching of your skin as the eye of the Almighty is of your soul. It shows up every blemish and every wrinkle that's already full fledged; what's more, it gives you an excellent idea of any troubles that may be lurking round the corner.

And the moral of all this, ladies, is that to be forewarned is to be forearmed. How often does the teacher have to tell you that prevention—especially of wrinkles and flippity-floppity chins—is a thousand times easier than cure?

With this lens you can see the complexion ills already visited upon you—the little things you've been sliding over by ignoring, like yawning pores and spidery lines. Having faced your problems, as you must with this, you can set about to solve them.

And if you've been wondering why your makeup isn't as suave as it should be, this is your chance to find out just what your coloring is. You'll be surprised at the number of hues there are in your skin, but you'll learn for once and for all what its predominating cast is. When that's settled your cosmetic life becomes much simpler.

Or maybe you've had a vague idea lately that your face is changing, though you don't know why or how exactly. It happens after you've hit 25, you know. This lens will tell you—rather relentlessly, perhaps, but, like any salutary lesson, it's all for your own good. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Water Color Show One of Best in History

Institute's 14th Exhibition Opens Today.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The 14th International Water Color exhibition opens this afternoon in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. It is a vivid and sparkling exhibit with the ups and downs in subject and treatment to which more than a decade of modernism has accustomed us. There is, however, a fair proportion of excellent paintings which must make this exhibition live as one of the best the museum has yet staged.

If one does not want to be sent sky high with the vociferous and explosive conception of A. Kenneth Ness, nor wish to linger in the confused bosky dells of the landscape by Pougialis, one need not. There are numerous escapes available. Randall Davey has rarely done a better thing than his exciting and colorful "Paddock" before a race, with horses, jockies, and crowd milling about in artistic confusion.

Dame Laura Knight is to be congratulated on her magnificent painting of circus ponies in a tent. The black and white rascal nuzzling his stable mate wins one's affections at first glance. Rockwell Kent has painted a tender and sympathetic portrait of a little Eskimo girl, "Helena," fast asleep, a block of chubby curves which a sculptor might envy. Frank W. Benson offers a stunning water color of two majestic eagles. Heitland gives us several paintings and among them the "Professional on the Beach" is most effective. Henry Keller is represented by an engaging and subtle study of parrots and macaws.

An entire room is devoted to the high keyed paintings of the Swedish artist, Isaac Grunewald. These were painted chiefly in Spain and the artist has seen the country through rosy glasses. His prevailing notes are reds, oranges, and green. There are many beach scenes and a number of landscapes. Now and again a picture possesses a rare beauty.

Peggy Bacon has been given a separate gallery for her clever caricatures and her twenty-eight pictures are one of the things not to miss. Note the hopscotch game and the street vendor fastening a bunch of owers into his horse's bridle. The eye of the horse is magnetic.

The Indians of New Mexico have an interesting group of water colors in a room to themselves and here we find clear, decisive drawing and vivid color. It is a fascinating little show.

The black and whites, drawings in charcoal, pen, or pencil, are many of them delightful, particularly Charles Sheeler's "Feline Felicity" and Janet Busby's "Maltese Faldetta."

The Watson F. Blair prize of $600 was awarded to "The Hand Organ, Cadiz" by Isaac Grunewald. The Watson F. Blair prize of $400 went to "Road in Peoria" by Aaron Bohrod. The William H. Tuthill prize of $100 was given to Constantine Pougialis for "Landscape."

The Third International exhibition of Etchings and Engravings also opens today in the print rooms of the Art institute.

Paris Designs Create Stir in Chicago Shop

Silk Taffeta Is Used with Lavish Hand.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The new spring loot from across the Atlantic is in, unpacked, and ready for your inspection. Even the ingenious American copies and clever adaptations are on parade and the shoppers are buying them.

Clothes are clothes these days, with all the fluttering ribbons, bows, fragile laces, and swishing fabrics returning to lure every cent out of your pockets. These fascinating new fashions are irresistible, if you don't go on a buying binge after seeing these fashion shows, you're made of sterner stuff than most of us.

The big rustle is silk taffeta. There are yards and yards of this whispering, seductive, feminine material. Evening gowns with wide billowing skirts have matching capes and long colorful ribbon sashes tied snugly around the waistlines that seem so small because of the billowing acreage in the skirt.

Changeable silk taffetas make picturesque wide skirted dinner and dance dresses, and there is one hostess gown of shell pink taffeta that boasts fifteen yards of material. The sleeves are huge and attached to the shoulder with cartridge pleats and the pleats are repeated in the cuffs of the sleeves.

Victor Steibel again sends beautiful gowns that are long flowing sheaths so cunningly fitted and almost molded to the figure that they defy description. A black model by Steibel features his own swathed diagonal motif with the sinuous insets of exotically gay printed silk winding from the front of the bodice, around the waist and diagonally down over the right hip and then to the hem. In the adaptation a detachable jacket of black lined with the print of the inset is featured.

Marcel Rochas sends extremely youthful spring fashions. Perky, fresh looking affairs with lots of material in the skirts—clothes that will make the wearer look young and dashing. Exciting new originals by Jenny, Lanvin, Molyneux, and Schiaparelli, together with the Steibel successes make a collection that is a brilliant and significant showing of new designs and fashions to come.

Film Finished, Miss Ames on Air Trip Here

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—Although on what is called "twelve hour call" from her movie studio, Rosemary Ames, Chicago society woman actress, left by plane tonight for her home city.

Asked if her trip had any especial significance in view of divorce and engagement reports, Miss Ames smiled and said:

"I am going for a visit." She had just completed a movie part with Shirley Temple, child actress, in "Our Little Girl," and, according to the movie rule of "twelve hour call," would be expected to report back at the Fox plant in Hollywood within twelve hours if summoned for retakes or additional scenes.

Miss Ames recently sued for divorce in Chicago from Bertie Meyer, 56 year old theatrical producer of London. Miss Ames also is reported to have negotiations pending concerning custody of her small daughter, Julie Ketting by her first marriage to Ogden Ketting, a Chicago business man.

Henry B. Walthall celebrated his birthday last Sunday, St. Patrick's day. It was Walthall's 55th or 56th [his biographies are mum on the exact birth year].

Prince Sigvard Bernadotte, who renounced claims to royalty in Sweden, and his bride, Erika Patzek, German beauty, spent less than one half day instead of weeks house hunting here. Escorted by Jean Hersholt's wife they found a home that pleased them on their first day here and moved in yesterday. It was the home occupied by millionaire Paul Ames and his bride of twelve days, June Knight, during the fervid height of that romance last year.

In order to demonstrate for the satisfaction of Irving Thalberg, one of the M. G. M. producers, that their gags are funny and will get the desired audience reaction, the three Marx brothers are taking a troupe of 25 performers and a 50 minute comedy act and starting out next week for five weeks of personal appearances. If the act goes over big, M. G. M. will adapt the gags and story for the Marxes' movie.

Front Views and Profiles

GALLANTRY is not dead only dying department. A fellow named O. J. Hanson was riding on a street car on a recent morning reading

Gallantry—
Melting pot note—
Cheer—

Boners.

(Front Views and Profiles, he said, was engaging his attention) when a young woman sat down on the seat beside him. He did move over, but apparently not enough, for she addressed him, saying as she struggled for more room:

"Do you mind? I'm fatter than you think I am."

Mr. Hanson edged over still farther and answered politely:

"I'm sorry. I hadn't noticed."

* *

PROBABLY it was a positively exaggerated sense of courtesy, too, that dictated the comment of a bridge player at a bridge tournament being held at a loop department store. A woman playing duplicate who weighed well over 200 pounds was addressed by a new partner.

"Weren't you here last Friday?" she asked.

The large woman nodded that she was, and the other added:

"I thought so. I remember seeing your purse."

EXCERPT from hotel advertisment in Time magazine:

". . . Or, you prefer to go down to the dining room. 'Good morning,' says the elevator operator. 'Good morning,' says the captain as he leads you to the table and hands you the paper. 'Good morning,' says the waiter, and almost before you have your napkin unfolded there's a complimentary demitasse before you. The world's a pretty good place after all."

And that complimentary demitasse probably is sickeningly full of milk and honey, judging from the tone of the advertisment.

A LAD named Eugene Dreven collected from the various teachers at the Marshall High school some of the prize boners of their students. For instance, various history students were responsible for the following:

"Rosetta Stone was the woman who presented Napoleon with the key to Egypt."

"The guillotine was used because there were no razors then."

"The reason why there was no Napoleon II. was because Napoleon I. did the work of two rulers."

"Victoria was the person who designed all the furniture and dresses that bear her name."

Mr. and Mrs. Foster were married Monday at Newport, Ky. The bride's father was a son of the late Mrs. Harding by a former marriage.

Mistletoe That Grows as Tree Shown at Museum

A species of mistletoe that grows as a tree, rather than as a parasite on a tree, has been added to the hall of plant life at the Field Museum of Natural History. The specimen was collected on the Tapajos river in Brazil by the Marshall Field Botanical expedition to the Amazon. The new exhibit is shown in its full flowering and fruiting stage and is more colorful than the species of mistletoe that grows in northern climates.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts a post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician, who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baronne Henri de Bellesnaves, Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. The evil looking gardener of the De Bellesnaves arouses Sarah's suspicion. Beryl Tomlins dies suddenly. She had just had a prescription of Dr. Gilcrest's filled by his dispenser, Marjorie Barrows. Sarah had received capsules for Miss Venables at the same time. Dr. Gilcrest states that her death was caused by an intestinal hemorrhage. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter telling her she has one more day to live. The fatal day comes. Harry is on a visit to Monte Carlo. The baroness has gone to Arles for the day. Mrs. Cripps, Beryl Tomlins' sister, has tea with Miss Venables. The day passes safely. Miss Venables takes her capsule and retires. Shortly after Sarah is awakened by her agonized call. She dies within the hour, after declaring to Sarah that she was poisoned.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

A COMMAND FROM THE GRAVE.

Sarah looked slowly from one face to the other. In this entire hotel there was no one of whom to seek counsel, simply because not one individual appreciated the meaning of Miss Venables' dying words. There was Harry, of course. She had forgotten him. She stooped down and began to draw on her stockings.

"Why bother to dress, dear? There's nothing you can do."

"There is. I must telephone Harry Venables."

She was told it had already been done.

"O, that poor boy!" sighed Madge. "Like losing a mother, isn't it? And how sad for it to happen while he was away! Here is Dr. Gilcrest now."

He was here. He had gone into the other room. Sarah finished dressing, and opening the door softly took a silent survey of the death chamber.

"I should be failing in my duty to society if I allowed my murderers to escape."

No one noticed her. Within the bathroom Mrs. Bulstrode and Miss Whittaker were conferring in sibilant whispers, while the doctor, bent over the bed and made his examination. She shuddered as a movement on his part revealed the still, ashen profile with a long, wispy tail of dark hair lying limp over one shoulder. With an effort she withdrew her gaze to let it wander past the pile of underclothing neatly folded on a chair to the bed table whereon nothing seemed to have been disturbed. She took stock of its appointments. There was the reading lamp, fluted shade aslant; the little traveling clock, a book, the biscuit box, Harry's photograph, and, in full view, the bottle of capsules. . . .

Her heart beat with sledge hammer blows. She heard again the precisely worded harangue with which her employer had silenced Mrs. Cripps' suspicions, and in the same flash recalled that three sudden deaths had followed the taking of capsules and prescribed by the one man.

Yet Mrs. Mark Venables had died from natural causes, neither food nor medicine being called into question. Was the same true in these other cases? If so, the person who brought accusations would be landed in a situation too frightful to contemplate.

In the center of her brain a voice spoke its gasping appeal: "Sarah!" it said. "Read my letter. I look to you . . ."

That was so, the letter. Back in her room she took the thick envelope out of her dressing table drawer and tore it open. No wonder it was bulky. Its written enclosure was folded round ten crisp English bank notes—a hundred pounds ready cash, drawn in anticipation of what might happen, and designed to keep want from the door till new employment had been secured. What forethought—what generosity! The iron band encircling Sarah's heart snapped asunder. With the money and letter crushed between her fingers she broke down and wept without restraint.

Through a blur of tears she saw that her hotel bill had been paid a week in advance so that her departure need not be hurried. And then, passing over the brief reminder about delivering the other letters, she came to what was expected of her now. If Miss Venables' death in any way invited question, she, Sarah, was to make an immediate report to the police and command an inquiry. If the event took the form of illness imperfectly explained a post-mortem must be performed.

"I do this in the interests of justice. I should be failing in my duty to society if I allowed my murderers to escape unpunished."

"And I should be failing in my duty to you," whispered Sarah, as though the dead woman could hear her, "if I neglected to carry out your wishes. Don't worry, darling Miss Venables! I shan't let you down."

Slightly steadied, she bathed her eyes, and was just stuffing the notes and message inside her jumper when the two Englishwomen slipped in again, their manner subdued but purposeful. She waited for them to speak.

"My dear," began Mrs. Bulstrode quietly, "we wanted you to know that not even the greatest specialist would have saved Christine. She died of gastric ulcer—a very sudden development, and a rupture which caused instant hemorrhage. Occasionally, you know, these things come about with scarcely any warning symptoms. Even if Dr. Gilcrest had been here from the onset it would have been impossible to operate soon enough. It is simply another of those unfortunate cases where no one is to blame."

Sarah looked at her, but said nothing. Both women, she thought, had an uncomfortable air.

"You may recall," added Mrs. Bulstrode, "that her sister-in-law died in much the same way. Strange, wasn't it? Not as though they were blood relations."

Strange, indeed, but still Sarah forbore to comment. Mrs. Bulstrode went on, very explicitly, to point out how little real parallel there could be between a stomach ulcer and the intestinal blood clot from which Beryl Tomlins had died. She had said, had she not, that Christine's chronic weakness was differently located from Beryl's?

"You see, Miss Whittaker and I had known them both for years, and had seen their improvement under Dr. Gilcrest's care. It is just because Dr. Gilcrest is so conscientious that we so deeply deplore this double calamity. It does seem as though Fate had played him a most cruel trick. So that, Miss MacNeil, brings me to my other point. I feel sure you, like myself, must have realized that our unhappy friend was not quite in her normal senses at the last? Therefore you will agree that it would be wantonly unkind to mention the—the odd statement she made to you just before she completely lost consciousness."

Receiving no answer to the implied question, Mrs. Bulstrode continued with still greater firmness, "We old friends know that an assertion so wildly improbable, so—well, manifestly absurd, could never have been made if Christine Venables had been herself. If repeated it would not only cause needless distress, but be positively unwise. I myself shall not speak of it even to my husband. If Dr. Gilcrest is told what Christine said he may be made gravely uncomfortable, and naturally, in the circumstances, one can't wish to give him extra embarrassment. Christine, herself, I may say, would want to spare him anything of the kind. Not a doubt of that, I think?"

The direct question forced a reply.

"No," Sarah answered musingly. "She would have been the last to cause the doctor any unnecessary pain."

The two listeners looked intensely relieved.

"Ah, well," breathed Mrs. Bulstrode, "then you do see matters in the same light as ourselves. I felt you would, and that you could be trusted to treat those unfortunate words as though they had not been uttered. We shall do the same. . . . And now, Madge was going to suggest that as you might not care to remain in this room until the body is removed to the mortuary you might like to share her quarters? She has a wide divan you could sleep on."

"It's extremely kind of you both," replied Sarah. "But I'd rather stay here, I think."

"Very well, dear, if you are quite sure you don't mind. Try to get some sleep. You look altogether exhausted."

Doris Blake Answers

Friendliness Draws Attention.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend has been acting cold lately. I blame myself for this because I acted quite distant, too. What would you prescribe?

"DUCHESS."

You should be more friendly toward him if you wish him to be attentive, Duchess.

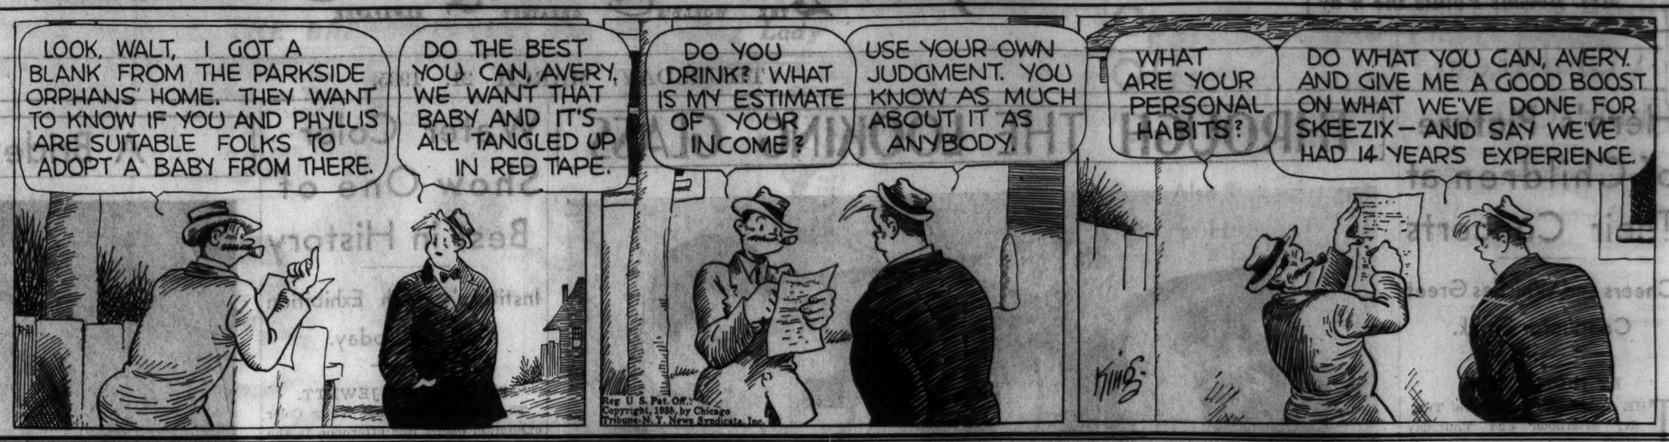
Age Difference Too Great.

"Dear Miss Blake: Is a fellow 29 years old to old for a girl of 17?

"JUNE."

Yes, because at that age a man has been around, has had his good times and is ready to settle down to more quiet living. A girl of seventeen is just beginning to enjoy life.

GASOLINE ALLEY—GIVE HIM A CHARACTER, AVERY



LOOK, WALT, I GOT A BLANK FROM THE PARKSIDE ORPHANS' HOME. THEY WANT TO KNOW IF YOU AND PHYLLIS ARE SUITABLE FOLKS TO ADOPT A BABY FROM THERE.
DO THE BEST YOU CAN, AVERY. WE WANT THAT BABY AND IT'S ALL TANGLED UP IN RED TAPE.
DO YOU DRINK? WHAT IS MY ESTIMATE OF YOUR INCOME?
USE YOUR OWN JUDGMENT. YOU KNOW AS MUCH ABOUT IT AS ANYBODY.
WHAT ARE YOUR PERSONAL HABITS?
DO WHAT YOU CAN, AVERY. AND GIVE ME A GOOD BOOST ON WHAT WE'VE DONE FOR SKEEZIX—AND SAY WE'VE HAD 14 YEARS EXPERIENCE.

hers to the Hull House Music school; Miss Charlotte Fleming, Mrs. John A. Holabird, Mrs. William K. Kenly, Mrs. Kendrick E. Morgan, Mrs. Emery H. Fahrney, Miss M. B. Potter, C. W. Haake, and William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools.

Some of those who have main floor seats that are occupied by children, grandchildren or friends every month are Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, Mrs. Herbert E. Hyde, Mrs. John T. McCutcheon, Mrs. William F. Peterson, Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Fergus Mead, Mrs. Herman L. Kretschmar, the Chicago Junior League, Mrs. Eugene Barnhart, and Mrs. Benjamin F. Affleck.

The sixth and last concert of this season will be given on April 17.

George S. Chappells Parents of Son.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon A. Smith returned to Chicago from a brief vacation in the south on Tuesday just in time to welcome a new grandchild, son of the junior George S. Chappells. The baby was born at the Presbyterian hospital and he has been named for his father and grandfather, the well known author who lives in Rye, N. Y. The former Caroline Smith and Mr. Chappell Jr. have one other child, a daughter, about 2 years old.

The Pierce C. Wards of Winnetka also were delighted visitors at the Presbyterian on Tuesday, when they welcomed their first grandchild, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Woollett. The former Jean Ward and her young husband have decided to name the baby Martha. Her paternal grandparents are the Joseph N. Woolletts, also of Winnetka.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Butler has been receiving visitors at the Presbyterian ever since last Thursday, when her second daughter was born. Dr. and Mrs. Butler have decided to call the infant Paisley Ball Butler, after her mother. Little Paisley and her sister, Claire, are grandchildren of Mrs. Hermon B. Butler.

Luther Hammonds to Move Tomorrow.

After Mr. and Mrs. Luther S. Hammond Jr. move from the house they are occupying on Oakwood avenue, Lake Forest, to one at 473 East Illinois road the first house will be put in order for occupancy in May by Robert Macdonald and his bride-to-be, Miss Patsy Keith, daughter of the Stanley Keiths. The Keith-Macdonald wedding will take place April 27. The Hammonds are moving tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Neilson are expected at home next month from a winter in Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Lockwood Honoré returned to her home in Charleston, W. Va., yesterday after a brief visit in Chicago.

Potter d'Orsay Palmer is leaving today to join his wife and his parents, the Honoré Palmers, at Sarasota, Fla. He returned to Chicago early this week from a shooting expedition to the South Sea islands. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Palmer will be returning to Chicago around the end of May, and d'Orsay and his attractive wife may return with them, although he is uncertain of their plans.

More News of Spring Vacations.

More news of college and prep school students: Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry have gone east to take their daughter, Annie May, to Bermuda for the spring vacation from Concord academy.

Margot Reid, another Concord student, will join her parents, the Bryan S. Reids, in Useppa island for the holidays. Miss Jane de Peyster, a Smith student, will remain in the east visiting friends, with possibly a trip to West Point.

Instead of spending their vacations elsewhere Miss Nancy Burley will return from Smith and her younger brother, Clarence A. Burley Jr., will return from Asheville to ease the pain their mother feels over the loss of her second daughter, Mary, last month. It is young Mr. Burley's first year away at school.

The Weymouth Kirklands' daughter, Miss Eleanor Kirkland, will arrive on Saturday with the Vassar students.

Anne, the Farwell Winstons' subdeb daughter, is at home from the Foxcroft school for a fortnight's spring vacation. Mrs. Winston is at home in Lake Forest, too, after an operation in the Evanston hospital, but she is not yet able to be out.

Miss Winston is the only Chicago girl at Foxcroft this year, but one of the city's most representative young women, Miss Laura Sprague, is riding instructor at the Virginia school. She is in Chicago for the spring holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, who recently returned from a visit to Yeaman's Hall, Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf to Return Tomorrow.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf will arrive at home tomorrow from a trip east which included a visit to her sons, Walter and Hathaway Watson Jr., at Harvard.

Miss Louise Forgan, daughter of the James B. Forgans of Lake Forest, who is sailing for Bermuda Saturday, went to Boston with Mrs. Wolf. Miss Forgan's mother is in the east, too, but she will be at home about the 10th or 12th of April, wheras Miss Forgan will remain in Bermuda until after Easter. She is joining Miss Bette Rich and her aunt on the island.

The John P. Wilsons are spending this month in Charleston, S. C., and their daughter, Miss Cynthia, is visiting her fiancé, Dr. Beverly C. Compton, and his mother, Mrs. Key Compton, in Baltimore, Md. Miss Wilson and Dr. Compton plan to be married in July in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings of Lake Forest and her mother, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, will remain at Hobe Sound, Fla., until some time next month. The William A. P. Pullmans are other Lake Foresters at Hobe Sound now.

The Sterling Mortons returned on Monday from a vacation at Castle Hot Springs in Arizona, but their daughter, Miss Suzette, who was with them, decided to visit Mexico, so she will not arrive until the 27th.

Miss Helen Gurley and her mother, Mrs. William W. Gurley, will arrive at home a week from tomorrow from a cruise to the West Indies.

Mrs. Mark W. Cresap terminated her Florida vacation the beginning of this week and went north to New York to join Mrs. Owen W. Dynes and Mrs. Willard W. Jaques, who are east for the international flower show of the New York Horticultural society in Grand Central plaza. Mrs. Cresap, Mrs. Dynes, and Mrs. Jaques assisted in the judging of the show on Tuesday.

When they return to Chicago at the week-end they will work strenuously to complete the plans for the flower and garden show of the Garden Club of Illinois to be held April 6 to 14 at the Navy pier.

Mrs. Raymond [illegible] will give a program of piano music at a tea this afternoon the women in charge of the mystery table at the Friendly Aid society bazar will give at the residence of Mrs. Edward R. Feet Cry for Assistance at Advent of the Spring Season

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Feet beginning to cry out loud? This is the foot crying season. But I'll wager you never think of the relationship of spring fever and aching feet! It's your shoeman who gets the blame. He didn't fit you correctly and you're never going back there again for shoes! You may be right, at that. If your shoes aren't fitted well, your toes surely will protest aloud when the snow begins to melt. BUT——

I learned from one of our best orthopedic surgeons that it isn't always shoes that ruin a perfectly good springtime. Those aching feet may be an expression of an accumulation of poisons in the system, just as the well known spring fever is. The direct result of winter coddling, with body functions reduced to lowest ebb. Elimination, especially, and it is its direct bearing on the feet ills that constitutes a great deal of spring foot misery. That general malaise, fatigue, loss of pep, and let-down feeling so commonly expressed around this time of year often are accompanied by groans about aching, tired, swollen feet and callous discomfort.

To relieve foot discomforts, then, you have first to eliminate the accumulated poisons in the system. Time and time again women following good reducing diet instructions, have told me of the immediate relief experienced in their feet. Naturally so, since a good reducing diet involves clearing the system of poisons with the substitution of vegetables and fruits for starces and sweets and acid forming foodstuffs. A couple of days' liquid diet often will give immeasurable foot relief because the mission of the liquid fare is largely a cleansing one.

Here's a temporary relief tip for the sufferer with aching, swollen feet. Dissolve a handful of epsom salts in hot water, as hot as you can stand it. Let the feet soak therein for five minutes. Then, turn on the cold water faucet and allow cold water to pour over the feet. Then dip them in hot water again, then cold, alternating four or five times.

BY MARY MEADE.

Something ought to be done about recipes which carelessly abandon a foundling egg white or a couple of lonely yolks to the chilly hospitality of the refrigerator. However, since nothing probably will be done and we'll all go on wilfully leaving these doorstep egg babies, the only sensible course is to find new ways of whisking them into something more useful than a covered refrigerator jar.

A boiled salad dressing is the time honored way of disposing of the yolks at most houses, while the whites usually find their way into a seven minute frosting for a cake. Still, if your kitchen mathematics is as faulty as ours those two are simply not enough to take care of all the times you don't come out even.

Out with the cookbooks, then, and to work on a nice businesslike list of all of your pet recipes which can balance the score! That's what we did and, while the resulting list assumed the proportions of a small cookbook all in itself, we picked out just a few to remember especially.

For instance, if there's a lone egg white troubling your housewifely conscience and you have neither a cake which asks topping nor a pie or pudding which wants a meringue, here's a springish suggestion:

Rhubarb Sherbet.

2 cups finely sliced rhubarb
1 cup crushed pineapple
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon granulated gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
1 egg white

Simmer the sliced rhubarb, pineapple, and sugar together until tender and then press through a coarse sieve. Soften the gelatin in the cold water, mix with the hot pulp, and chill. Then whip the egg white stiff, fold into the cold fruit mixture, pour into a cold freezing tray, and place in the refrigerator. The freezing time varies between two and four hours.

Two egg whites offer a problem which may be met this way:

Pastel Jelly Topping.

(For cakes or puddings.)
¾ cup tart jelly
2 egg whites
Few grains salt

Place the jelly in a bowl over hot water. Add the unbeaten egg whites and salt and whip until the jelly is smooth. Then remove from the heat and continue beating until the mixture stands in peaks. Spread on cakes or pile on any bland dessert and garnish with cubes of clear jelly.

Three egg whites provide the makings of an ambrosial pear whip, to be served as a delightful dessert with a soft custard sauce or piled on left-over squares of sponge cake.

Pear Fluff.

1 cup canned pears and juice
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt
3 egg whites

Mix the ginger and salt with the sieved pears. Whip the egg whites until stiff, fold in the fruit pulp, and chill.

It looks rather as if the egg yolk situation is going to have to be postponed until tomorrow, because these pesky odd whites are going to fill up all today's space. You see, here's the four egg white problem, all ready to be solved with:

Silver Cake.

3 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons double acting baking powder
1½ cups sugar
½ cup shortening
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon lemon extract
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift the sifted and measured flour with the baking powder several times. Then cream the shortening until light and fluffy, add the sugar gradually, and continue creaming vigorously. Then add the flour alternately with the milk, a small amount at a time, beating until smooth after each addition. Add the lemon extract and finally fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in two greased nine inch layer pans at 375 degrees F. for 25 to 30 minutes. Put together with a fluffy lemon flavored confectioner's sugar icing.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks — sparkling eyes — most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women who suffered from constipation. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets at night for a week and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets — now and then — to keep fit. 15c, 30c, and 60c.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

ANOTHER HIGHLY INTELLIGENT QUESTION BY A READER OF THESE ARTICLES.

Mr. Martin Stark of Washington wrote me recently regarding a hand I gave in an earlier article of this series.

Sp.—A Q x Di.—K 9 8
Hs.—A K 10 x x Cl.—K x

In the article referred to I advised an opening heart bid with this hand. Mr. Stark asks why it does not satisfy the requirements for an opening no trump bid, and calls attention to its resemblance to a hand given in Money Contract as a good no trump opening bid, namely:

Sp.—A K J x x Di.—A J x
Hs.—A J Cl.—Q 10 x

I See the Difference Rather than the Resemblance.

Hand [a] despite tenace holdings in three suits is a dangerous proposition for no trumps because of its weak stopper in the two minor suits. They may well open a diamond; when the right hand opponent gets in he is likely to come through your king of clubs, and you may be ruined. Furthermore, your heart suit is so far from solid that unless your partner can raise you [or supply an honor] in hearts, prospects are dim for game either in hearts or no trumps. Bid a heart on this hand to safeguard yourself in case your partner has a bust and must pass. If he does respond, bid two no trumps over any minimum response. Thus you will be safe if the hand is hopeless for game, while if there is a game or a play for game you will bid it in the best declaration, mainly because you will have made it easy for your partner to take an important share in the bidding even if he has a weak hand. He can thus be offered the choice between signing you off in three hearts, bidding for game in no trumps or hearts, or else in his own suit if he has been able to bid spades or even diamonds. Mr. Stark asks how the bidding should go if the first response is three clubs. I would bid four no trumps, showing a high card in clubs to guard against a misfit, and reserve primary values in the hand as well as strength in the two unbid suits. I infer that the partner cannot have the material for a jump takeout unless he has some high cards in diamonds—probably A Q x, since his clubs are not solid. The four no trump response would tell him that there are, in that case, no losers in the minor suits. If he should bid again constructively [five diamonds or five hearts], he is marked with two aces and seven no trumps should be a spread, as all losers have been eliminated—the place for parking each one of them will have been plainly indicated by the bidding.

Now Turn Again to Hand [b].

And you will agree that from the point of view of safety, in case partner has a complete bust, one no trump will almost surely be just as easy to make as one spade, so that no risk is involved by preferring it as the opening bid. If partner can respond, you can now bid your spades. With the declaration skilfully secured for your side of the table, whether in spades or in no trumps, your partner can again hardly fail to guide you to the right destination. If his response is two no trumps, it can hardly be based on anything but scattered honors which will afford all necessary protection in hearts, diamonds or clubs, in conjunction with the two honors which you hold in each. The safety factor, the timing factor for game purposes and the slam angle are all provided for when you bid a heart on hand [a], and a no trump on [b]. Incidentally, in connection with [b] I would never bid my spades if the response were two no trumps except as part of a slam try if my partner next bid four no trumps; but I would show them if he bid any other suit. If hearts, to get him to choose between spades and no trumps for the game bid; if he bid either minor suit, with strong slam hopes, since now five in his minor suit can hardly be in doubt and he need only hold an ace to give a play, if not a spread, for the small slam in his suit.

The agreeable young singers now at the Auditorium made another bid for public approval yesterday afternoon with another Offenbach work, and if they continue in it as they started, it ought to mean a definite step forward. The piece is advertised to be played the rest of the week, beginning tonight.

"Dancing Doll" is the work known to persistent operatic patrons as "Tales of Hoffman." Those who have followed the course of opera in Chicago will have heard it many times, frequently with some of the most noted lyric artists in the world to decorate its leading rôles. In its present version it is in an English translation by Charles Henry Meltzer.

Yet with many brilliant memories of the past, the Opera Comique has a great deal to say for itself in its performances. Several times I caught myself wondering why this slightly aged music was sounding so much better than it had years before. For this there would seem to be several reasons. One is, of course, the English. There is no question that when enough English can be understood, even through the massed singing of the chorus, to keep one in touch with the proceedings, it is a great aid to enjoyment.

And there was an air of seemliness, or, more than that, an eager desire to put the performance across, that left one in a receptive mood. These young people have good manners as well as good voices, and the fact simply got into the air. Also there were some first class individuals in the cast. Miss Helal, for one, seems bound to go far. She has a voice of extraordinary beauty and the greatest ability to project English that I have heard in a company that specializes in projecting English.

Miss Andrews was another topliner as the doll, whose name is given to the work. So was Mr. Gerard, who related his tales in this cut-back fashion. Miss Allen was suffering with a cold, which veiled her voice slightly, but hindered not at all her great good looks.

The ballet of the Venetian scene introduced another composer's music. Here the three principals and their associates performed an incident illustrative of the action of the actual act of the opera, but to the music of the two intermezzi from Wolf-Ferrari's "Jewels of the Madonna." It was lithely and gracefully done and warmly applauded.

Child's Bedtime Should Be Hour of Confidences

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I remember one day when my own son was about 7 visiting some acquaintances who also had a boy the same age.

As we sipped our coffee, the clock struck 8, and the mother said: "Run along to bed, Billy, and remember to wash your hands and close your bedroom door—and don't slam it." Then she turned back to the conversation and her husband did likewise.

I somehow managed to cover my horror at such a good-night ceremony. The manner was businesslike, practical, and impersonal. I thought to myself, "Well, I suppose with guests, she feels she can't leave them, even for a kiss." But even this hope faded as our hostess continued, "Bill's good that way—and it makes him so independent—I never put him to bed."

Bedtime and nighttime should be a happy time, and a loving time. And pleasant thoughts should accompany the children as they go to sleep.

Also any unhappiness that has occurred during the day, any sense of hurt because of the mother's actions or any sense of the child being sorry because of what he himself may have done or said, any disturbing happening or fear inspiring remark that may have been heard is apt to come to the surface at bedtime. This is a time when he feels his closeness to you and your closeness to him, and it is possible to clear up many things.

This is the time to instill in your child a sense of security in his world and a sense of the kindliness of night.

Some authorities are at last beginning to agree with us—in what many moderns would call just old fashioned spoiling, and that is that a few minutes of rubbing a tired or a nervous child, an unhurried tuck in, a loving kiss, and a last pat are wise ways of sending a child off into the unconscious.

SOX WHIP HOLLYWOOD, 10-5; CUBS LOSE, 8-3

WASHINGTON'S HOMER, TRIPLE SUPPLY PUNCH

Lyons Effective in Short Workout.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—Vernon George Washington, whose hitting talents induced the White Sox to purchase his services, revealed today that he really can be a handy man with the bat. He peeled off a lengthy homer as well as a triple, and both were of good use in administering a beating to the Hollywood Sheiks of the Coast league. The score was 10 to 5.

The harvest from Washington's successful ventures at the plate was four runs, three of which he carried home himself. He scored the first time as the result of a pass in the second inning, when the major leaguers climbed into a tie with three runs. In the sixth the bulky newcomer broke the tie with a triple, and in the eighth he came through with his homer to account for the first two of six runs with which the Chicagoans sewed up the game.

Rigney Starts on Mound.

The Sox pitching for the day started poorly, but showed improvement toward the middle of the game and then bogged down again. The poor start was due to the ineffectiveness of John Rigney, Chicago semi-pro. Ted Lyons took over the job for the fourth, fifth, and sixth, and as proof that his arm still is alive he held the Sheiks to one scratch hit. In conclusion came Monty Stratton for three innings, and he encountered troubles that would have caused concern if it had not been for the six run splurge staged by the Chicagoans in the eighth.

The three runs piled up at the expense of Rigney in the first inning started to take form with a pass to Myatt, the leadoff batter. Levey sacrificed, and Myatt scored when Durst whistled a double down the left field line. Jolley lifted a harmless fly to Washington. Jacobs also hoisted a fly to left, but it was not harmless. It sailed over the left field brick wall, entitling him to follow Durst across the plate.

With the assistance of the enemy, the Sox managed to count three and tie the score in the second. Washington started it with a pass after Bonura had lined out. Appling scratched a hit past Pitcher Hile. Mauldin walked to fill the bases. Fenner aimed a grounder directly at Doerr, but the ball slipped through the second sacker's hands, Washington and Appling scoring and Mauldin taking third. Mauldin scored while Rigney was rolling into a force out.

Washington Breaks Tie.

Nothing happened despite Mauldin's double to left with one out in the fourth, and hits by Hayes and Radcliff with none out in the fifth availed nothing. The sixth was a bit better. Cano took over the Hollywood pitching assignment and was welcomed by Washington's triple over the center fielder's head. He scored on Appling's fly to right, thus breaking the 3 to 3 deadlock. This pleasing incident was followed by Mauldin's single to center, but Fenner and Lyons produced only tall flies.

The frivolities which netted the Sox six runs in the eighth started with a pass to Bonura. Washington lost no time hoisting his powerful homer over the right field wall. This disturbed Cano, the Sheik pitcher, to such extent that he walked Appling. Mauldin beat out a perfect bunt for a hit and when Levey threw the ball into right field, Appling scored and Mauldin continued to third. Mauldin registered on a two bagger by Fenner. The latter counted on a double by Radcliff. A double by Conlan scored Radcliff with the sixth run.

The Sheiks broke out in a harmless way against Stratton in the eighth. The young man plunked Levey and walked Durst. These two ex-major leaguers scored on hits by Jolley and Dimaggio.

The Sox will have another warm-up with the Sheiks tomorrow. Tietje, Wyatt, and Phelps will attend to the Sox pitching, according to Dykes' plans.

TWO OAKLAND HURLERS YIELD ONLY FOUR HITS

Chicago Threatens in Sixth.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Modesto, Cal., March 20.—The jolly Cubs this afternoon were runners-up in a game played with the Oakland Oaks, winners of the sixth prize in the last pennant competition in the Pacific Coast league. The final tabulation was: Oakland, 8; Chicago, 3. Our boys now have lost four out of their last five starts.

A youngster named Jim Tobin was the first today to take his turn with the array of other pitchers who have stood the Cubs on their heads, he being able to get the ball over the plate with a little zip, the only requisite so far, the way the Cubs are slugging this year. During five innings he held the bruising Chicagoans to two hits, both of them misjudged flukes. Jim Rego, second Oaks pitcher, was a very wild person; otherwise the Cubs probably would have been shut out. He managed to hold the Cubs to two hits, bringing their total for the day to four. This was one fewer than they made yesterday in absorbing a 4 to 2 spanking at the hands of the Sacramento Sacs, winners of the Coast league seventh prize.

Knickmeyer Is Nicked.

A rookie named Knickmeyer, who is training with the Cubs for the experience and three square meals a day, was called upon to pitch at the outset when Manager Charley Grimm decided the ground was too wet to risk his veteran southpaw, Larry French. Mr. Knickmeyer was nicked for four hits and five runs in two innings of labor.

Knickmeyer also started the third inning, but after Rollo Anton and Keith Molesworth, who half-backs for the Chicago Bears in the autumn season, had singled, he was removed, and Spencer, another fine boy who is riding here and there with the Cubs, took over the assignment. McMullen bunted and forced Anton at third, Goebel to Lindstrom. Tobin fanned and Molesworth was doubled trying to reach third.

Jurges and Goebel walked to start the fifth. Herman batted for Spencer and forced Jurges, Hawkins unassisted. Galan popped to Hawkins and English popped to Anton.

Joiner went in to pitch the fifth. Bryan fanned but Miller tripled to right center. Anton flied to Galan, but Bryan scored when Jurges erred on Molesworth's grounder.

Rego Wild at Start.

Rego went in to pitch for the Oaks in the sixth and walked Demaree and Lindstrom. Cuyler doubled to center, scoring Demaree and Lindstrom. Kl went to third while Cavarretta was grounding out and walked home on Jurges' triple to right center. Goebel and Joiner fanned.

Rego opened the Oaks' sixth with a single to right, went to second on Mailho's sacrifice, paused while Hawkins fouled to Goebel, and scored on Keyes' single. Bryan singled to right, Keyes stopping at second. Muller forced Bryan.

As per the daily custom since the Cubs entered upon their minor league buildup, the opposition popped off to a good start, this time with a pair of runs. Mailho walked and scored on Hawkins' triple to left center. Keyes walked and Hawkins scored while a double play was being executed. Lindstrom threw out Muller.

The Cubs appeared to be going places at the outset of the second inning but soon were blighted. Cuyler opened with a single to center and Cavarretta walked. Jurges fanned and Hartnett hit into a double play, Molesworth to Anton.

The Oaks went to work again in their second inning. Anton doubled and scored on Molesworth's single to center. Molesworth reached third and McMullen second on Knickmeyer's error. Then Tobin walked, filling the bases. Mailho fouled to Goebel, but Hawkins singled to left, scoring Molesworth. Keyes was called out on strikes, but Bryan walked, forcing McMullen across the plate.

Golden Gloves Squad Shows Benefits of Early Training

There was great rejoicing in the Golden Gloves training quarters at the Illinois Athletic club yesterday and all because the 16 boxers who will meet New York's best in the eighth annual intercity bouts at Chicago Stadium a week from tomorrow showed their true ability for the first time.

The team displayed considerable improvement in boxing drills over those held Monday and Tuesday. The boys punched sharper and hit more accurately yesterday and none was blowing and puffing from efforts as hitherfor.

Road Work Increased.

The reason advanced by Johnny Behr, head coach, for the improvement was that most of the fighters have been placed on a diet and thus did not put on any surplus weight overnight. Then again, he said, the road work in Grant park was lengthened from two miles to three miles.

Flyweights Jess Levels and Patsy Urso opened the program. They were followed in order by the bantamweights, featherweights and so on down the line until along about 4 o'clock when the heavyweight Chicago standard bearers, Lorenzo Pack and Otis Thomas, wound up the workout.

Herman West, light heavyweight alternate, was the only one given a layoff. He complained of a sore jaw.

The heavyweights will start this afternoon's drill and the flyweights will end it. Chester Le Vere, Allerton hotel light heavyweight, who was eliminated in the north side sectional trials by losing on a foul, attended the workout ready to spar. He will be used today, probably against Charley Wozniak, middleweight second stringer and Dave Clark, No. 1 160 pounder.

Clark Still Heavy.

The condition of Patsy Urso, 112 pound champion; Andy Scrivani, featherweight king; Mike Gramiere, first string lightweight; Clint Bridges, light heavyweight alternate; Al Van Den Bosch, middleweight, and George Dungey, lightweight, pleased the coaches. Their poundage had been reduced from two to five pounds in the last two days.

One of the few remaining members of the fat boys' brigade is Clark, who weighed 169½ before starting work, almost ten pounds over his division poundage. He is the most serious problem handlers have to solve at the present time.

How the fighters were paired yesterday and their weights, recorded prior to the workout, follow:

BABE RUTH AND BRAVES STOPPED BY DIZZY DEAN

6,400 See Cardinals Win by 5 to 4.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 20.—Special.]—Baseball's two greatest personalities, Jerome [Dizzy] Dean and Babe Ruth, met on the field today for the first time. A crowd of 6,467 taxed the capacity of the park here to watch Dean win the first battle against the former New York Yankees' home run slugger as the world champion St. Louis Cardinals triumphed over the Boston Braves, 5 to 4.

It was the largest crowd in the history of exhibition baseball in Florida. Ruth faced his National league rival twice during the five innings that Dean pitched and failed to get a hit.

Dean and Ruth Shake Hands.

Before the game Dean and Ruth met near the plate and shook hands. Ruth complained of a slight lameness in his back. When Dean, who was the first to resent Ruth's appearance in the National league, heard of Ruth's ailment he said he was suffering from a sore arm.

Dean, however, appeared in good form, allowing only three hits and striking out three in his five innings of work. Huck Betts, Boston veteran, took the pitching honors for the day. He yielded only one hit, a double by Joe Medwick. The ball sailed out in right and Ruth attempted to catch it, but fell.

Ruth Flies to Center.

In his first trip to the plate Ruth smashed out one of Dean's pitches and the ball went out to deep center, where it was caught by Gene Moore. The second time he faced Dean the former home run king lifted a high foul which was caught by Collins in front of the Cardinal dugout.

The teams began to score after Dean and Ruth left the game. In the seventh the Cardinals pushed across three runs. In the Boston half of the inning they scored two runs. Then the Cardinals scored again in the eighth and ninth. Bob Smith succeeded Betts on the mound for the Braves. Score:

Joliet Wins, 24-14, in Defense of Loyola Tournament Title

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Catholic High school of Joliet won the first game in defense of its championship as the twelfth annual National Catholic Interscholastic basketball tournament opened last night at Loyola university gymnasium. After coming from behind in the third quarter, the Joliet boys moved on to a 24 to 14 victory over St. Mary's High school of Menasha, Wis.

Although the final score might indicate a pronounced superiority, the defending champions maneuvered most precariously through more than three quarters of the game. Frequently they were erratic and at times they were plainly unnerved. It was not until well into the second half that they attained a measure of poise, but after certain happenings in the early part of the fourth quarter, they moved confidently toward their triumph.

Joe Is the Hero.

Joe O'Brien, a sandy haired forward of medium stature and unusual speed, was the person around whom those happenings revolved. Moving swiftly in close quarters, O'Brien got on the end of an intricate triple pass. Taking the ball under the basket, he dropped it in on the run. A minute or two later, he scored two free throws. By these doings he brought his team from an 18 to 14 to a 22 to 14 advantage and the confidence which Joliet acquired was worth even more than the points. Thereafter the result was assured.

To Ray McGrath of Catholic went the honor of making the first basket of the tournament and to the same player went the distinction of making the goal which sealed Menasha's fate—the last of the game.

A free throw by Frank Morrison in the last minute of play gave Central Catholic High school of Fort Wayne, Ind., a 20 to 19 victory over Columbia academy of Dubuque, Ia. The Dubuque team was leading, 9 to 6, at the half.

Indians Win, 31 to 24.

The colorful and aggressive Indian team from the St. Francis, S. D., Mission school took a lead of 17 to 6 over St. Mary of Dunkirk, N. Y., at half time. But the eastern quintet, fighting courageously, cut the Indians' margin to 25 to 24 with about four minutes to play. Then the westerners showed their class. A basket by Collins Jordan, a free throw by George Flammond, and another spectacular field goal and a free throw by Leonard Quick Bear brought the final score to 31 to 24 in favor of St. Francis.

Leader—Schaller.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Away back toward the caboose end of the six day bicycle race at the Chicago Stadium there was a flutter of excitement and some great activity last night.

The big team—Letourner and Georgetti—top heavy favorites to win this grind of approximately 2,500 miles began to move forward toward the leaders.

Forty-eight hours earlier they were 12 laps behind the leaders. Twenty-four hours earlier they trailed by nine laps. Riding at a steady pace, seldom getting themselves tangled up in any of the wild jams, they had wheeled their way steadily and up at midnight they were within seven laps of the lead which was shared by three teams.

Three Tied for Lead.

The leaders in the three way deadlock were Reboli and Thomas; Rodman and Ritter and Schaller and Buhler.

The innocent appearing rally Letourner and Georgetti put on caused their backers to take on an attitude of great enthusiasm. For forty-eight hours the admirers of this great team had been hooting at them. Last night the jeers turned suddenly to cheers.

Every move Letourner and Georgetti made brought out an outburst of cheering that caused the rafters to rattle. Their duel with Peden and Audy, far back—13 laps behind the leaders—was spectacular.

It's a Great Battle.

At times fist fights between Peden and the Frenchman or Peden and the Italian seemed certain. Peden's deep bass voice roared out at the foreigners during the heat of the battle and occasionally they moved out to let him go on by them. Then, just to aggravate the big red headed fellow, they passed him by a second later.

It wasn't the mighty Letourner who did the best riding. Georgetti was the fellow who performed the heavy work. His speed at times was amazing. Yet he didn't appear satisfied with what he was doing. He shook his head as the cheers went out for him as if to say, "I should have gone faster."

The favorites have contended all along they could pick up ten laps in two nights of hard riding. They were a fourth of the way along on this job last night. If they do as well during today's grind they will be right at the hip bones of the leaders.

Field Cut to Twelve Teams.

Old Reggie McNamara was another hero of last night's crowd of 8,000. He pedaled around the track like the McNamara of old. He outsprinted the best sprinters when he took after them. He showed an endurance that had the other riders baffled. His fine night's work kept the iron man team of which he is one-half and Dave Lands the other half in second place, one lap behind the three leading teams.

The field was reduced to twelve teams late yesterday when Referee Kramer, who seemed to be in a particularly bad humor, tossed the team made up of LeRoy Garrison of Kearney, N. J., and George Thelin of Chicago, out of the race.

The team was sixteen laps behind at the time and both athletes were a bit wobbly.

The results of the 1 a. m. sprints:

1—Georgetti, Yates, Ritter, Testa.
2—Audy, Wissel, Lands, Ehmer.
3—McNamara, Grimm, Peden, Deulberg.
4—Audy, Lands, Ehmer, Letourner.
5—Buhler, Georgetti, Lipsett, Krosmeier.
6—Wissel, Walthour, Audy, Martinetti.
7—Grimm, Georgetti, Buhler, Peden.
8—Spencer, Lands, Croley, Rodman.
9—McNamara, Buhler, Georgetti, Ritter.
10—Rodman, Walthour, Martinetti, Lands.

16 TEAMS OPEN STATE BASKET FINALS TODAY

Thornton and Springfield Tourney Favorites.

Games Today

10 a. m.—Joliet vs. Moline.
11 a. m.—Rockford vs. Quincy.
2 p. m.—Mount Carmel vs. Springfield.
3 p. m.—Deerfield-Shields vs. Champaign.
4 p. m.—Thornton vs. Marion.
7 p. m.—Peoria Central vs. Danville.
8 p. m.—Hillsboro vs. Pinckneyville.
9 p. m.—Galesburg vs. Pekin.

Champaign, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—Thornton High school's fast team from Harvey and Springfield's effective but more deliberate performers were favorites tonight on the eve of the opening of the annual battle for the state high school basketball championship.

Sixteen quintets, survivors of the district and sectional tournaments of the Illinois High School Athletic association, will play eight games tomorrow. Quincy, which won last year's title in a surprise victory over Thornton, comes back to defend its honors. Deerfield-Shields from Highland Park is the nearest to a representative from the metropolitan area, as no Chicago team emerged from the struggle to qualify for the finals.

Mills' Team Opens Meet.

Joliet, coached by Doug Mills, star Illinois athlete in his day, who will return to assist in coaching his alma mater in the fall, and Moline will open the tournament tomorrow forenoon. The Quincy-Rockford game will follow.

Springfield, the ninth team that Coach Mark Peterman has brought to the state floor, and Mount Carmel will open the afternoon session after which Deerfield-Shields will be arrayed against Les Moyer's Champaign five, a slow starter which surprised the dopesters by winning its sectional.

Jack Lipe's popular Thornton squad, champion in 1933 and runnerup last year, headed by Louis Roudreau, considered one of the greatest prep players in the state's annals, faces a southern contender, Marion.

Rooters Follow Danville.

Danville, competing in the state finals for the first time, will be supported by 1,500 persons tomorrow night, when it engages Peoria Central. Hillsboro and Pinckneyville and Galesburg and Pekin complete the pairings for tomorrow.

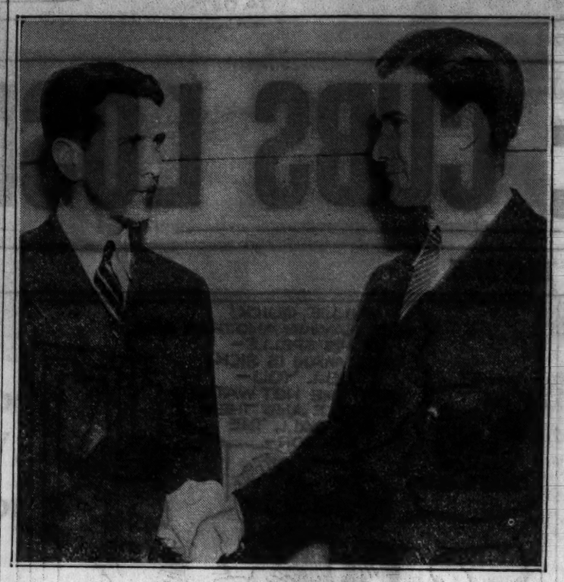
Indications point to the largest crowds the Illinois prep meet has ever drawn.

AMERICANS SEND SIX HORSES INTO GRAND NATIONAL

LONDON, England, March 20.—Six American owned horses were among the field of 28 accepted today to compete in the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree March 29. Among the American jumpers withdrawn from the historic event were Double Crossed, owned by J. H. [Jock] Whitney, and Lydig Hoyt's Noiseau.

The United States horses which will participate in the race include G. H. [Pete] Bostwick's Castle Irwell; Thomond II, and Royal Ransom, owned by Jock Whitney; J. B. Snow's Delaneige, J. Metcalf's Theras and Fouquet, owned by M. C. Blair.

Notre Dame Captain Elect Dies



Joseph Sullivan (right), captain elect of the Notre Dame football team, died early yesterday in New York hospital after a series of operations. HOLD LAST RITES FOR SULLIVAN AT N. Y. SATURDAY

Layden Arrives Today to Attend Funeral.

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—The funeral of Joseph G. Sullivan, captain elect of the Notre Dame football team, who died in a New York hospital early today, after a series of operations and blood transfusions, will be held on Saturday morning from his parents' residence in Belle Harbor, Queens, to St. Francis de Sales church.

Sullivan, who was 22 years old, was the son of Lieut. Timothy Sullivan, in charge of detectives at the Wilson avenue station in Brooklyn, and Mrs. Julia Sullivan. He was a nephew of Ald. Edward Sullivan of the Third aldermanic district, Manhattan.

Rushed to N. Y. on March 8.

During January, while he was at college, Sullivan was taken ill with pneumonia and a mastoid condition developed. Complications set in following an operation, rendering it advisable for him to be brought to New York for treatment by specialists. He was rushed here on a stretcher March 8.

Four days later Dr. Joseph E. J. King and other surgeons performed a double operation for an abscess pressing on the brain and a mastoid condition, and last Sunday a third operation was performed, also for an abscess underneath the skull near the brain. The abscesses were due to a streptococcus infection. To keep up Sullivan's strength several blood transfusions were administered before and after his operations.

Third Operation Performed.

Following his first New York operation, a week ago yesterday, he held his own and even showed some improvement. Sunday, however, he suffered a relapse and the third operation was performed for abscess, but at the hospital it was said none was found. Yesterday he had showed slight gain.

Besides his mother and father, Sullivan is survived by two sisters, Mary and Claire Sullivan, and five brothers, John, Timothy Jr., Gerard, Edward and Frank Sullivan, all of Belle Harbor.

LAYDEN LEAVES FOR N. Y.

Notre Dame, Ind., March 20.—[Special.]—Elmer Layden, Notre Dame athletic director and head football coach, today left for New York to attend the funeral of Joe Sullivan, captain-elect of the 1935 team who died this morning in New York. Layden was accompanied by Joseph Boland, line coach, and Capt. Dominic Vairo of the 1934 team.

His fellow students will kneel in prayer tomorrow morning at a solemn requiem mass to be celebrated by the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, vice president of the university and acting president in the absence of the Rev. John F. O'Hara, president, who is in Europe. The Rev. J. Leonard Carrico will be deacon, and the Rev. Francis J. Boland will be subdeacon at tomorrow's services.

The Monogram club of the university, which consists of all athletes who have won Notre Dame athletic insignia, will have a mass said Friday morning for their former teammate.

Before leaving, Layden announced that there will be no captain elected to replace Sullivan next season.

Yanks Forced Into 13 Innings Before Subduing Reds, 13-11

Tampa, Fla., March 22.—(AP)—After building up a long lead in the first three innings, the New York Yankees were forced to go 13 innings to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 13 to 11, today in an exhibition game that took three hours and eleven minutes to play.

The Yankees scored seven runs in the second inning and held a 10 to 2 lead as late as the fourth inning. The Reds, however, with Goodman and Riggs hitting home runs, pecked away steadily at Johnny Allen, Jimmy Deshong and Vito Tamulis and finally tied the score with a four run rally in the ninth. Marvin Duke finished for the Yanks.

Besides Richmond, Don Brennan, former Yankee, Tony Freitas and Si Johnson pitched for the Reds and were hammered for 16 hits, the same number the American leaguers collected.

Cin'c. [N.]	020	023	004	000	0	11	16	2

Batteries—Allen, Deshong, Tamulis, Duke and Glenn; Richmond, Brennan, Freitas, Johnson and Campbell, Lombardi.

PITTSBURGH, 8; PORTLAND, 1.

San Bernardino, Cal., March 20.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates rang up their fifth straight victory today as they defeated the Portland Beavers, 8 to 1. Ed Bryan was hammered off the mound in the fourth inning when the Pirates made all of their runs. The Pirates were held to one hit after that.

Portland [PCL]	000	010	000	1	6	1
Pittsburgh [NL]	000	800	00*	8	9	1

Batteries—Bryan, Gourley, and Cronin; Hoyt, Swift, and Padden, Dewesse.

INDIANS WIN, 11-2.

New Orleans, La., March 20.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians batted the ball all over the lot today, piling up thirteen hits to defeat the New Orleans Pelicans, 11 to 2, in an exhibition game.

Manager Walter Johnson of the Indians started Denny Galehouse, a right hander from Doylestown, O., on the mound. Willie Kamm played shortstop while Roy Hughes rested his arm for the series with Washington which starts tomorrow.

New Orleans [S.A.]	100	000	001	2	2	3
Cleveland [A.]	023	430	00*	11	13	1

Batteries—Suche, Valle, Fish and Helf, Fernandez; Galehouse, Perrin and George.

RED SOX, 10; GIANTS, 5.

Sarasota, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—An eight run attack in the seventh inning gave the Boston Red Sox a 10 to 5 victory over the New York Giants today and handed the National leaguers their third straight defeat since leaving their training camp at Miami Beach.

The Giants held a 3 to 1 lead going into the seventh. Then the Red Sox pounded Rookie John Leonardo and the veteran Adolfo Luque for seven hits and were aided by two errors. Dusty Cooke led the Red Sox 13 hit attack with two triples and a single.

New York [N.]	000	300	020	5	10	2
Boston [A.]	000	100	81*	10	13	1

Batteries—Castleman, Leonardo, Luque and Mancuso; Richards, Welch, Wilson and R. Ferrell, Smith.

ATHLETICS TRIUMPH, 4-3.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics gained revenge today for a grapefruit league setback of a year ago, defeating the House of David, 4 to 3, behind fine pitching by Johnny Marcum and Rookie Dutch Leiber.

The only inning the House of Davids could do anything against the A's pitchers was in the sixth when they pounded Leiber for four hits and all their runs. Outfielder Ed Coleman led the Athletics' attack with a triple and a single. Score:

House of David	000	003	000	3	8	0
Philadelphia [A.]	003	010	00*	4	9	0

Batteries—Janesko, Sloan and Rangnow; Marcum, Lieber and Berry, Cenroy.

PHILLIES, 9; TIGERS, 8.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—The Phillies finally found their collective batting eye today and hammered two young Detroit Tiger pitchers, Larkin and Wade, for a 9 to 8 victory—their first of the Grapefruit season.

The American league champion Tigers, meantime, found the offerings of Johnson, Bowman, and Pretzels Pezzullo much to their liking, but were stopped at the finish by Curt Davis. Score:

Detroit [A.]	100	112	030	8	15	1
Philadelphia [N.]	200	401	20*	9	13	3

Batteries—Larkin, Wade, and Reiber; S. Johnson, Bowman, Pezzullo, Davis, and Todd, Wilson.

Golden Gloves Fighters Show New Stamina

Gloves after several members of the original squad were dismissed last night when they attempted to shake down the Daily News A. A. for money, promptly were banded into the new Golden Gloves intercity team that will face Chicago in the Chicago Stadium a week from tomorrow night.

The New York team now lines up as follows:

112 POUNDS—George Coyle, Harold Valen, Bernard Reitman.

118 POUNDS—Charley Villareal, Ray Olive, William Pfeffer.

126 POUNDS—John Cabello, Aaron Seltzer, Gaspare Abruzzo, Angelo Bruscato, Phil Sirani, Charles Elliot, Mario Forni, Patsy D'Ambrosio.

135 POUNDS—Sedgwick Harvey, Louis Stipo, Pete Caracciola, Murray Kravitz, Tony Giello, Eugene Marini.

147 POUNDS—Eddie Steele, Sammy Meadows, Ludwig Kubisch, John Pressly.

160 POUNDS—John Pavolich, and others to be named tomorrow.

175 POUNDS—Philip Razzozino, Eddie Burch, Dom Scappatura, Gaetano Rozzi, Stanley Hasrato, Bjarne Ekeland.

HEAVYWEIGHT—James Howell, Lawrence Green, Howard Baylor, Herbert Kluge.

The squad moved into its new quarters at the St. Moritz last night and today they start a campaign to attain top form. The Golden Gloves team leaves for Chicago Saturday.

SEMI-FINALS ARE REACHED IN SQUASH TOURNEY

Jimmy Robinson, Robert Stevenson, Ed Parlato and Dudley Pope won their squash matches in the quarter-final round of the Chicago District Squash Racquet association tournament yesterday afternoon at the Lake Shore Athletic club. They will compete in the semi-final round at the same club today at 5 p. m. Scores:

Jim Robinson beat Marshall, 15-12, 15-10, 15-7.

Robert Stevenson beat Dick Hummer, 15-13, 13-15, 15-10, 15-10.

Ed Parlato beat Bill Eldridge, 12-15, 11-15, 15-10, 15-12, 18-15.

Dudley Pope beat H. L. Parker, 15-12, 15-10, 15-7.

GOLDEN GLOVERS BOX TONIGHT IN ST. HILARY SHOW

Parish Presents 8 Bout Amateur Card.

The annual amateur boxing show sponsored by St. Hilary parish will be held tonight at St. Hilary auditorium, California and Bryn Mawr avenues, with eight bouts between boxers who gained honors in the recent Golden Gloves tournament. Prominent officials of the Illinois athletic commission and the Central association of the A. A. U.—judges, timekeepers, referees, inspectors, and announcers—will work the bouts. Personalities in all walks of life will occupy ringside seats.

The eight 1935 Golden Gloves champions, who will meet New York in the annual intercity fights at Chicago Stadium March 29, and their coach, Johnny Behr, will attend. Behr will referee one of the matches. Other referees will be Tommy Thomas, Phil Collins, and Tommy Gilmore.

Ross Will Be Introduced.

Barney Ross, lightweight and junior welterweight champion; Joe Louis, leading challenger for the heavyweight crown, and Davey Day, lightweight contender, will be introduced. All three are products of Chicago Golden Gloves. Ross won the featherweight title in 1929, Louis won the light heavyweight championship in 1934, and Day got recognition in the 1931 classic.

Edward Ehlen, head of the committee arranging the show, has matched Herman Wright, Savoy Athletic club, south section winner, with Jerry Mulcahy, Heniff's gymnasium, who scored five consecutive knockouts prior to his defeat by Andy Scrivani at the Stadium, at 126 pounds in one of the outstanding contests. Another will pair William J. Edwards, Savoy, novice flyweight champion, and Mickey O'Neil of the Mastro Boxing club.

Remainder of Card.

Other matches:

118 POUNDS—Stanley Stockings, Heniff's gym, south section champion, vs. Joe De Pasquale, Mastro club.

128 POUNDS—William Goldsmith, Savoy, vs. Vincent Pellezrini, Mastro club.

138 POUNDS—Max Osher, Flynn's gym, vs. Patrick Henigan, Mastro club.

120 POUNDS—Sonny Rutt, Allerton hotel, vs. Will Malloy, Mastro club.

130 POUNDS—Tom Fitzpatrick, Allerton hotel, vs. John Padzett, Mastro club.

The judges will be Edward A. Hintz, R. A. Goudie, and Livingston Osborne. Frank M. Kalteux and Sam Abruscato will do the announcing.

Another amateur show tonight will be presented at the Armory, Aurora, Ill., by Danny Spunt. Honey Weaver, Joliet Golden Gloves welterweight title holder, will clash with Pete Andrews, novice champion, in the main event. Supporting matches include:

Phil Rosenberg vs. Virgil McGinnis, 135.
Dave Schimmel vs. Babe Cormier, 120.
Ben Houser vs. George Comes, 130.
Christ Boulahanis vs. Howard Miller, 147.

Marty Simmons, Pittsburgh middleweight, has been substituted for Frank Battaglia against Johnny Phagan at Pittsburgh Monday. . . . Billy Celebron, Rockford welterweight, sparred two rounds each with Al Pahl, Sioux Falls, S. D., and Solly Dukelsky, Chicago, yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium in preparation for a ten round windup at Janesville, Wis., Monday against Jimmy McFarland. F. M.

Baer Denies He Plans Marriage; Girl Friend Sued

San Leandro, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—Max Baer, world's heavyweight boxing champion, today denied he planned to marry Mary Kirk Brown Martyn. Baer was interviewed at the home of his parents here following reports from Miami, Fla., that suit for divorce was filed by her husband, Robert A. E. Martyn.

"We are just good friends. I am going to devote the next five years to my fighting career," Baer said.

CHARGES DESERTION.

Miami, Fla., March 20.—[Special.]—Robert A. E. Martyn, husband of Mary Kirk Brown, who was reported ready to marry Max Baer, world's heavyweight champion, today filed suit for divorce. Martyn charged desertion. He said they were married at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 1, 1934, and charged that she left him 15 days later.

FIGHT MANAGER GETS SIX MONTHS IN CUTTING FRAY

George Ades, Pittsburgh fight manager, yesterday was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell by Judge Nuncio Bonelli in Town Hall court on assault charges preferred by Hugh Cartin, a hoisting engineer. The charges grew out of a fist fight between Cartin and Ades after Orville Drouillard, Windsor junior lightweight, and Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis, fought an eight round draw at Marigold Gardens Monday. Cartin came out of the melée nursing a hand cut from a pocket knife he says was wielded by Ades. The dispute arose over the merits of the decision. Cartin, who is a friend of Sharkey, contended Jackie should have received the verdict. Promoter Maurice Rivkin is attempting to rematch the boxers at Marigold April 1.

STATES ENGLISH LAW WILL HALT BAER, SCHMELING

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—There is little probability that Max Baer will defend his heavyweight title against Max Schmeling in London next August, according to Paul Damski, manager of Walter Neusel, who has just returned from Europe. Discussing the offer of Walter Rithenburg of $300,000 to Baer for the proposed London fight, Damski today cited the English boxing laws, which he said would prevent the bout.

According to Damski, the English laws will not permit aliens to meet in a bout and permit only two aliens on any boxing card. Unless some way was found to get around the regulations, Baer and Schmeling would be prevented from getting together in a London ring. Damski believed that this, along with other considerations, including the heavy tax imposed on the fighters' shares, would induce Baer to forego the title battle abroad.

UNIVERSAL FIVE, REFINERS GO TO QUARTER FINALS

Denver, March 20.—(AP)—The Universal Pictures team from California and Globe Refiners of McPherson, Kas., rode into the quarter-finals of the National A. A. U. basketball tournament today without a challenge.

First to pass the third round, Universal decisively beat Club Sar of Gary, Ind., 45 to 25, with Frank Lubin as the scoring pacemaker.

McPherson pulled away after an early struggle with Denver university, during which Ray Johnson, Denver guard, accidentally gave the opposition its first field goal on a tip-in shot from a scramble under the basket, and beat the Pioneers, 53 to 26.

Third round scores:

Denver Athletic club, 42; May company, Cleveland, 21.

New Canadian Mile Record Set by Cunningham

HAMILTON, Ont., March 20.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham, the Kansas miler, established a new Canadian indoor record for the mile run tonight in the 93d Highlanders' meet when he was clocked in 4:16.6.

The time was eight seconds slower than his world indoor record, but good enough to give him the decision over Gene Venzke of the University of Pennsylvania, his leading rival of this winter's campaign. It was Cunningham's nineteenth triumph over Venzke in twenty meetings. W. Daly of the University of Detroit finished third. The former Canadian record was 4:18.

Stella Walsh shattered another Canadian record by winning the 40 yard dash in 5.1 seconds, then went on to score a double victory by winning the 60 yard in 7.3 seconds. Miss Walsh easily beat Noreen Smith of Hamilton in the shorter race, but had to unleash a desperate final spurt to capture the 60 from Annette Rogers of Chicago. Miss Rogers reversed the decision against Miss Walsh in a special 220 yard handicap event with the aid of a three yard handicap in 26.4 seconds.

Fitzgibbons Beats Trevett in Handicap Cue Tourney

Tom Fitzgibbons [42] defeated Dick Trevett, 42 to 22, last night in the handicap three cushion billiard tournament at the Kieckhefer Recreation. The match went 46 innings, with Fitzgibbons having a high run of six and Trevett four. Tonight Harry Towle [47] will play Len Kenney [50].

St. Albans School to Hold Basketball Banquet Tonight

The annual dinner for the basketball team of St. Alban's school at Sycamore will be held tonight at St. Chrysostom's parish house, 1424 Dearborn parkway.

Hocky Ruler Wants Proof of Collusion

TORONTO, March 20.—(AP)—The National Hocky league, which acts as parent organization for most of the minor circuits, will demand a thorough investigation by the International Hocky league of statements made by Frank Baird Jr., owner of the Buffalo club, and Mickey Roach, his coach, who charged collusion in Sunday's game in which Syracuse defeated Cleveland, 13-7.

Frank Calder, National league president, said Baird's intention to withdraw from professional hocky in no way relieves him of the responsibility of making good on a statement that the Syracuse-Cleveland game was not decided on its merits.

Baird Demands Expulsion.

Baird demanded of Charles S. King of Windsor, International league president, that Syracuse and Cleveland be expelled from the league because of an "obvious deal" between the clubs in the high scoring game which eliminated Buffalo from the playoffs. King, after conferring with the referees and the managers of the two clubs, said he could find no evidence of collusion.

Roach was quoted as saying he "had never seen so deliberate an attempt to defraud."

The International Hocky league playoff game between Syracuse and Detroit last night was played under protest, it was learned today. The Olympics claimed Bob Davidson, left winger of the Syracuse team was not eligible. Davidson was recalled by the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hocky league from Syracuse in midseason, but shortly afterward received a broken thumb which prevented him from playing.

Protest Not Pressed.

Eddie Powers, Syracuse manager, said Davidson was transferred back to his team on Feb. 12. As Detroit won the game, 4 to 1, the protest was not pressed, but Syracuse must furnish proof of Davidson's eligibility before he can play in tomorrow's game at Syracuse.

REVOLTA, PICARD TIE IN SUB PAR ROUNDS OF GOLF

Charleston, S. C., March 20.—(AP)—Johnny Revolta and Henry Picard, today blazed their way around the Charleston Country club's course in three under par and into a tie at 68 for the first round lead in the $3,000 Charleston open golf tournament.

Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn, Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Harold McSpaden of Kansas City were the only others in the field of 105 to break par. Cox had 69 while MacFarlane and McSpaden each shot 70's.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., winner last year, was well back of the leaders with a 75 and bracketed with Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill. Ky Lafoon of Chicago matched par 71 for the 6,420 yard course to finish sixth for the day. A stroke back of him with 72's were Chandler Harper, Norfolk, Va., pro, Harry Cooper, Chicago veteran, and Mike Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y.

Gene Sarazen of Miami, another of the favorites, finished with a 73 while Denny Shute of Philadelphia, wound up with a 74 by slipping to a 40 after a sub-par 34 going out.

Walsh, Sports Promoter, Sued for Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—Christy Walsh, newspaper syndicate man and sports promoter, was sued for divorce by Mrs. Madaline Souden Walsh, professional singer, today. The divorce papers indicate a property adjustment and an agreement over the custody of the couple's child. Mrs. Walsh charged her husband with mental cruelty in being unduly critical and emphatic in personal criticisms of her. Walsh belittled her in front of their 8 year old son and before groups of acquaintances, she says. The couple were married in 1917 and separated March 4, 1935.

Mostly About Dogs

By Bob Becker

The Question Box

I have a puppy two months old and would appreciate any information you may be able to give on the care and diet for a pup this age. We have been feeding him raw beef once a day with garlic. Also milk with garlic. I have never used garlic on a puppy before, but the person from whom I bought this puppy has been using it for years, and says it is better than pills. What is you opinion on using garlic for worming a puppy? If you do not advise it's use what do you advise? JOHN M. C.

West Monroe street, Chicago.

Frankly I do not think much of the schedule you have set up for that puppy. In the first place one meal a day is not enough for an eight weeks old dog. A puppy needs to be fed small amounts often. In other words, at least four times a day for an eight weeks old pup. A pup needs plenty of nourishing food, but he ought to have his day's supply split up into a number of feedings.

Furthermore, raw beef plus a little garlic and milk is hardly a complete diet for a growing pup. I am sending you THE TRIBUNE leaflet on "Feeding the Dog" which will give you same practical tips on foods for the pup. The food list includes raw beef [which is excellent for puppies and grown dogs] milk [another good food for puppies] canned dog food of high quality containing vitamins, cereals [such as shredded wheat and cooked cereal] puppy biscuits, a few vegetables, etc.

As for an opinion on garlic, I am afraid mine isn't favorable. I never have fed garlic to any of my dogs to rid them of worms. Ask your veterinarian about garlic. He will tell you the amount required to kill worms in a pup will make the dog sick. Modern veterinary practice calls for the use of drugs to rid dogs of worms—a drug that doesn't upset the stomach of the pup as garlic will. I suggest you take your pup to a veterinarian. He will explain the symptoms of worms, and the drugs needed to get rid of them in your dog.

A six weeks old chow puppy is being sent to me as a gift next week. I am at a loss to know just what care and food to give it. If you could give me some information I will appreciate it very much. MRS. G. M. D.,

Farwell avenue, Chicago.

Space will not permit me to give you complete directions on the care and feeding of a puppy. However, I am sending you THE TRIBUNE leaflet on foods for a puppy and grown dog which will give you tips on how many times per day to feed the puppy, approved foods, etc. Then I suggest that you purchase a good book on the chow so that you will learn something of its fascinating history, its character and disposition. I am recommending one by mail, also a good general puppy book giving tips on the care of young dogs.

Peden Sued for $25,000 Auto Injury Damages

William [Torchy] Peden, one of the riders in the six day bicycle race in the Chicago Stadium, was served during a rest period yesterday with notice of a $25,000 damage suit filed against him in the Circuit court Monday. The plaintif is Mrs. Rachel C. Granger, 74 years old, 7348 Ridge avenue, who alleges in her bill that she was severely injured last Nov. 18 when the automobile in which she was a passenger collided at Clark and Goethe streets with a car driven by Peden.

Indiana Moves to Ease Strain on Prep Fives

Indianapolis, Ind., March 20.—[Special.]—If reports from the state board of education are correct, Indiana has seen its last high school basket ball tournament with three games in one day.

By the time next year's Hoosier classic opens the board of control of the Indiana High School Athletic association may have adopted a rule preventing any one team from being forced to play three games in one day of tournament competition.

So authentic is this report that representative Carl M. Woodard, Michigan City, whose bill against three-in-one tourneys was caught in a last minute jam in the state legislature is confident that it has accomplished its purpose.

"I understand," he said, "that the board of education and the board of control will change the rule by next year. Then the final basketball tournament can be started Thursday or Thursday night preceding the two big days."

When a hearing was conducted by the state senate on the Woodard bill, Floyd I .McMurray, state superintendent of public instruction, told the committee he understood action would be taken which would preclude necessity of such legislation.

The question of whether three games in a day have a deleterious effect on high school players has resulted in state-wide curbstone debate. Some allege the strain causes heart disease. Others merely point to former members of championship teams and cite their good physical condition.

Ray Wozniak to Meet Bittner on C. Y. O. Program

Ray Wozniak, former C. Y. O. 175 pound titleholder, will make his first appearance since reaching the quarter-finals of the recent Golden Gloves tournament when he meets Joe Bettner tonight in the windup of an eight bout amateur card at the C. Y. O. Center gym, 31 East Congress street. The opening bout will start at 8:30.

In two semi-windups Joe Du Pont, featherweight novice champion, will will meet Joe Wiley, while at 147 pounds Tony Catalano will meet Jake Lampkins, one of the best colored boys in the C. Y. O.

Jimmy Christy, former C. Y. O. featherweight champion, who is now in the pro ranks, will referee two of the eight bouts.

CAMPBELL'S TRY FOR MORE SPEED ON SANDS ENDS

Little Chance in Change of Weather Today.

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell's speed attempts for 1935 were over tonight, barring only a miracle of nature, and the slender Englishman was ready to pack his beloved Bluebird and take it and its new 276.816 miles an hour record back home to England.

He made his final test runs on Daytona's sands today, but they were tests for the future rather than the present. The beach was still too rough for anything like the 300 miles an hour he seeks, and so he contented himself with experiments with acceleration.

Little Chance for Smooth Beach.

Tomorrow is his deadline here and there seemed not a chance the perverse weather that has haunted his seven weeks here would suddenly shift overnight and do for him what it has refused all this time—provide the perfect, smooth, hard beach on which he can loose his 2,500 horse power racer to the full.

"I'll have a look at the beach tomorrow," he said. "If it isn't right I'll start the mechanics packing up and crating her. I don't think there's even the faintest possibility that the beach will improve over night."

Today's developments increased the possibility that Campbell will make his next record attempt on the salt beds of Utah. He has been talking about them a great deal lately, but doesn't feel that in justice to Daytona's beach and hospitality he should go into the matter until the venture here definitly is over.

May Go to Utah in July.

There was even a chance that he would change his mind on the way north, leave the car in New York, and come back for a try in Utah in July, when the water is off the level, leaving an almost limitless stretch of iron hard and perfectly smooth salt beds.

When they call you "Old Man" you want them to smile

Nobody really wants to look old. But the world takes you at face value. To women and to employers you are always as old as you look.

Millions of men look older than they really are because their skin is prematurely wrinkled and dried out through the constant use of alkali-bearing shaving soaps that rob the skin of its natural oils.

And millions of other men keep looking young and fit simply because they keep their faces in perfect condition with Barbasol.

Barbasol is no male beauty treatment. It is the most modern, the most scientific shaving method.

It makes mussy lather unnecessary. Therefore it needs no messy old shaving brush. And, so soothing and healing is its action that many people use it for windburn, sunburn and chapping.

Barbasol has body enough to support each hair so the blade can snip it off clean at the base. This prevents ingrown hairs.

And finally the bland oils contained in Barbasol leave the skin in perfect condition so that premature wrinkles and old age lines cannot intrude.

Sooner or later you'll throw away that shaving brush and come round to Barbasol.

Already it's America's most popular shaving cream.

Tune in Edwin C. Hill every Wednesday evening over the Columbia Broadcasting System coast-to-coast, and Singin' Sam —the Barbasol Man—every Friday evening over WOR, WLW and WGN. (See your newspaper for local time.)

LOUIS WILEY, 65, NEW YORK TIMES EXECUTIVE, DIES

Entire Career Devoted to Newspapers.

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—Louis Wiley, 65, business manager of the New York Times, died today at Harkness pavilion of the Columbia Presbyterian Medical center of a cerebral thrombosis. He had been convalescing from an operation performed eight days ago.

LOUIS WILEY.

Mr. Wiley was a figure in American journalism because there was no limit to his interests. Although the greater part of his career was occupied with the business and advertising departments, his range included editorial work.

When Mr. Wiley became associated with the Times in 1896 it was a moribund newspaper with a falling circulation. With Carr Van Anda, the managing editor, they brought it to its present position of eminence.

Started as Reporter.

This catholicity of interest may have been due in part, friends guessed, to a short and early training as a reporter on the Mount Sterling [Ky.] Democrat, the Fort Wayne [Ind.] Gazette, and the Rochester [N. Y.] Journal and Post-Express.

Mr. Wiley was born in Hornell, N. Y., on May 31, 1869, and was taken by his family as a small boy to Mount Sterling, Ky., where he fell into the habit of dropping into the office of the local newspaper, the Democrat. A few years later his family moved to Fort Wayne, Ind. There he got a job on the journal at the age of 16. Later he switched to the Gazette.

Returns to New York.

Two years later he returned to his native state and became a reporter on the Rochester Post-Express.

Rochester soon presented too narrow a field. In 1895, after two years upstate, he arrived in New York. For a short period he worked on the Sun. Later he came in contact with Adolph Ochs, owner of the Chattanooga Times, who recently had purchased the New York Times. He was employed and for the next quarter of a century Wiley's life was bound up in the newspaper and all his activities directed toward its enrichment.

GRACE T. EAGER, died Jan. 18. Estate $7,000 to Frank R. Eager, husband, executor.

CONCERT SINGER IS KILLED BY HIT AND RUN DRIVER

Freeport, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—The body of a woman fatally injured last night by the automobile of a hit and run driver was identified today as that of Miss Burdette Claire Cleveland, 32, opera and concert singer.

She was struck down when she was crossing a street a half mile from her home here. The driver of the car did not stop.

Miss Cleveland, the daughter of Mrs. William Shuneman of Freeport, had planned to go to Italy soon to fill a singing engagement. She sang in Brussels, Paris, Rome and other European cities from 1928 to 1931. She was known on the concert stage as Eletta Clivanti.

Miss Cleveland began her career as a singer on radio station W-G-N in 1923.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The government of Mexico is to launch a series of sponsored programs over WENR-NBC at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The programs are designed to promote "a better understanding and knowledge of Mexican life, music and customs among radio listeners in the United States."

This is the first time that the government of a foregin nation has undertaken commercial sponsorship of a program over an American network. It would seem that salesmen of the National Broadcasting company are opening up virgin territory.

Obviously the purpose is to stimulate travel. Thus Cuba, the South American republics, and possibly even European nations may be interested in this experiment. Angel Marcado's orchestra will be the featured attraction. Government officials will be heard also.

Sigmund Romberg's fine musical hour will leave the air Saturday, April 13. The following week this 7 to 8 p. m. spot on WMAQ-NBC will be taken over by the cigaret company that formerly had the Magic Carpet on the air. Program details are not entirely settled, but Lennie Hayton's orchestra will be used and there will be notable guest entertainers, probably doing the acts through which they first became famous.

"The show must go on." Despite a serious ankle injury Ethel Barrymore held to this ancient precept of the entertainment world and was wheeled before the microphone for her scheduled appearance with Ben Bernie Tuesday evening. All the Barrymore histrionics, bon mots and piano playing were executed from the wheel chair.

Mme. Louise, who appears with Jack Randolph at 10 p. m. Thursdays on WMAQ, tonight promises to explain something that has been puzzling physicians for a long time—why men are subject to baldness and most women are not. . . . "Immortal Dramas," those old testament stories, will go off the air early in April.

First renewals of sponsored programs on the Mutual Broadcasting system were received yesterday. Sponsors of Singin' Sam and Jacob Tarshish, the Lamplighter, are extending these programs, heard locally through W-G-N. Quin Ryan's amateur night, on the air for 20 weeks, has been renewed by the sponsor for 13 more weeks. Ryan's show was the second amateur hour on the air.

In response to a petition signed by more than 600 invalid veterans, Myrt and Marge and their entire troupe will journey out to Hines hospital Saturday afternoon to put on a specially written show for the boys. Bobby Brown, director of the CBS "Myrt and Marge" series, wrote the sketch.

They Tried "Moist-Throat" Method! "NEXT DAY OUR COUGHS WERE GONE!"

"Jackie and I coughed our heads off," says Mrs. F. Fernandez, Providence, R. I. "Doctor said 'Pertussin.' Next day our coughs were gone!"

WHEN you catch cold, sticky mucus clogs your throat's moisture glands. That's because the healthy secretions of these glands have thickened or dried. Your throat feels raw—tickly—you cough. To relieve coughing, you must "unclog" these glands and so moisten the throat. PERTUSSIN does just that. Sticky phlegm loosens. Relief—quick. Get a bottle now.

RITES TOMORROW FOR C. A. WEISS, NOTED ORGANIST

Funeral services for Charles A. Weiss, widely known organist, composer, and teacher, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church at Orchard street and Kemper place, where Mr. Weiss was organist for thirty-seven years. Interment will be at Rosehill cemetery.

Mr. Weiss died Tuesday in his home at 2707 Glenlake avenue, after an illness of four years. He was 77 years old. Surviving are his widow and seven children.

Mr. Weiss was known for the many hymns, anthems, and cantatas he composed. He studied in Paris with Clara Eddy, Wilhelm Middelschulte, Alexander Guilmant, and Marie Widor.

MRS. MARY ANDERSON, 73 years old, of Kewanee, Ill., died of pneumonia in the Copley hospital in Aurora yesterday. She is survived by four sons, Sumner B. of Kewanee, Harley of Chicago, Dr. Nelson P. Anderson of Los Angeles, Cal., and Dr. Leland Anderson of Aurora. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m., tomorrow, in the First Congregational church in Kewanee.

CAMERA MAN IS WOUNDED IN A MOVIE BATTLE

Hollywood, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—Frank Evans, assistant camera man, was struck in the right thigh by a bouncing bullet in the movie reënactment of the federal men's ambuscade of the late John Dillinger's hangout in the northern Wisconsin woods. The bullet which felled Evans was fired by George Daly, former U. S. Marine sergeant for twelve years, who is used for motion picture scenes as a machine gun shooting expert. Daly was shooting the lights and windows out of a kitchen in which Barton MacLain and Russell Hopton, actors playing gangster rôles, were hiding, when one of the bullets, which were genuine, ricocheted from a piece of metal and struck Evans, inflicting a flesh wound.

CHARGE UTILITY BILL AIMED AT U. S. OWNERSHIP

Hold Its Wording Conceals Intent.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Drafters of the administration's bill to abolish holding companies were openly charged, for the first time, today with deliberately concealing the real intent of the measure and with trying to bring about government ownership of gas and electric utilities through the medium of obscure legal phraseology.

The accusation was made by Charles W. Kellogg, chairman of the board of the Engineers Public Service company, during hearings before the house interstate commerce committee on the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, which contemplates the dissolution of all except a few holding companies by 1940. The witness directed his fire against title I. of the bill.

Speaking at this point for gas and electric utility companies, generally, Kellogg told the committee that "we honestly feel that this bill was drafted by some one in such a way as to give it a meaning not apparent on its face."

Rayburn Resents Charge.

The incident drew from Chairman Rayburn a sharp warning that "You're not going to get very far around here talking about hidden motives on the part of the framers of this bill or of this committee and I think I speak for the 27 members in that respect."

When Chairman Rayburn informed the witness that he took full responsibility for the provisions of title I. of the bill, the witness became even more emphatic as to the position of the industry as to its intent.

"It seems to me that the real intent of the legislation may even have been hidden from the committee," he said.

Kellogg objected particularly to a statement in the bill's declaration of policy that holding companies were "inherently injurious."

The holding company had been made necessary, he said, by an absence of available capital to care for the growth of operating facilities in particular communities served, and a need of some instrumentality for attracting the needed capital.

Reads Letter Into Record.

Representative Pettengill of Indiana read into the record a part of a letter by Kellogg to stockholders of his company warning that the effect of the pending bill would be to bring about government ownership of utilities. The part read by Pettengill was made up, he said, from verbatim extracts from the federal power commission act and gave an unfair and distorted implication of the pending legislation.

The witness was granted permission to place the full letter in the record, explaining that there was not the slightest intention to reflect discredit upon the power commission inasmuch as there had been only the friendliest relations between the industry and the federal agency during the past 15 years.

Rayburn then asked the witness whether, in view of the expressed satisfaction with the commission, he really meant what he said about there being a hidden motive in the proposed bill since the commission had assisted in its preparation.

"If I hadn't meant it, I certainly wouldn't have said it," was Kellogg's reply.

Kellogg testified he was a director of 31 holding or operating units, but that he rarely attended directors' meetings.

Question Right to Tax Gains on Liberty Bonds

BY HOWARD WOOD.

While the treasury is rushing to call in billions of dollars worth of outstanding Liberty bonds containing the "gold clause" and replace them with new bonds not containing this technical liability, a suit has been quietly filed in the Court of Claims at Washington questioning the treasury's ability to collect income taxes on capital gains made by holders of such bonds, it was learned yesterday.

Central Hanover Bank and Trust company as trustees in this test suit seeks to recover approximately $7,800 in taxes paid on one of its customer's trust accounts. The taxes were paid because of a profit of $80,000 made on the purchase of $600,000 of First Liberty Loan bonds bought in the eighties and sold above par.

* *

The bank argues that inasmuch as principal as well as interest of the First Liberty Loan bonds was specifically exempted from all taxes except estate and inheritance taxes the payment of income tax on a profit made through appreciation of the principal of such bonds in the open market cannot legally be demanded by the government.

Inasmuch as the treasury has called nearly two billion dollars worth of outstanding First Liberties for redemption on June 15 the decision in this case may affect millions of dollars in income tax payments by bondholders who bought the bonds in the open market at prices below par.

* *

When the First Liberty Loan bonds were sold during the war investors were officially assured by the government that they would be exempt as to principal as well as interest for income tax purposes. Tax collectors have ignored that provision in the bonds. Investors were also assured that they would be paid in gold dollars of standard weight and fineness. Congress ignored that provision and the Supreme court in its recent decision held that although congress had no right to abrogate these contracts made by the government it was up to the bondholders to prove that they had incurred loss.

Now pending in the courts is a suit brought by the son of a former chief justice of the Supreme court contending that the treasury has no right to call its bonds before maturity if in doing so it forces the bondholders to accept depreciated 59 cent paper dollars instead of the gold dollars they were promised.

* *

In view of these developments the financial community is not surprised at the treasury's present haste in attempting to call in as many bonds as possible and replace them with new bonds from which have been deleted the safeguards for investors which were included in the wording engraved on the outstanding Liberty bonds.

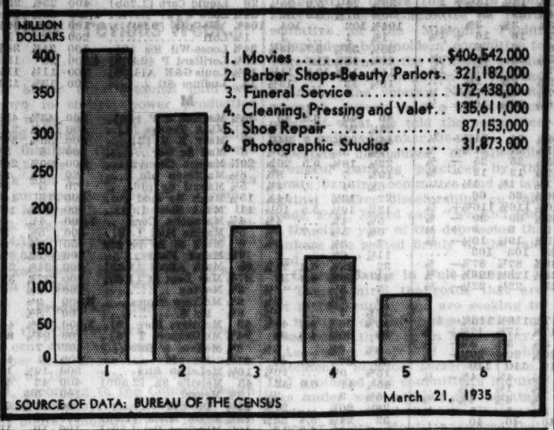
A desire on the part of the treasury to retire the bonds which might give rise to troublesome litigation by disillusioned and disappointed investors is believed in financial circles to account for the treasury's recent decision to call in nearly two billions of First Liberties on June 15, despite the fact that the success of the refinancing of the 1 billion 800 millions of Fourth Liberties called for payment on April 15 is not yet assured.

* *

Although new bonds that are offered to replace called issues lack the gold clause and pay lower rates of interest, the treasury is expected to have no difficulty in forcing the banks to buy them because of the recognized inability of the banks at present to find any other suitable means of investing their excess funds.

Already about 40 per cent of the deposits of banks in the 91 principal cities covered in the reserve board's weekly summary are tied up in government bonds, but the banks must continue buying such bonds because of the lack of demand for loans by commercial borrowers.

What the American People Spend for a Few Services



Money Market Trends Mixed; Action Nervous

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—New York today witnessed one of the jumpiest foreign exchange markets that has occurred since European uncertainties have made exchange trading more speculative than usual. Traders who arrived at their offices before dawn found sterling in the London market up sharply, some deals being made as high as $4.80½ to the pound.

Reports from Belgium of efforts to form a new coalition cabinet and intimations that efforts will be made to hold the belga at its gold parity imparted considerable strength to the currency. It opened at 23.15, off 15 points, but rose to 24.34 in later trading, although a subsequent reaction carried it back a point to 23.33, a gain of 3 points for the day but 7 points under the gold import point.

Pound Moves Nervously.

When the New York market opened the pound sold at $4.79, up ½ cent from the close here, but in subsequent trading it slipped as low as $4.76½, off 2, then fluctuated in nervous trading slightly above that point to close at $4.76¾, down 1¾ cents.

These gyrations were attributed largely to speculative New York trading based upon the continued movement of capital from the continent to England, accompanied by a considerable volume of buying and selling to close out yesterday's late deals.

The speculative nature of the trading was suggested by the fact that the franc did not move up as sharply with sterling's fall as might have been expected. This was interpreted as an indication that much of the sterling selling was against dollars rather than francs.

Franc Closes Unchanged.

The French franc opened here at 6.59 cents, off ½ point, and rose to 6.60½, although it was unstable at that point. There was a recession later, with the close unchanged from yesterday at 6.69½ cents. At this price the dollar was worth $1.0058 against francs, while the gold value of the dollar, based on the old parity of the franc, was 59.41 cents.

The belga imparted strength to other gold bloc currencies. Swiss francs and Dutch guilders remained under the gold import point, the former closing at 32.37 cents, unchanged from yesterday, and the latter at 67.63 cents, up 3 points.

The early rise in sterling was accompanied by a markdown of gold by 1 shilling 8½ pence to a price in London of 145 shillings 6 pence, equivalent to $34.79.

MEXICO BUYS 32,000 OUNCES OF GOLD FROM UNITED STATES STOCKS

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—The treasury today sold 32,000 ounces of gold to the Bank of Mexico to aid in building monetary reserves in that republic. With the approval of President Roosevelt, Secretary Morgenthau issued a special license to permit the sale of gold. The assay office in New York simultaneously was instructed to turn over the metal to the Federal Reserve bank at New York for earmarking to Mexico's account.

It was sold at the statutory price of $35 an ounce plus one-fourth of 1 per cent for handling charges, bringing the total cost to $1,122,800.

Treasury officials said the sale was not directly connected with any silver transaction, but did recall that this country has recently been buying silver from the Bank of Mexico. The bank it was said, has been converting its dollar credits into United States gold, in strengthening its monetary reserve base. The deal represented the first sale of gold to be announced publicly, since the United States nationalized the nation's monetary stocks of the yellow metal.

DUST CLOUDS WHEAT OUTLOOK; GRAINS SOAR

Prices Rush Higher in Lively Trading.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The first genuine crop scare of the new season developed yesterday in the wheat pit on the Board of Trade and for an hour trading was carried on at a pitch such as has been rarely seen in the market in recent months.

Prices swung up sharply with wheat futures ending the day 2 to 2¾ cents a bushel higher. The rest of the market followed, with corn gaining 1½ cents a bushel and other grains scoring smaller advances. May wheat closed at 92¾ cents a bushel.

The buying was touched off by a sudden rally in the Kansas City market, where wheat climbed about 3 cents a bushel in a short time.

The recurrence yesterday of blinding duststorms over a considerable area of the southwestern winter wheat belt provided the immediate basis for the upturn.

Storms Raging Several Days.

The storms have been raging intermittently for the last several days and strikingly illustrate the parched condition of the soil in many sections of the area. Drouth conditions are the severest in the western parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, and the Texas Panhandle region where there has been a deficiency of soil moisture for more than two years.

Brokers reported a material broadening in outside speculative activity. During the preceding five or six days similar conditions were reported in the southwest, but the market had failed to rouse from its lethargy.

Until the final hour trading in all grain pits was comparatively quiet, with prices moderately higher. At approximately noon when the Kansas City market started its steep climb the trade quickened as buying poured into the pits.

Many professional traders were said to be caught napping by the market's sudden reversal. Professional operations over the last several days have been largely on the short side of the market, and this provided an important backlog of buying when the price trend shifted. The swift advance in Kansas City sent traders who were short to the buying side to cover their positions.

Wheat Undisputed Leader.

Wheat had the undisputed leadership of the market throughout the day. During the last week speculative interest has centered at times in other grains, but it was wheat yesterday that set the pace. The upturn in corn futures amounted to an average of 1½ cents a bushel. In the oats and rye pits net gains for the day ranged from 1 to 1¾ cents.

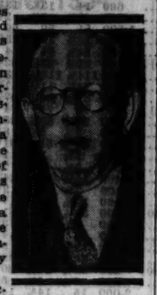
Closing prices in May futures with comparisons follow:

	Yest.	Tues.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	93⅜	91⅝	93⅞
Corn	78⅛	77⅜	80
Oats	43⅞	42⅞	47¼
Rye	55⅛	54⅛	59⅝

The state and federal weather bureau reports on crop conditions in the southwest which were issued yesterday confirmed earlier statements that the dust storms of the last few days have brought damage to the wheat crop in certain sections. These reports were compiled before yesterday's storms developed.

Livermore Seeks Comeback in Chicago's Grain Market

Jesse L. Livermore, who has won and lost several fortunes by his spectacular activities in La Salle and Wall streets seeks to make a comeback in the grain market. Livermore applied yesterday for reinstatement as a member of the Chicago Board of Trade. He was suspended by the grain exchange a year ago after he had entered voluntary bankruptcy in New York.



JESSE L. LIVERMORE.

Livermore's action indicated that he had completed a settlement with his creditors. Under the rules of the exchange he must provide with his petition for reinstatement a list of creditors, the amounts owed and the nature of the settlement. If he can prove a satisfactory settlement the directors may vote to restore his membership.

Efforts to locate Livermore yesterday were unsuccessful. Friends in Chicago denied knowledge of his whereabouts last night. When he sailed for Europe last December he told reporters that he [illegible]ing a study of European commodity markets in order to frame his own comeback.

He won a discharge from bankruptcy last June from the federal court in New York. His liabilities were estimated between five and six million dollars with which he had assets of only $184,000 to cover. His creditors, however, appeared unconcerned over their claims and did not protest his discharge. On previous occasions when Livermore went broke he is reputed always to have repaid his creditors when he recouped his fortune.

E. R. Bradley, Lexington, Ky., and E. F. Hutton, New York broker, were listed among his principal creditors in his last bankruptcy petition. On several occasions he has expressed confidence that he would be able to rebuild his fortunes.

Once before, in 1915, Livermore went into bankruptcy with liabilities of two million dollars. But the post war boom found him riding the crest again and he paid his creditors 100 cents on the dollar, it was said.

Directors of the Board of Trade will consider Livermore's application April 2. A two-thirds vote of approval is necessary for reinstatement.

AUTO WORKERS PROTEST NRA'S LABOR REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—Workers of the Chevrolet plants of the General Motors corporation were brought to Washington today to protest against the NRA's diagnosis of the automobile industry.

The employés, all of whom were veterans in the company's service, were sent here to disprove the so-called Henderson report which accused the industry of discarding workers when they reach the age of 40.

The group did not call at the NRA headquarters, birthplace of the report written by Leon Henderson, NRA research director. They called at the capital, and saw Speaker Joseph Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] and members of the house labor committee.

Henderson's report, which declared that the industry's labor relations presented a "dark picture" because of the low age limit, the yearly earnings, and other matters provoked a storm of protest from the manufacturers.

HIGH PAY, SHORT DAY CUT UNION PAINTERS' JOBS

Report Wage Delays Much Work.

BY AL CHASE.

A constantly decreasing volume of professional decorating contracts with union painters and decorators since the establishment of a six hour day and a $1.33 an hour wage on April 1, 1934, by local unions was reported yesterday by the Landis Award Employers' association. This statement was based on an extensive survey in Chicago just completed by the Landis group.

According to Charles B. Hart, secretary of the Painting and Decorating Contractors' association, the pre-depression painting union scale was $1.75 per hour for an eight hour day, or a daily wage of $14. In 1933 a one year emergency measure scale was adopted which called for $1 an hour for an eight hour day on old work [redecorating] and $1.41 per hour on new work, or $11.28 for an eight hour day.

Receive $8 a Day.

The present union scale of $1.33 an hour, in effect since April 1, 1934, which totals approximately $8 for a six hour day, and which expires on April 1, 1935, will come up for reconsideration next week.

"Substantiating evidence of the growing tendency on the part of property owners to refuse to employ union painters under the present hour and wage scales was disclosed in the survey," said Charles P. Pierce, executive vice president of the association.

"Our study showed that hundreds of jobs, which normally would be undertaken or contemplated at this season, are being postponed indefinitely because of the tremendously increased cost of decorating caused by the abnormally high hourly wage and the uneconomically short day.

"That home owners, particularly, and property owners in general, are doing their own work or employing open shop mechanics, is convincingly

STRIKE THREATS, POLITICS RETARD STEEL OUTPUT

Production Falls .5 Point to 47% of Capacity.

Caution has again gripped the steel industry last week with ingot output dropping another ½ point to 47 per cent of production capacity, says Iron Age. Political developments and strike threats are the thorns most disturbing to the industry.

It cannot be ascertained definitly whether the decline in business reflects an actual reduction in consumption or mirrors the growing conservatism of buyers, the journal says.

"Thus far the automobile industry, premier steel consumer, has not pared down its ambitious production programs for March and April," the review says, "but it is increasingly apprehensive that retail demand will react unfavorably to the numerous political and industrial disturbances of the day.

Basing Point Issue Unsettling.

"Most disconcerting of recent developments was the reëntry of the basing point issue into the national political arena. While the report of the National Recovery administration on this subject is regarded as much sounder and fairer than that of the federal trade commission, it is feared that adoption of the recommendation of either body at this time would result in far-reaching dislocations in both business and employment.

Another factor in the present hesitant attitude of the industry is the threat of a bituminous coal strike in April, although fuel accumulations are believed to be sufficient to carry the street industry for a moderate period.

Tin Plate Output Rises.

Despite the general downward tendency of steel demand, tin plate output has advanced from 75 to 85 per cent of capacity, says the journal. Present schedules are based almost entirely on actual releases, though some of the material will be shipped at a later date.

Sheet mill demand has dropped 5 points to about 70 per cent of capacity as a result of smaller automotive releases but mills look for an early rebound in demand as two large manufacturers have delayed requirements. Farm implement production has continued to improve except where operations are crippled by strikes, the review says. Awards of structural steel during the week were the largest since the first week in May, 1933, amounting to 45,800 tons.

Pipe Helps Ingot Output.

Ingot output in the valleys has risen from 51 to 55 per cent because of increased pipe production and the starting of a new strip mill, the journal states. Elsewhere operations are steady to lower.

Reflecting a further decline in steel scrap prices in leading markets, the Iron Age index of heavy melting material has declined to $10.83 a ton from $11.17 last week.

A cut of 25 cents a ton in No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap at Pittsburgh was reported in steel circles. The new quotation is $11.75 to $12.25, making the average price $12. The current price is a reduction of $1.75 a ton from the high point reached earlier in the year.

FOREIGN TRADE PACTS INDORSED BY CREDIT MEN

Resolutions indorsing the efforts of Secretary of State Hull to obtain reciprocal trade agreements with foreign nations to stimulate America's business abroad, and suggesting individual efforts to get congress to support Hull's program were passed at a meeting last night of the foreign credits division of the Chicago Association of Credit Men at the Electric club.

Stanley Zweibel, export manager of the Premier Pabst Co., in offering the resolutions, warned that failure to get reciprocal agreements might result in foreign business on a barter basis. In this event, he explained, sales abroad would be limited to the amount purchased.

Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago council of foreign relations, said that many believe Secretary Hull's foreign trade effort is one bit of intelligent activity developing in Washington.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE LISTS 2 MORE ISSUES

The governing committee of the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday approved the application of the Utah Radio Products company to list 196,380 shares of no par common stock. This represents a reduction in the capital stock of the company on the basis of one share for each two shares previously held and cancelation of 520 shares of treasury stock.

The committee also approved the application of Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., to list 50,000 additional shares of no par common stock. The removal of 300,000 shares of class A stock of the Great Lakes Aircraft corporation was ordered.

Warner G. Baird Appointed Trustee of Flamingo Hotel

Warner C. Baird was appointed a trustee in bankruptcy for the Flamingo hotel yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. He will succeed Joseph Barnhart who was appointed last July by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. Barnhart withdrew when the case was transferred to Judge Barnes in order that the latter would have a free hand in handling the hotel. Three plans of reorganization have been submitted and will be discussed before Judge Barnes on March 28.

Monon Reduces Deficit Slightly for Last Year

Operation of the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville railroad in 1934 resulted in a deficit of $1,416,814, according to the annual report submitted to stockholders at their meeting in Indianapolis yesterday. Deficit in 1933 was $1,514,467. Total operating revenues amounted to $7,427,498, compared with $7,228,716 for 1933. Operating expenses aggregated $6,168,313 compared with $5,745,056.

REPUBLIC-CORRIGAN MERGER DEFENDED ON STAND BY GIRDLER

Cleveland, O., March 20.—(AP)—The president and chairman of Republic Steel corporation, Tom M. Girdler, denied from the witness stand today the federal government's contention that merger of Republic with Corrigan-McKinney Steel company and its subsidiaries would be detrimental to the public interest. He testified after the government had rested its case based on the charge such a merger would be in violation of the Clayton anti-trust act. Girdler said the pig iron and semi-finished steel capacities of American plants far exceed national requirements.

A government witness, Edward Fischer, an attorney-examiner of the federal trade commission, testified that Republic and Corrigan-McKinney supplied 58.5 per cent of the pig iron requirements of their common customers in Ohio.

Girdler said Republic could produce 5,000,000 tons of pig iron a year, while the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiaries could produce 27,000,000 tons a year. Girdler said Bethlehem Steel corporation has a capacity of 9,000,000 tons, Jones & Laughlin 3,500,000, and the American Rolling Mill company 2,000,000.

The merger would further the protection of the public on steel prices by a greater coördination of Republic facilities, the Republic chairman declared. B. F. Fairless, first vice president of Republic, offered similar testimony.

At the conclusion of the government's case, Attorney William P. Belden, for Corrigan, told the court the companies "would not make the usual motion for a ruling by the judge in favor of the companies, because we want to present our side so the public and those interested in the merger may know what the facts in the case are."

"We believe, however," he added, "that the government has failed to make a case."

REPORT NORFOLK LINE CONSIDERS CALLING BONDS

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—The Norfolk and Western Railway company is considering the redemption of its divisional first lien and general 4s of 1944 on July 1 by the sale of various high grade securities in its investment portfolio, according to reports from usually well informed quarters.

The 4s of 1944, which are callable at 105, sold down to the lowest point of the year, around 106½. Notice of call would have to be published next month. The issue amounts to $34,668,000 outstanding. The company holds $332,000 in the treasury.

At the end of 1933 the Norfolk held as investments $11,745,000 par value of United States treasury obligations: $3,459,000 non-affiliate carrier corporation bonds, mostly short term mortgage or equipment trust obligations, and $21,855,094 par value of investments in non-affiliated non-carrier corporations, principally municipal bonds. During 1933 many of the municipals were in default.

10C WINS AWARD OF ELMIRA, N. Y., BOND OFFERING

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—The two highest bids made today for an issue of $700,000 city of Elmira, N. Y., certificates of indebtedness were separated by a margin of only 10 cents, perhaps the closest bidding ever recorded.

The First National Bank and Trust Company of Elmira won the award of the certificates at its bid of par plus a premium of $87.50 for the certificates to bear interest at the annual rate of .40 per cent.

The National City bank made the next tender, that of par plus a premium of $87.40 for the bonds on a .40 per cent basis. The issue, dated March 25, is due $350,000 each on May 25 and Sept. 25, 1935. There were five other bidders.

PUBLIC SERVICE NET RISES; VOTE USUAL DIVIDENDS

Public Service Company of Northern Illinois yesterday reported an increase in both gross revenues and net income for February over February, 1934. For the first two months of this year, however, net income, in comparison with the corresponding 1934 period, dropped in the face of increased gross revenues.

Gross in February, 1935, was $3,130,605 and net was $395,755. For February, 1934, gross was $3,052,035 and net was $386,052. For the first two months of this year gross was $6,382,547 and net was $847,240, against gross of $6,244,068 and net of $855,787 for the corresponding 1934 period.

Directors declared the regular quarterly dividends on both the 6 per cent and 7 per cent preferred stocks, payable May 1 to stock of record April 15. No dividend has been paid on the common since Nov. 1, 1933.

Remington Rand Profits Gain in 4th 1934 Quarter

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Remington Rand, Inc., reported today that its profit for the final quarter of 1934 was $560,778, equal to 19 cents a share on the common stock, against 10 cents a common share in the preceding year. Sales for the December quarter last year totaled $9,222,179, the best volume for any three months since the first quarter of 1931.

German Consulate Leases Space at 333 N. Michigan

Dr. Rolf L. Jaeger, German consul general, yesterday leased space on the eleventh floor of the 333 North Michigan avenue building for a term of years for the offices of the German consulate. William O. Trainer, renting agent of 333, negotiated the lease. The consulate will move from 520 North Michigan avenue early in April.

Air Conditioning Show to Be Held Here May 20-25

Plans for the national air conditioning show, which will be held in the Merchandise Mart from May 20 to May 25, are well under way, according to A. B. Coffman, show manager. The exhibit is sponsored by the National Society of Air Conditioning Engineers.

POWER OUTPUT GAIN IS BETTER THAN SEASONAL

Production Rises .24% Over Previous Week.

A better than seasonal gain was shown in electric power production last week, according to figures released yesterday by the Edison Electric institute. Output for the week was .24 per cent above the preceding week and 4.7 per cent higher than the corresponding week of last year.

In kilowatt hours the total for the week was 1,728,323,000, compared with 1,724,131,000 in the preceding week and 1,650,013,000 a year ago. The percentage gain over a year ago was the same as in the preceding week.

Production Rises Here.

In the Chicago area output rose .3 per cent over the preceding week and 5.1 per cent above the corresponding week of 1934. The total for the district, according to the Commonwealth Edison company, was 104,529,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 104,213,000 in the preceding week and 99,500,000 a year ago.

Improvement over the preceding week and a somewhat better percentage comparison with a year ago—in the preceding week the rise over last year amounted to only 3.5 per cent—was attributed to the influence of darker weather.

Following are the output and persentage comparisons with last year for the Chicago area:

Week Ended.	1935.	1934.	Per Cent inc.
March 16...	104,529,000	99,500,000	5.1
March 9....	104,213,000	100,710,000	3.5
March 2....	106,722,000	102,809,000	3.8
Feb. 23....	106,126,000	102,830,000	3.2

Rocky Mountain Gain Best.

The best gain shown by various sections of the country over 1934 was in the Rocky mountain states where production was 16.5 per cent above that period.

Other regional increases over the corresponding week of 1934 were southern states 6.9 per cent, central industrial 5.3, west central 4.9, middle Atlantic 3.6, Iew England .3, and the Pacific coast .4 per cent.

A preliminary report for the entire electrical industry in January shows sales to ultimate consumers of 6,468,731,000 kilowatt hours, a gain of 9.4 per cent over the corresponding month of 1934 while total revenue was $170,101,000, an increase of 5 per cent over a year ago.

COUNTY BOARD TO PAY $900,000 OF TAX WARANTS

The county board yesterday adopted a plan to retire $900,000 of county tax anticipation warants for 1930 now held by the liquidating committee of the old Foreman State Trust and Savings bank. The plan calls for the retirement of the warants at the rate of $75,000 a month and will result in a savings of $45,000 to the county.

Under the arrangement, the committee has agreed to accept 95 cents on the dollar. Funds for payment on the warants will be available from 1930 tax collections and tax penalties, Clayton F. Smith, president of the board, said. Retiring of the warants will also eliminate about $50,000 a year now accruing in interest on the warants, he said.

The board members also authorized the sale of $250,000 of 1935 forest preserve tax warants to pay current expenses and salaries of forest preserve employés. Due to the improved financial condition of the county, not more than 4 per cent interest will be paid on the warants, Smith declared.

CONTROL BOARD FOR LONG BELL LUMBER NAMED

Clarence T. MacNeille of Halsey, Stuart & Co. today announced the control board personnel of the reorganized Long-Bell Lumber company provided for under the reorganization plan being effected under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act.

Preferred stock holders will be represented by E. C. Crownwall, Chicago; J. Z. Miller, for nine years governor of the Kansas City Federal Reserve bank, and J. L. Westlake, St. Louis. Common stock holders will be represented by Jesse Andrews, lawyer of Houston, Tex., and Kansas City. James M. Kemper, president of the Commerce Trust company, Kansas City, will represent bank creditors.

It was expected that the reorganization plan will be submitted in federal court at Kansas City Friday for approval.

Hear Turkey Seeks Loan in England for 100 Million

LONDON, March 20.—It was learned tonight that the Turkish government has decided to float a loan in London of $100,000,000 secured on tobacco monopolies and customs receipts, bearing 6 per cent interest. This is the first foreign loan the Turkish republic has attempted to float and the money, it is understood, will be devoted to armaments, chiefly naval. Negotiations are being handled by the banker prince, Abbas Hilmi Pasha, formerly khedive of Egypt, whose personal fortune is reputedly $90,000,000.

Fish Fail to Tip Balance of RFC Collateral Scales

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—The Reconstruction corporation today was reported authoritatively to have rejected the request of the Halibut Fishing Vessel Owners association, of Seattle, for a loan to stabalize prices. While the RFC refused to confirm this report, a reliable source said the association was understood to have been unable to furnish collateral satisfactory to the corporation.

China Will Offer Big Loan in Effort to Aid Industry

NANKING, China, March 21 [Thursday.]—(AP)—An official spokesman announced today the national government will undertake to float a bond issue of $100,000,000 Chinese currency, for government assistance to the nation's depressed commerce and industry. The central political council, highest authority in the government, authorized the issue, the spokesman said.

Economist Urges Railroads Be Freed of Bankers' Control

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—A plea that the railroads be stripped of Wall street "banker control" so they will "serve first the public interest, be fair to the employés, and pay a decent return to their investors" was made today to a senate committee by Prof. Charles A. Beard, Boston economist.

Appearing before the senate interstate commerce committee as representative of the Missouri Pacific independent bondholders' committee to urge adoption of the Wheeler resolution for an investigation of railroad financing, the veteran New England research expert read a long indictment of what he told the committee was a railroad-banker tie-up.

Despite disclosures of allegedly wrongful banking practices by the senate banking committee and a law against banker directorships on railroads, Prof. Beard said "we find that in the sixth year of the depression the bankers are seated firmly in the railroad saddle."

Charge Banks in Full Control.

"They control the roads that are not in bankruptcy and are seeking to be masters of the reorganization of those roads that are in bankruptcy."

As Beard proceeded to read his statement, Senator Dieterich [Dem., Ill.] protested the committee's inquiry was under way without the senate's having authorized it, but Chairman Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] answered that Beard's was only one of three or four preliminary statements to be introduced to show the need for an investigation.

Maxwell Brandwen, New York attorney representing the bondholders' committee, will be heard tomorrow. He will be followed by members of the interstate commerce commission and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

As an illustration that the "depression has tightened the grip of the bankers on the railroads," Beard said J. P. Morgan & Co. was the "real" controler of the vast Van Sweringen lines as a result of a $48,000,000 loan which the Van Sweringens could not pay except by some "financial wizardry."

Cites Roads "Used for Loans."

He listed the Missouri Pacific, Rock Island, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, and the Wabash as roads that had been used by banks interested in them as "intermediaries for government money" through the RFC.

"Among the people who got government money in this way for the purpose of paying to the bankers money owing to them by the railroads," he said, "were Morgan; Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Guranty Trust company, Chase National, and a string of New York banks which play an active part in railroad reorganization—Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, Bank of Manhattan Trust company, First National bank, Manufacturers' Trust company, Chemical Bank and Trust company, and New York Trust company."

RAILS ARGUE PRESENT JOINT BARGE RATES ARE NOT NECESSARY

New Orleans, La., March 20.—(AP)—Trunk Line railroads, which compete with the country's inland waterway trafic, contended at a rate hearing today that "the public interest does not require the continuance of joint rates with the barge lines that are any less than the corresponding all-rail rates from and to the same points."

This contention was advanced by Elmer A. Smith of Chicago, general attorney of the Illinois Central system, who acted as spokesman for the rail carriers at the opening session of an interstate commerce commission inquiry into the joint water and rail rate problem.

Nuel D. Belnap of Chicago, counsel for the Federal Barge lines, in his opening reply to Smith, stated that the existing rate structure including the present rate differential created to attract trafic to the waterways, "is inadequate in its territorial application," and that many of the rates provided "do not extend to the public the full benefits of the economies of water transportation."

The hearing is expected to continue here for about two weeks, to be followed by later sessions in St. Louis and Chicago.

UNITED BISCUIT ASKS SEC TO O. K. $5,000,000 ISSUE

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—Application for the issuance of $5,000,000 of 5 per cent debenture bonds dated April 1 and maturing in 1950 has been filed with the Securities and Exchange commission by the United Biscuit company of America.

Net proceeds after all expenses were estimated at $4,724,450, to be used to redeem at 103½ all of the $2,880,000 of 15 year 6 per cent debentures due Nov. 1, 1942; pay other indebtedness and for other corporate purposes.

The underwriters were named as Goldman, Sachs & Co., Lehman Brothers, Blyth & Co., Inc., and Kidder, Peabody & Co., each of whom would handle $1,250,000 of the issue.

Hahn on Way Here to Face Charge of Embezzlement

San Antonio, Tex., March 20.—(AP)—Walter L. Hahn, former receiver for the Western and Southern Life Insurance company of Chicago, was en route there today to face a charge of embezzling $6,677. Hahn waived extradition, declaring the charge would be "cleared up."

$7,000,000 UTILITY OFFERING MAY BE MADE TOMORROW

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—Public offering of the long awaited new issue of $7,000,000 of Wisconsin Public Service corporation first lien and refunding mortgage 5½ per cent bonds, dated March 1, 1933, and due March 1, 1959, is expected Friday, the bonds have been registered with the Securities and Exchange commission.

The offering group will consist of the first Boston corporation, H M. Byllesby & Co. Inc., W. C. Langley & Co., Edward B. Smith & Co., A. C. Allyn & Co. Inc., and Halsey, Stuart & Co. Inc. The underwriting syndicate sent out copies of the prospectus yesterday to dealers throughout the country, omitting the offering price which will be decided just before formal offering is made.

Proceeds of this financing will be used to retire bank loans obtained in 1933 in connection with the acquisition of properties of the Wisconsin Valley Electric company.

FRAZIER-LEMKE ACT DECISION AGAINST DEBTORS

Peoria, Ill., March 20.—(AP)—A decision regarded in legal circles as likely to set a precedent was given by Federal Judge Earl Major when he found for creditors against debtors in a case brought under section 75 of the amended bankruptcy [Frazier-Lemke] act.

The court said it found that the debtors had not shown good faith in making an offer of compromise with creditors because the sum offered was out of proportion with the value of the land upon which the creditors had held, and foreclosed, a mortgage.

Judge Major also held that the relation of creditor and debtor ceased when the land was sold under foreclosure, leaving the debtors only an equitable right of redemption.

The case involved bankruptcy of Benjamin F. and Charles W. Borgelt, lately of Fulton county. The ruling dissolved an injunction restraining creditors from proceeding against debtors under Illinois law.

Investment Bankers' Head Will Speak Here Tomorrow

Ralph T. Crane, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America and member of Brown, Harriman & Co., Inc., will be the speaker at a meeting of investment bankers tomorrow noon at the Palmer house. The luncheon will be held under the auspices of the central states group of the Investment Bankers' Association of America and the Bond Men's club.

TAX RECEIPTS GAIN; REPORTED NEAR ESTIMATE

8 Month Total Runs 341 Million Above 1934.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's revenue estimates for the current fiscal year became a step nearer realization tonight with an announcement by the treasury that receipts through February had amounted to $1,913,465,375, a gain of $341,479,065 over the corresponding period of last year.

The annual budget message estimated the year's receipts at $3,197,000,000. Receipts for the first eight months of the period have been at the rate of $239,000,000 monthly which would indicate total receipts for the year of only $2,869,000,000 if the present ratio were maintained.

Remaining Months Best.

However, treasury officials said that the remaining months are among the most lucrative, due primarily to the fact that the first installment of income taxes on 1934 incomes are due in March, a levy which is expected to return at least $300,000,000 before March 31. On this basis, responsible officials are known to believe that the budget estimates will be reached.

On capitol hill, the treasury figures evoked even more enthusiasm. Speaker Byrns declared, "we're out of the depression. There's nothing gives a better indication on the true condition of business than tax payments."

While Byrns preferred to leave guesses as to future tax plans to those he termed the "experts," other Democratic leaders said they believed congress might not be confronted with the necessity of immediately laying new levies.

Move to End Gasoline Tax.

In line with this, a move to prevent reënactment of the federal excise tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline which expires in July was under way today in the house. A small group headed by Representatives Driscoll [Dem., Pa.] and Disney [Dem., Okla.] began enlisting support for the move, and Driscoll said the matter would be presented to the ways and means committee soon.

Alcoholic beverages have returned $267,340,274 during the first eight months of the present fiscal year, an increase of $123,595,187 over the same period last year. Liquor, however, was not made legal until December, 1933, which accounts for the wide disparity in receipts.

President Roosevelt's estimates on liquor receipts have been almost identical with actual returns for the first eight months of the year. In his budget message he estimated all alcoholic beverage taxes for 1935 as $392,000,000 while returns of $390,670,000 are forecast on the basis of eight months' receipts.

BRITAIN BOOSTS IMPORT DUTIES ON IRON, STEEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 20.—A substantial increase in import duties on various types of structural iron and steel was announced tonight by the treasury as a move to protect home industry from dumpers and provide British producers with greater powers of bargaining with the continental steel cartel for over seas markets.

A duty of 33 1-3 per cent was imposed on foreign imports in April, 1932, and made permanent last year. British producers, still dissatisfied, clamored for further protection. The new tarif on low priced ranges of elementary products will be increased from 33 1-3 per cent to as high as 50 per cent, while the more expensive grades, which are governed by trade agreements, will remain unchanged.

In recommending the increases, the tarif committee pointed out that up to 1934 there had been progressive diminution in imports of iron and steel. Last year, however, imports rose to 1,400,000 tons, compared with 850,000 in 1933, thus retarding the progress of home industry.

ECCLES STANDS FIRM FOR RESERVE BOARD RULE OF ALL BANKING

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Representative Goldsborough [Dem., Md.], discussing the proposed banking act of 1935 with Marriner S. Eccles before the house banking committee, today declared that "under the new bill members of the federal reserve board who are not benevolent despots and certainly are not immoral have the economic destiny of the country under control."

"Do you think that is a good thing?" he asked the reserve board governor.

"I'm proposing it," Eccles replied. "Only a unified banking system in this country will ever stand the pressure of periods of financial stress, Eccles declared. "We will never have a sound, dependable banking system until we get a unified system," he told the committee. "We can never exercise, through monetary policy, the requisite control, with a substantial number of banks which create money the same as member banks, subject to no regulation or control by the authority responsible for monetary action."

Representative Williams of Missouri said that he saw no reason for the further existence of state banks, if they were all to be forced into the federal reserve system.

"We cannot expect at one session of congress to get banking legislation going any further than this bill," Eccles replied. "It is my belief that state banking legislation ought to be abolished, but as a practical matter it is impossible to consider it at the present time."

ABOLISH HOLC, NATIONAL REALTY LEADER URGES

Philadelphia, Pa., March 20.—(AP)—Walter S. Schmidt, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, today declared the Home Owners' Loan corporation should be abolished.

"The government has no business lending to its citizens on whom it may foreclose and deprive of property," he told the Philadelphia real estate board.

He said none of the aims back of creation of the federal home loan banks and the mortgage insurance plan of the national housing act, meets the requirements for stimulating mortgage credit.

Schmidt outlined a bill to create a federal mortgage discount bank which he and fellow officers of the association drew up at the request of President Roosevelt.

HIGH PAY, SHORT DAY CUT UNION PAINTERS' JOBS

Report Scale Retards Much Decorating.

shown by the rapidly growing volume of retail paint sales reported by department stores, mail order houses and individual retail shops. Increases in sales volume of paints ranging from 10 to 20 per cent are being commonly experienced by the department stores.

Men Are Unemployed.

"In the face of this situation, an analysis of figures showing employment of union painters indicates that there is a much greater percentage of unemployed at present than there was last year at this season.

"Further evidence of the harmful effects of the present high union wage scale and short work day is furnished by a survey of property management organizations in this territory. A large number of leaders among the building managers report that there are many prospective decorating jobs which normally would be started at this time, but which they are delaying because of the excessive costs.

"These jobs alone would require the employment of several thousands of tradesmen who are now unemployed, but who could speedily obtain work should they be willing to work a normal eight hour day at 75 cents an hour."

One large contractor who employs only union painters explained the decrease in his business in the face of mounting manufacturing volume of paint by the statement that individual union workers were "bootlegging" their services—that is, taking jobs at less than the union scale.

Food Price Index Again Declines; Down 4 Cents

A decline in the weekly food index of Dun & Bradstreet which started three weeks ago continued this week with a drop of 4 cents. Last week's decrease was 2 cents. This week's downturn in the index brought it to $2.62 for the week ended March 19, and canceled most of the advance scored from the first of the year to Feb. 16, when the index touched a four and one-half year top of $2.76.

Will Your or Your Neighbor's

Savings Be Destroyed

By Holding Company Bill?

You wouldn't break up a new automobile and sell it for junk merely because one of its tires went flat. Yet the Rayburn-Wheeler Bill now pending in Congress proposes to wipe out utility holding companies completely within five years—principally because prejudiced investigations have charged that evils have existed in connection with holding company management.

If the holding companies are forced to dissolve, the investments of millions of owners of holding company securities will be destroyed.

Forced Sales Would Ruin Values

When a holding company is dissolved, it must first pay its debts and then its preferred stocks, in cash, before it can pay anything to the holders of its junior stocks. Its debt is represented by debenture bonds. To get cash to pay off the holders of its debenture bonds and preferred stocks, it has to sell the only property it owns—the stocks and bonds of local electric and gas companies.

These stocks and bonds would all have to be dumped on the market within a comparatively short period of time. Every one would be selling; very few would be buying. Prices which are already low would fall so severely that it is doubtful if many holding companies would get enough cash to pay off their debenture holders, much less anything to pay their stockholders. The mere threat of such liquidation overhanging the market would keep such securities continuously depressed, as has always been true in the past when securities were required to be sold before any specified date.

Government Ownership Likely Result

And who would buy these stocks and bonds of local operating companies dumped on the market? No utility company or other corporation could buy, otherwise it would become a holding company by the terms of the bill. Municipalities and the Federal Government would be the most likely purchasers. In other words, the Government would first destroy the value of utility securities, and then buy them at bankrupt prices. A nation-wide system of Government ownership could be built upon this sacrifice of the rights of honest investors.

Is This a Fair Deal for Investors?

This bill means ruin for investments of billions of dollars. And even if the provisions which abolish holding companies were taken out of the bill, it would still be harmful. It puts local utility companies under stifling bureaucratic control from Washington. It usurps the rights of the States in regulating their own local companies. It imposes huge expenses on these companies which eventually must come out of the customer's pocket.

Write your Representatives and Senators and insist that they give you a fair deal. Ask them how the Rayburn-Wheeler Bill can fail to ruin your investments and impair your electric and gas service. Ask them to vote against this destructive bill.

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—The weakness in Belgian bonds was transmitted to other sections of the foreign list today and resulted in declines of a point or more in Polish 8s, German agricultural banks 6s, Rumanian 7s, United Steel Works 6½s, and some of the South Americans.

Belgian issues broke fractionally to more than 5 points, reaching a level averaging about 11 points under the recent high.

Second Grades Improve.

Demand for domestic issues of second and speculative grades was improved and many of the old favorites gained a point or more. Among the latter were American Water Works 6s and 6s, Columbia Gas 5s of two issues, Certain-teed 5½s, Erie general 4s, International Telephone debenture 5s, Great Northern general 4½s and 5s, Manhattan Railway first 4s, New Haven debenture 4s, Ontario and Western refunding 4s, and "Soo Line" 5½s.

Colorado and Southern refunding 4½s, which mature this year, suddenly came into the limelight, advancing sharply to a new high on a large volume of buying. The rise was accompanied by rumors of an arrangement for meeting this maturity.

Federal Issues Easier.

United States government bonds were generally lower. Liberty issues easier, 2-32 to 6-32 point while treasury loans slid 1-32 to 7-32 point. Activity in these groups centered in called Liberty fourth 4¼s and treasury 2⅞s, both of which eased 2-32 point on the day.

The turnover in all issues was fairly light, amounting to $9,867,000.

Borg-Warner Corporation.

Investors' Guide: Thanks very much for past favors. Would you give me a report on Borg-Warner?—Mrs. P. G.

Answer: Borg-Warner corporation was formed in 1928 as a consolidation of four companies engaged in the manufacture of automobile parts. The corporation has developed its automobile parts business until it now enjoys a greater percentage of available business in its field than at any time in its history.

A program of diversification has lessened its dependence on the automobile industry—during 1934 only 65 per cent of dollar volume of business came from that field. The remainder was from wholly owned subsidiaries, including Norge corporation, manufacturer of refrigerators, kitchen ranges, washing machines, air conditioners, and oil burners; Ingersoll Steel and Disc company, manufacturer of specialty steels, and Morse Chain company, producer of industrial power transmission devices.

General pickup in industry, especially the automobile industry, as well as wider range of products and increased customer list, boosted earnings in 1934 to the highest point since 1929. Business during the first two months of 1935 showed a "considerable increase" over the corresponding 1934 period, according to the company.

Net income for 1934 was $3,751,000, or $3.06 per common share, against net of $1,196,000, or 84 cents per common share, for 1933. Net loss in 1932, was $598,000, against net income of $1,208,000 in 1931.

Current position at the close of 1934 was strong—cash assets alone were 167 per cent of total current liabilities. Current assets were sufficient to pay off all current liabilities, funded liabilities, preferred stock and still leave about $9.20 per common share.

There are outstanding 1,150,919 shares of $10 par common.

Effective April 2, 1935, the dividend rate will be increased from 25 to 37½ cents a quarter.

Illinois Central Leased Line.

Investors' Guide: Please give me some information on Illinois Central Leased Line stock. I never heard of it before.—Mrs. W. E.

Answer: The $9,989,700 of $100 par Illinois Central "Leased Line" stock is secured by deposit of a like amount of Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans railroad stock. Dividends of 4 per cent a year are guaranteed by Illinois Central Railroad company. In case of default in dividends for sixty days, holders will be entitled to the original stock pledged. The stock is listed on the New York Stock exchange.

It deserves a fairly good rating.

GENERAL FOODS REPORTS SLIGHT GAIN IN PROFITS

Record Made Despite Rise in Taxes and Costs.

With the physical volume of food sales the largest in its history, General Foods corporation was able to show a slight increase in earnings during 1934 despite increased costs and heavier taxes, according to the annual report yesterday by C. M. Chester, president.

Net income for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, amounted to $11,143,876 after all charges and provision for income taxes, equivalent to $2.12 a share on the 5,251,440 shares of common stock outstanding at the close of the year. This compares with a net of $11,032,948, or $2.10 a share in 1933 on 5,251,468 shares a year earlier.

Fourth Quarter Net 40c a Share.

During the final quarter of the year net earnings amounted to $2,112,142, or 40 cents a share, compared with $1,454,090, or 28 cents a share in the corresponding period of 1933.

During the last three years taxes paid by General Foods increased from 45 to 88 cents a share as follows: In 1932 taxes amounted to $2,347,819, or 45 cents a share, compared with earnings of $10,343,882, or $1.97 a share; the next year taxes amounted to $2,990,553, or 57 cents a share, against net earnings of $11,032,948, or $2.10 a share; last year taxes totaled $4,619,575, or 88 cents a share, against the earnings of $11,143,876, or $2.12 a share.

Current Position Unchanged.

Current assets at the end of 1934 amounted to $38,590,613, including cash of $9,385,659, against current liabilities of $5,681,374. This compared with current assets of $34,941,135, cash of $8,021,023, and current liabilities of $5,133,185 at the end of 1933. The current ratio was 6.8 to 1, unchanged from the preceding year.

The company paid dividends amounting to $9,452,614 during 1934, maintaining the quarterly dividend rate of 45 cents a share. Stockholders of the company now exceed 60,000 with approximately 45 per cent of this number holding 10 shares or fewer, 22 per cent owning 11 to 25 shares, 11 per cent holding 25 to 50, 8 per cent having 51 to 100 and 14 per cent holding more than 100 shares. Nearly half the stockholders are women and nearly 3,000 are fool products distributors.

CHICAGO BUTTER RISES TO PREMIUM OVER NEW YORK

Cash butter prices in Chicago went to a premium over New York yesterday as imports continued to depress prices in the east. Heavy imports from New Zealand and other countries have sent stocks of butter in New York nearly four times above reserves in the local market.

Lower prices prevailed for butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. A larger than normal movement of eggs into storage and larger receipts than a year ago carried prices of eggs off ¼ to ⅝ cent per dozen, while butter declined ¼ to ½ cent per pound.

The four leading markets reported nearly double the number of eggs placed in cold storage, compared with a year ago, and retailers are complaining of the relatively high prices asked for fresh receipts. Closing prices on futures were at the lowest levels of the day.

Production of butter the past week, as indicated by the Land o' Lakes report, was 5 per cent in excess of the preceding week, and 19 per cent less than a year ago. Sales of butter futures aggregated 35 cars and eggs 56 cars with 3 cars of eggs delivered on March contracts. Prices follow:

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER; TRADING RANGE IS NARROW

Action of the cotton markets yesterday was in striking contrast with the marked activity during the last week. Prices held within a range of around 15 points, closing slightly higher.

Outside and professional interest was materially curtailed because of the great uncertainty over the government's policy on new crop loans.

Reports from Washington indicated President Roosevelt was not greatly impressed with the suggestion of Senator Smith that the processing tax be removed on cotton in order to aid mills. Trade reports indicated a movement was under way to curtail production of cotton goods by 25 per cent owing to slow demand.

Strong Liverpool cables resulted in a moderate advance in cotton futures early, followed by a reaction on further southern selling, but the close was well toward the top with Chicago showing net gains of 3 points.

Other markets were up 1 to 7 points. Spot cotton gained 5 to 10 points with New Orleans, New York, Galveston, and Houston all quoted at 11 cents per pound. Prices follow:

Would you be interested in starting in business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men were previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shop workers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in net profit—as much as $50 for a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constant, increasing demand.

Now here are our requirements—you must be under 60, preferably married, honest, reliable, present a neat appearance, and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side of Chicago, northern Indiana, or northeastern Illinois.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and, if selected, will be trained at our expense in our methods which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer as we are not asking for rent, light, heat, telephone, girl hire, consign your merchandise and finance your accounts.

Apply between 11 and 1 only, Thursday. Ask for WALTER LEONARD, Director of Personnel, Suite 404, 841 E. 63d-st.

There's an old story—that many a man who could make $7,500 a year or more never gets into that class because he has an inferiority complex. In other words, he's scared out.

There's a good moral to that story. And here's a case in point. I have an opening right now for two good men in electrical unit business with unlimited opportunity. But I can't afford to offer these places to any fellow who would be scared to death if he found he was making a percentage rate of $7,500 a year.

The money is here to be made. Others are making it. If you feel that your ability is below average or that you'll always be in the rut of low-bracket earnings, save your time.

If, on the other hand, you wouldn't mind stepping into the real money class, Apply 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. any day.

Men not able to come in during the day apply Thursday, 8 p. m. sharp.

Mr. Jones, Rm. 618, 203 N. Wabash-av.

YOU WANT PROFITABLE STEADY, DESIRABLE WORK!

I am going to invest some time talking to a man or two who is interested in a permanent connection. This business has grown by leaps and bounds and men who are steady, intelligent workers make a lot of money in it. In this interview our business is not on trial. The adaptability of the man to this business is the point to be considered. We want a man capable of drawing commissions during the next 5 years totaling from $15,000 upward, depending on the man.

Technical knowledge of electrical service and units is not demanded, but the man chosen must be between 25 and 45 and of good character. His work would be on the West Side. Therefore, he must reside West. Come prepared to put in some time with me, and call at 2 P. M. Thursday, March 21, at the Guyon Hotel, 4000 W. Washington-blvd. Ask at desk for Mr. Bentley. Please be on time.

If you have found a cat or dog, a pocketbook, jewelry, or fur, and cannot locate the owner through the "Lost and Found" advertisements in The Tribune, call and go through the "Lost and Found" index at the PUBLIC SERVICE OFFICE, 1 S. DEARBORN-ST.

TO LOSERS.

If you are listed in the telephone directory you can charge an advertisement of your lost article by telephoning Miss Miller of The Tribune ad taking department, Superior 0100. Your advertisement receives the benefit of free listing in The Tribune Public Service office mentioned above for a period of two months. This service facilitates the recovery of lost articles advertised.
